NORTH DAKOTA CHIEF '32 CROP IS DISCONTENT

Expect State to Go for Roosevelt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Beautiful crops are being harvested on the North Dakota prairies, but the biggest crop of all is one of sullen discontent with things as they are, particularly the party in power at Washington.

Everywhere one hears the same story: Farmers have threshed their wheat, have paid for the threshing, and haven't enough money left at the present price of wheat to pay interest and taxes. They get a good crop once every five years. This was the good crop year, but the price leaves the farmers worse off than in poor crop years.

Democrats Exultant.

"Things couldn't be worse; a change might make them better," is the refrain of the farmers' lament wafted to political headquarters from hundreds of villages where the tillers of the soil congregate to do their trading. Hence the air of exultant optimism that pervades the Roosevelt headquarters here and the gloom in the Hoover camp.

It, therefore, looks as if only a political miracle can prevent the four electoral votes of this state going into the Roosevelt column on Nov. 8. Republican managers think they have detected an improvement in Republican prospects since the President's acceptance which evoked much favorable comment as well as comparison with Gov. Roosevelt's speeches to the disparagement of the latter. But even the Republican managers doubt enough votes have been affected thereby to turn the tide of sentiment running against the President. It will take something more potent than that, such as 75 or 80 cent wheat before election day, they concede to halt to the drift to Roosevelt.

G. O. P. Hardly Started.

The Roosevelt headquarters are running full blast, apparently well supplied with money. The Republican campaign has hardly started, with a bare $1,000 so far contributed.

Practically all of the dominant political forces in the state are operating adversely to the President. The Republican primary last June divulged the depth of the antagonism to the administration. Gov. George F. Shafer was a candidate for the nomination for senator. He ran on an administration platform, defending the farm board operations and other Hoover policies. Senator Gerald P. Nye, radical Republican, was a candidate for renomination. He raked the Hoover administration fore and aft. Nye won with 134,000 votes to Shafer's 63,000.

League Claims Neutrality.

At the same time the radical Nonpartisan league nominated every one of its candidates for state offices, a feat never performed before, even in the heyday of Arthur C. Townley's power. The league professes to be keeping its hands off the presidential election and devoting itself to the election of its state ticket, but William Lemke, veteran Nonpartisan league leader who won the Republican nomination for congressman, and other leaguers are openly working for Roosevelt.

It was Lemke's plan for the refinancing of farm indebtedness on easy terms that Roosevelt indorsed in his Topeka speech. Lemke has announced a schedule of 99 speeches he will make in October for Roosevelt, hitchhiking from town to town.

Coöperation Is Sought.

Republican National Committeeman William Stern, who affiliates with the Independent Voters' association, opposition to the Nonpartisan league, has been attempting to effect coöperation with the Republican state committee, dominated by the league, in campaigning for Hoover. But State Chairman O. E. Erickson has been unable or unwilling so far to constitute a committee willing to go to bat for the President. Erickson announced that the state committee would support Hoover, whereupon John Nystul, league campaign manager, announced the league would remain neutral between Hoover and Roosevelt.

One of the phenomena of the primary was the enormous increase in the Democratic vote. It rose to 84,700 compared with the previous high water mark of 13,000 in the 1924 primary while the Republican vote dropped from 125,000 to 93,500.

ANOTHER AUDIT TO SHOW MORE INSULL LOSSES

Millions Dropped in Corp. Securities.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The next Insull receivership report probably will be on the Corporation Securities company, the companion investment concern of the Insull Utility Investments, Inc. Patrick J. Lucey and Raymond J. McNally, the receivers, said last week that they were not quite ready with this report, but hoped to be shortly.

The public's proportionate loss in Corporation Securities is expected to be as large as in Insull Utility Investments. The latter was a $253,000,000 corporation, while Corporation Securities was only $153,000,000. It has been reported that all of the securities in the portfolio of Corporation Securities have been pledged for loans, and that only $30,000 remains in the treasury. However, there seems to be some doubt about this because it is surmised that Corporation Securities had some stocks, as did Insull Utility Investments, which the banks would not accept.

Loans Up to Jan. 1.

The banks up to Jan. 1 had loaned Corporation Securities a total of $15,750,000, and it is reported that they did not increase the amount after that date. The concern had $14,491,502 of other notes outstanding and it is possible that securities, which the banks did not take, were given to the other note holders. So the report may be true that there are no securities left in the Corporation Securities' portfolio.

Including the loans to Corporation Securities, it has been disclosed that the banks loaned Insull companies an aggregate of $104,486,302, distributed as follows:

Companies—	Amount.
Insull Utility Investments	$ 41,585,929
Middle West Utilities	27,610,221
National Electric Power group	20,941,000
Corporation Securities	15,750,000
Mississippi Valley Investments	2,200,000
Total	$104,486,361

Of this, it will be noticed that the two major investment companies—Insull Utilities and Corporation Securities—obtained more than $57,000,000 from the banks.

One Dollar for Six.

For the loans to Middle West Utilities and Insull Utility Investments, the receivers' report to Federal Judge Lindley show that the banks took collateral with a book value of $257,546,828. That is one dollar loaned for approximately every six dollars, in book value, of securities put up as collateral. If that same ratio holds good with reference to loans of the Corporation Securities more than $90,000,000 of its securities, book value, have been pledged to the banks. A very large part, if not all, of the remainder has been pledged for the $14,491,502 obtained on other notes.

In addition, Corporation Securities had borrowed $6,326,112 worth of securities, book value, and a large part of those had been pledged, loaned or placed in syndicate participations at the first of the year.

At that time the management of the company appeared hopeful, according to its balance sheet, that it would continue to operate, because it reserved for loss only one-third of the book value of the securities loaned. The status of its investment securities at that time was represented as follows:

Investment securities—	Amount.
Unpledged	$ 4,591,238.78
Pledged	136,185,839.77
Loaned to affiliated companies	1,536,953.03
Syndicate participations	3,141,674.01
Total	$145,455,705.60

Against this total the balance sheet shows a reserve of $538,471 for loss of securities loaned. In addition to the securities it owned, Corporation Securities pledged $6,326,112 of securities borrowed. So for its loans—$15,750,000 from the banks and $14,491,502 from others—Corporation Securities put up collateral with a book value of $142,511,951.

Show Large Depreciation.

No information was supplied regarding the market value of $6,326,112 of borrowed securities, but it was represented that the market value of the $145,455,705 of securities owned had depreciated to $83,970,332. Later they dropped still lower.

At present the market value of the collateral is probably still lower. True, the quotations of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and of Public Service of Northern Illinois are now higher

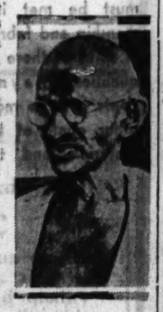
Gandhi Tapers Diet; Girds for Hunger Death

BOMBAY, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, made further reductions in his diet and began abstaining from all physical exercise today in preparation for his "fast unto death."

Having set Tuesday as the day he will begin the fast in protest against plans of the British government for communal representation in Indian government, the Mahatma has been preparing for the event for weeks. It was learned at Yeravda jail at Poona, where he has been held since January, that he has been studying ways to extend his life as long as possible after beginning the hunger strike.



MAHATMA GANDHI.

Hopes for Change.

He declared, however, he still hoped the situation might change and relieve him of the necessity of fulfilling his vow. The only condition on which he offered to withdraw from his plan was abandonment of the British scheme of representation, especially regarding the "depressed classes."

Meanwhile, he has started cutting down his diet of staple foods and milk. He ate only sparingly and between long intervals today. He was also eating less fruit and has eliminated exercise in order to conserve his energy for the fasting period.

May Receive Some Freedom.

It was reported in official circles that he may be granted greater freedom in the prison when the fast begins and that usual restrictions imposed on prisoners will be withdrawn in his case. (Earlier reports were that he would be transferred to a private home for his fast.)

It is believed he will be allowed to hold unsupervised discussions with political leaders who are anxious to help in arriving at a solution of the communal problem.

Dr. Ramji Ambedkar, a leader of India's millions of "untouchables," arrived in Poona and interviewed the British governor of Bombay, but asserted his visit was "purely personal."

Demand European Massacre.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—(AP)—An Exchange telegraph dispatch from Calcutta said revolutionary pamphlets distributed there demanded the wholesale massacre of Europeans. The pamphlets urged all Indians to join in a murder campaign to carry on the work which the national Indian congress failed to do because of its non-violence policy.

'WORLD BURGLAR' IN POLICE CELL, BOASTS OF PAST

Edward Collins, 1311 East 62d street, 52 year old ex-convict whom the police dignify with the title of international burglar, sat in the Hyde Park police station last night and boasted of his past exploits. He laughed over the revenge he took on a noted lock manufacturer.

"This fellow makes the only locks that ever kept me out of houses," Collins related. "But last winter, when I was in Florida, I found that he had a home in Miami. He had forgotten to put his own locks on his doors, so I broke in and got even with him for the trouble he caused me in the past."

Collins was sent to the Joliet penitentiary for burglary about ten years ago and was released in 1930. Three weeks ago Mrs. Harold J. Bradley, 1629 Hyde Park boulevard, described a burglar who had tried to get into her home and the description fitted Collins.

Policeman Thomas O'Donnell and Joseph McCabe arrested him yesterday in his home. Some jewelry and a quantity of narcotics were found in his flat.

Rush Troops to Taylorville After Blasts

BULLETIN.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 19 (Monday.) — Regimental headquarters company, Illinois National Guard, from Decatur, under Capt. Carl Meachem, arrived here at 3 a. m. A half hour later Company C. of Springfield, numbering sixty guardsmen, under Capt. Howard H. Bentley, arrived. The troops were quartered in the courthouse. They are to take charge of the situation growing out of the mine disorders.

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Taylorville citizens today sent county officials to Springfield to ask Gov. L. L. Emmerson to send National Guardsmen here as a result of two bombings, apparently the aftermath of labor difficulties. The governor announced he would send four National Guard officers to make an investigation.

The Daily Breeze building was bombed about 3:30 o'clock this morning, the charge breaking out practically all the windows in the mechanical department and the large front plate glass windows. Little damage was done to the machinery.

Windows Are Shattered.

Just a few minutes after the Breeze building blast another bomb was exploded near the door of the subdistrict office of No. 6, U. M. W. of A., on the second floor of the Durr building, blowing a hole through the floor and knocking out practically all the windows on the second floor.

The bombs used in each of the places were made from a charge of dynamite timed to explode by the use of a fuse.

Floyd Jewell, publisher of the Breeze, published an extra edition shortly after the bombings in which he charged striking miners with responsibility for the violence. Jewell said in his paper that several threats had been made against him and his paper by groups he believed connected with the strikers.

Mr. Jewell made a pilgrimage to southern Illinois a few days ago and reported all the miners in southern Illinois working.

Union Settlement Favored.

The Daily Breeze took the position that the miners should settle their affairs within their own organization rather than attempt to tear down an organization that took years of hard labor to build.

Feeling in Taylorville and the community has been tense since a group of pickets from Springfield were allowed to come to Midland mines and pull all the miners out on strike in protest against the signing of the new mine wage scale.

Call Troops After Double Feud Killing

Manchester, Ky., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Two men were killed, one was wounded and another man and an elderly woman narrowly escaped being shot today as a feud that had its inception during the civil war started anew in the shadows of the Clay county courthouse here. Tonight a detachment of 25 Kentucky National Guard troops patrolled the streets of this little community and authorities voiced apprehension that the trouble was not yet over.

One of the men slain was Commonwealth Attorney Frank H. Baker, 39, of London, Laurel county. The other was identified as John Brockman, about 25 years old, formerly of Breathitt county, Kentucky. The wounded man was Frank Young, 40, who was shot in the left hip.

The shooting started this morning and kept up intermittently for several hours. The fire, authorities said, apparently came from men barricaded in the courthouse.

Walks Outside; Shot Down.

Baker and a group of men went last night to the home of Wiley Baker, 62, the commonwealth attorney's uncle, opposite the courthouse. This morning one of the men in the group said the official walked outside the house after eating breakfast and was shot down, a rifle bullet piercing his body and killing him instantly.

Brockman then rushed out of the house to aid the fallen man and he, too, was killed. Then, authorities were told, Frank Baker's aged mother stepped outside the dwelling, but retreated inside when a bullet whizzed over her head. For several hours shots were fired intermittently at the Baker home, one of the bullets piercing the shoe of Wiley Baker but inflicting no wound.

Assassins Make Escape.

About four hours after Baker was slain the firing ceased and his companions recovered the bodies of the two dead men. The assassins had escaped.

Circuit Judge William C. Lewis of London requested troops and Gov. Ruby Laffoon ordered the militia sent here at once from London.

Tonight the troops were in charge of the town, but authorities said many citizens were walking around armed, fearing further trouble from the feud that has flared from time to time in Clay county with a heavy toll of lives. The troops searched the courthouse but found no trace of the killers.

Feud of Long Standing.

Today's shooting climaxed a series of killings in Clay county which authorities have attributed to a feud of several decades' standing.

Last February Alfred Neal, a Negro, was shot to death on a street here and two months later Police Judge C. P. Stivers, a witness in the Neal case, was fatally shot at the same location.

Seven indictments grew out of these two killings, and state troops were on hand for the special court session held last month for the trials.

One Tried and Acquitted.

Indicted in the Neal killing were Wiley Baker, Hugh Hornsby, 36, and George W. Baker, 33. Hornsby was the only one tried at the special session and a jury acquitted him. The other cases were reset for this month. Four indictments grew out of the Stivers killing, the defendants being Mrs. George Roark, 35; John Baker, 30; Oakley Baker and John Quinn, an attorney.

One of the defendants was arrested several months ago in Cincinnati and fought extradition, saying he would be killed if returned to Manchester. He was ordered returned to Kentucky and was sent to Pineville, Ky., under heavy guard to await disposition of a federal charge against him there.

Commonwealth Attorney Baker did not serve as prosecutor in the Horne by trial, his place being taken by a special prosecutor.

BRITISH REJECT EQUALITY PLEA; BACK FRANCE

Say Allies' Promise Was Vague.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Blunt denial that Germany has any claim in international law to a place of equality in armaments among the signatories of the Versailles treaty was expressed in a cold legal-like document issued by the British foreign office this afternoon. Thus the British took their stand squarely with France.

The Germans, according to the memorandum, still are bound by the statutes to their present and, therefore, inferior position.

At the same time, however, there is offered to Germany another kind of equality, that of substituting for the gun for gun idea of disarmament a different interpretation which is calculated somewhat to soften the blow to German pride.

Recognizes German Claim.

This interpretation provides for recognition of Germany's claim for a distinct reduction of armaments by her former enemies. Although it is not included in today's memorandum, it can be responsibly recorded that the British are angling for Germany to give up the idea of matching other European armies man for man.

What is desired by London is the removal of categorical limitations. For instance, Germany might be offered the right to build heavy tanks which is now forbidden. Or Germany might be permitted to arm herself with whatever caliber guns she desires within the strength now imposed.

It is hoped here that this removes the restriction to which German national pride objects, but the status on arms that Britain is willing to allow Germany at Wednesday's resumption of the disarmament conference is based merely on the effectiveness of each unit rather than the number of units.

Treats Post-War Status.

The extraordinary paper reads like the considered opinion of some exalted and bewigged tribunal. At that it amounts to a legal interpretation of at least the British viewpoint of Europe's post-war constitution — the Versailles treaty, the covenant of the league of nations, the Trianon treaty, and all the other documents establishing post-war European relations.

The document begins with a sound thrashing of Germany's bad manner in raising the question of equality in arms at this time. It continues with such measured courtroom phraseology as might have been the work of the noted barrister, Sir John Simon, secretary of foreign affairs. It points out that Germany's desire to arm herself to the same level as the other powers would have come up at the disarmament conference anyhow.

"Granted that this question of equality of status would have arisen before the conference has concluded its work, there is a grave disadvantage in forcing it to the front at this stage," the memorandum says. "In view of Germany's economic difficulties the initiation of an acute controversy in the political field at this moment must be accounted as unwise.

Calls Demand Untimely.

"And in view of the concessions so recently granted Germany by her creditors it must be accounted as particularly untimely.

"His majesty's government can give no countenance or encouragement to the disregard of treaty obligations. The government desires to associate themselves with the opinion that it could not be maintained as the correct legal construction of the treaty of Versailles that Germany is legally entitled to abrogation of part five of the treaty of Versailles by any disarmament convention to be concluded or by the failure to conclude any convention at all."

The document continues that still less could the manner of other European disarmaments be carried out "in the same manner in which Germany's armaments are limited by part five," which part, incidentally, is included in the separate peace treaty between the United States and Germany.

[Part five of the Versailles treaty contains the military, naval and air clauses and was intended to place Germany in a crippled condition as far as armaments went, in fact limiting her army to 100,000 men.]

Does Not Say When.

Allied disarmament, the memorandum adds, is based "in very general words" on article VIII. of the covenant, which merely says that the vio-torious must disarm, but does not say when. According to this interpretation, Germany traded actual and imposed disarmament at the close of the war for a vague promise of the allies to do likewise without fixing any time limit whatsoever.

It follows that the admission of the moral right to disarm on the part of the allies was not meant to replace all treaties, including not only part five of the Versailles treaty, but the Washington and London naval treaties as well.

Thereby hangs the second and perhaps most important expression of a viewpoint regarding Germany.

"The United Kingdom conceives the object of the disarmament conference to be to frame a disarmament convention upon the principle that each state adopts for itself in agreement with others a limitation, which is self-imposed and freely entered into as a part of the mutual obligations of the signatories to one another," the document says.

No Distinction of Status.

Thus there will be as a result of the convention no distinction of status; every one's armaments will be controlled by the same process; and limitations which already have been prescribed by existing treaties such as various peace treaties or naval treaties of Washington and London will—save so far as they are modified by mutual consent—reappear in a voluntary comprehensive document about to be negotiated at Geneva.

"It will then be this last named document which is an effective obligation binding upon all," the note concludes.

This is interpreted to mean that the defeated central powers which entered into the negotiations are not free agents, but are bound by the Versailles treaty, whereas there are no restrictions on the former allies.

Germany Stands Firm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—"Germans, remember! The enemy stands outside."

This was the headline today in the Nationalist newspaper, Montag, commenting on Great Britain's note rejecting Germany's claim for equality in armaments. The note was handed to Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, by Sir Horace Rumbold, the British ambassador.

Official circles were frankly disappointed by the British statement. Chancellor Franz von Papen's associates assert that the document will not alter Germany's decision to stay away from the disarmament conference until her demands for equality are granted.

"The note is a compromise whereby England seeks to rescue the disarmament conference and fetch Germany back to Geneva," the Montag said. "The English viewpoint is very serious for Germany. To hide this fact would be dangerous for Germany's foreign policy."

"Germany cannot accept the English compromise," it contended. "It is not military sovereignty."

German Envoy Leaves Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Franco-German relations entered a new and perhaps dramatic phase tonight when Leopold von Hoesch, retiring German ambassador to France, left Paris to take a rest cure at a German spa. His departure leaves Germany without a diplomatic representative in France for six weeks, since Von Hoesch's successor, Herr Koester, is not expected here until November.

Deliver Copy to Stimson.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—A copy of the British statement on the German demand for arms equality was presented to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson by the British embassy today. State department officials declined to discuss the matter for publication.

Indications were that the state department views with sympathy the British appeal to Germany not to bolt the Geneva disarmament conference at this time.

GERMAN DRIVE FOR VOTES OPENS ON THREE FRONTS

Ex-Kaiser's Son Stumps for Hitlerites.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Oratorical barrages were laid down on three political fronts today opening the campaign for election of a new reichstag on Sunday, Nov. 6. Government, Social Democrat, and Nazi speakers stressed the aims of their respective platforms.

George Strasser, ranking next to Adolf Hitler in the Nazi organization, told Nazi doctors meeting in Munich that toleration of the Franz Von Papen government prior to the last election cost the Nazis from one million to two million votes.

"If the Nazis are unsuccessful in breaking the government's power this country faces four or five months of bayonet rule which will result in a torn and disjointed people," he declared.

Otto Wels, social Democrat leader, attacked what he termed reactionaries in an address at Leipzig.

"The opposition," he said, "hopes to throw the German people, socially, back to the time of the north German alliance, by beating back social reforms. The day is coming when these words will be true: Hitler died on Von Papen, Von Papen died on democracy and democracy is the winner."

Meanwhile a group of 100 representatives of all classes and vocations was organized in a society to support President von Hindenburg and Chancellor von Papen in their internal and foreign policies. Recruits, described as dissatisfied with present political conditions, were drawn from all sections.

Prince August Wilhelm, son of the former kaiser, told a Berlin audience "Nazis are united in the face of a grave situation; we have the proud consciousness of having done our duty and will continue to support our leader."

GERMANS SEEK IRISH AID IN EQUALITY FIGHT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—The original draft of the British memorandum on German armaments was stiffened, it was learned today, as a result of the discovery that the German government has been making overtures to President Eamon De Valera of the Irish Free State on the issue of an equal status.

The Germans are reported to have asked De Valera, as the next president of the league of nations council, if he would join them and raise the question of the free state's "inequalities" status at the coming meeting at Geneva. Under the Anglo-Irish treaty of 1921 the Free State is forbidden to close her ports to British warships, which are responsible for defending Ireland's coasts.

The disclosure so angered the British ministers, it is said, that they removed certain passages from their note which might have been taken as friendly gestures to Germany.

HOOVER'S APPEAL TO SLASH COSTS GOES UNHEEDED

Pork Barrel Army Posts Still Flourish.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover's appeal for a 500 million dollar reduction in the cost of government for the next fiscal year thus far has not been followed by any new move to cut expenditures by eliminating surplus and pork barrel military posts and navy yards.

Inquiry today disclosed that the failure of the widely heralded drives on last year against the pork barrel yards has had the effect of dampening the enthusiasm of those officers of both services who in the past have urged that surplus activities be abolished in the interest of economy.

Only Two Discontinued.

At the time President Hoover was calling for cuts in navy and army expenditures last year it was announced that both the war and navy departments were conducting surveys to determine what surplus establishments could be eliminated.

Later the navy announced a list of 20 yards and smaller shore properties which it said could be dispensed with. The war department also issued a statement listing 10 large posts, then occupied by troops, which it was proposed to shut down or transfer to other government departments.

Inquiry today disclosed that out of 10 posts which the army announced an intention to close 15 months ago, only two have been discontinued as military forts. Congressional pressure and other causes have contributed to keep troops at forts which the war department placed on its list for disposal.

On May 21, 1931, the war department announced this list of posts for complete disposal: Fort Brown, Texas; Fort Eustis, Virginia; Fort Hunt, Virginia; Camp Harry J. Jones, Arizona; Fort Lincoln, North Dakota; Camp Stephen D. Little, Arizona; Miller field, New York; Fort Missoula, Montana; Fort D. A. Russell, Texas, and Chanute field, Illinois. Forts Eustis and Hunt are the only ones which have been closed.

Arouses Storm of Opposition.

Chanute field, one of those listed for possible disposal, aroused such a storm of congressional opposition that the movement for its abandonment was dropped and arrangements made to spend more funds there. Efforts to close Fort Lincoln are quiescent. Strong political opposition in the south has prevented closing stations there.

Secretary of the Navy Adams had recommended closing down of the Boston, Charleston, and Portsmouth navy yards, the Newport naval training station, the naval station at Key West, the New Orleans naval station, the naval hospital at Boston, and the naval ordnance plant at Baldwin, Long Island. President Hoover did not recommend closing of these stations to congress and they were kept in the budget.

DR. BUTLER TELLS STATE LIQUOR CONTROL PLAN

New York, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—A state liquor traffic authority to control the manufacture, transportation, and sale of liquor following the termination of prohibition was proposed today by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler in an appeal to "public opinion throughout the length and breadth of the land."

The president of Columbia university would fashion the state liquor traffic control authority in accordance with the general provisions of the province of Quebec act. He would have it incorporated and its members appointed by the governor. He proposes that the state be divided into administrative districts coterminus with either judicial or state senatorial districts and that each district have a central storage warehouse with a local administrative officer of high competence.

In his appeal, which is entitled "Outline of Plan for State Liquor Traffic Control Following Repeal of the 18th Amendment," Dr. Butler explains how the liquor traffic authority plan might be applied on a larger scale to adjoining states, such as those of New England, or to a prohibition group such as Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota.

He suggests that the state liquor traffic should not permit the sale of any liquor for consumption on the premises. He believes that the most practical way to reduce the consumption of distilled liquors is to follow the course of Quebec by charging heavily for them while charging low prices for wines and beer.

Unconditional repeal of the 18th amendment is essential to the success of any plan for state liquor control, according to Dr. Butler, who says:

"It is quite idle to talk of a federal guarantee against the 'return' of the saloon. It has only married the speakeasy and taken its wife's name. The 18th amendment has amply demonstrated that the quickest and surest way to induce a man to desire liquor of any kind is to tell him that he cannot have it."

He warns that these questions are so profoundly related to the fundamentals of our government, also to our economic, social, and political order, that they should not "be made the football of purely partisan politics or the plaything of ambitious candidates eager for political office."

IRISH TO PUSH ECONOMIC WAR AGAINST BRITAIN

Drop Effort to Settle Land Annuities Row.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Sept. 18.—President Eamon de Valera left Dublin tonight for London en route to Geneva where it is his turn to preside over the meetings of the league of nations' council. It is unlikely that he will confer with any British ministers in London concerning his controversies with Great Britain.

According to Deputy Little, who spoke at Dungannon today, De Valera expects a sympathetic hearing on Irish "inequalities" at Geneva.

Minister of Finance Sean MacEntee spoke at Cavan today and from his remarks it is deducted that attempts to negotiate with Britain on the land annuities dispute are definitely at an end. The Free State government, MacEntee said, had made strenuous efforts to secure a friendly settlement concerning the nonpayment of annuities by Irish land owners to the former British possessors.

Fight to the Finish.

The minister of finance announced that the government now will mobilize all its resources to bring the tariff war between Ireland and England to a "successful conclusion."

In this connection MacEntee threatened the critics of the government. Referring apparently to Dr. Thomas O'Higgins, founder of the white army and medical officer for County Meath, he said that the government would "end the scandal of public servants identifying themselves with political organizations of semi-military nature."

"We will stop these manifestations of treason and we are ready to face the enemy," MacEntee warned.

[The white army was organized several weeks ago. It is sympathetic to former President William T. Cosgrave and opposed to De Valera. Officially, the white army opposes the spread of communism.

Farmers Told to Pay Up.

Both Minister MacEntee and Minister of Agriculture Dr. James Ryan, who spoke in County Waterford, warned Irish farmers that the land annuities must be paid to the government despite the controversy with England. The annuities, though withheld from Britain, are collected and retained by the Free State government.

The feeling prevails that the government is alarmed at the prospect of a revolt by the farmers and the possibility of a strong Farmers' party entering the next general election.

2 FORMER BELOIT STUDENTS DIE IN AUTO CRASH

Four Others Are Injured in Accident.

Beloit, Wis., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Two graduates of Beloit college were killed and four undergraduates were hurt early today when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into another car at an intersection.

The men killed are Howard Johnson, 23 years old, 449 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park, Ill., and George Files, 24 years old, of Chicago. Both were members of the 1932 class at Beloit. Johnson was active in college dramatics.

William Tyrrell, 18 years old, of Delavan, Wis.; Jack Hersier, 18 years old, sophomore football star, of Moline, Ill.; Dawn Druen, 18 years old, of Kansas City, Mo., and Charles Immig, 19 years old, of Sheboygan, Wis., were the others injured.

The six youths were all members of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity and were on their way to the fraternity house after attending a dance.

All were hurled to the pavement when their car, following the collision, careened against a curb and overturned. The driver of the second automobile, John Keenan of Beloit, was uninjured.

Student activities at the college, including sorority rushing, which was scheduled to begin tomorrow, have been postponed as a result of the tragedy.

AUTO HITS HOUSE; 2 DIE

Two men lost their lives and two others were seriously injured early yesterday when the sedan in which they were riding crashed into the wall of a brick apartment house at 1516 Canalport avenue.

The dead are Otto Kvakil, 35 years old, 1617 West 21st street, driver, and Joseph White, 35, of 1618 West 21st place. Albert Bluth, 34, of 1925 West 22nd place, and Frank Rudney, 23, of 1626 West 21st place, who were in the rear seat, were seriously injured.

Police were unable to find witnesses and all four of the victims were unconscious when Policeman Joseph Mullane of the Maxwell street station chanced upon the scene. Kvakil and White died shortly afterward.

Mrs. Bailey Levin, 90 years old, 4901 North Lawndale avenue, was killed and four others were injured when a front tire of the automobile in which they were riding burst and the car went into a ditch last night in Milwaukee avenue near Lake avenue, in Wheeling township. Although Mrs. Levin suffered only a slight cut on her forehead the shock was too much for her heart, physicians said. The injured are Mrs. Levin's daughters, Mrs. L. Schiff, 3737 Pine Grove avenue, the driver, and Mrs. Anna Garfinkle, 42 years old, who lived with her mother, Mrs. Schiff's daughter, Gladys, 7, and Mrs. Garfinkle's son, Sidney, 5. The injured were taken to the Northwest hospital in Des Plaines.

These deaths and four others raised the Cook county motor death toll for the year to 816. The other victims:

Paul Pejko, 45 years old, 1730 West Huron street. Killed when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Irving Park boulevard in front of Acacia cemetery in Norwood Park. The driver, George E. McKim, 28 years old, 315 Johnson street, Woodstock, was held by the Morton Grove county highway police.

Joseph Beauchamp, 37 years old, 2104 South 6th avenue, Maywood. Died in the Oak Park hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday in collision at Augusta street and Franklin avenue, River Forest.

Oscar Perfect, 57 years old, 3611 South Wells street. Fatally injured while crossing Michigan avenue at 33rd street. The driver, Robert Rockwood, 3744 West 63d street, chauffeur for Mme. Blanche Belloa, 1130 Lake Shore drive, was held.

Unidentified man, about 45 years old. Killed by a motorist who fled at Torrence and Harding avenues, Calumet City. The initials "M. G." were tattooed on the man's arm.

Newsboy Dies in Crash.

Theodore Shapiro, 17 years old, 624 South Genesee street, Waukegan, was fatally hurt yesterday when the motorcycle on which he was delivering papers collided with an automobile in Green Bay road, west of Zion. He died in the Lake County General hospital. Julius Rajcsak, 5320 Windsor avenue, the driver, was freed.

Anthony Moran, 22 years old, 1055 North Shore avenue, stepson of Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan, went to sleep at the wheel of an automobile belonging to the judge and struck a lamp post early yesterday at Howard street and Asbury avenue, Evanston. Moran and Mrs. Mabel McKenna, 23 years old, 4378 Magnolia avenue, were taken to St. Francis hospital, in the suburb, with severe lacerations. They were on their way home from the Orrington hotel in Evanston, where both are employed.

MOST NORTHERN MOVIE FAILS; NO DATES FOR MEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 18.—The only theater in Churchill, Manitoba, on Hudson Bay, the most northern Canadian port, has been closed.

After struggling for a year to keep it going it folded up like an accordion. Movie stars didn't thrill the 500 men camped there on construction jobs. Silent pictures were a flop and talkies failed dismally. Amateur nights did not draw customers either. The sign, "Gents, 50 cents, ladies free," did no good. There are only 15 women in Churchill, all wives of officials.

"What's the good of going to a show if you can't take a girl," the men said, and stayed away.

JUDGE'S AUTO IS STOLEN; MAY BE THIEF'S REVENGE

Municipal Judge J. William Brooks of the Boys' court arose yesterday morning to go to church and found his automobile had been stolen during the night. He had left it in front of his home, 7248 South Euclid avenue.

The possibility that the machine was stolen for revenge was advanced by police, who said the judge has been stern in dealing with automobile thieves. The judge recalled a case in his court Saturday in which he sentenced Sam Rago and Joe Cilndo to one year each in the House of Correction, and sentenced Mike Pulice to 30 days.

"Later some friends of Pulice visited me and sought clemency for him," Judge Brooks said. "I firmly declined and the visitors got quite nasty in their attitude. The taking of my car may be an aftermath of that."

CORP. SECURITIES AUDIT TO SHOW MILLIONS LOST

Practically All Its Stocks Pledged for Loans.

than at the first of the year, but there are other stocks in Corporation Securities' portfolio which are much lower.

The portfolio of this company had 95,626 shares of $6 preferred stock of Insull Utility Investments. It had 29,899 shares of the $5.50 prior preferred and 949,464 of the common stock of Insull Investments. These stocks were pledged at the beginning of the year, and are now practically worthless.

These Insull Utility Investment stocks alone comprised $58,928,100 of the book value of the portfolio. They were represented as having a market value of $7,413,163 on Jan. 1 last, but all of that value has disappeared.

Also in the portfolio at that time were 1,618,283 shares of Middle West Utilities common and 32,397 shares of the $6 convertible preferred stock. Middle West has been in receivership since the middle of April and the market purchasers look upon the stock as practically valueless, although on Jan. 1 these Middle West holdings were put in the last available balance sheet at $11,417,517. The cost of these stocks was reported as $42,714,361.

Offsets Rise in Other Stocks.

In these two classes of stocks alone —Insull Investments and Middle West —the balance sheet showed a book value of $100,672,000 out of a total portfolio of $145,455,000. The wiping out of the $11,417,000 of market value ascribed to Insull Investments and Middle West stocks probably offsets the increased market quotations for Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois —the three other chief stocks in the portfolio.

The book value of these three stocks in Corporation Securities was $34,670,658 and the market value at the first of the year was only $13,533,000, according to the company report.

Eighty thousand shares of stock of these three companies were purchased by Samuel Insull from Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland steel man. The distribution to Corporation Securities was as follows:

Securities—	Shares.	Cost.
Commonwealth Edison	42,900	$15,015,000
Peoples Gas	30,300	10,605,000
Public Serv. of Nor. Ill.	6,800	2,380,000
Totals	80,000	$28,000,000

Cause Serious Trouble.

It was this deal, some financiers assert, which brought Samuel Insull, ruler of the investment trusts, his most serious troubles. Cyrus Eaton and his associates had collected 160,000 shares of these three major Insull companies. Samuel Insull was apparently afraid that Eaton would take control of the three properties, so Insull bought the Eaton stock at an upset price of $350 a share. He divided them equally between the Insull Investments and Corporation Securities.

In return the Eaton group took $11,554,440 in stock of the two companies and the remaining $44,444,560 in cash. Insull went out to raise the money. He borrowed on the stocks in the portfolio and also on the stocks acquired. As the market went down, he was called on again and again for more collateral, until there were no securities left in the portfolio of either company except those which the banks would not accept.

Begins Borrowing Stocks.

When the banks insisted upon more collateral the borrowing and loaning of securities on a large scale started between these two investment trusts, their subsidiaries, the Middle West Utilities, and the Mississippi Valley Investment company, according to the auditors' report made public so far.

About this time Samuel Insull attempted the difficult task of pegging the market for the stocks of his companies which had been put up as collateral. If he could have kept the market price up he would not have had to put up so much collateral with the banks.

So the loaning and borrowing of securities between the companies started to margin accounts at stock brokers' offices. Finally Mr. Insull could get no more securities to pledge. That was about last December. His crash followed, which has brought distress, trouble, or ruin to 176,578 stockholders of Insull Utility Investments, Corporation Securities, and Middle West Utilities, as well as to 282,309 stockholders of the Middle West subsidiaries.

PROSECUTORS READY TO DIG INTO RECORDS OF INSULL AFFAIRS

Four assistant prosecutors assigned by State's Attorney Swanson to investigate the tangled financial affairs of the Insull holding and investment corporations, reported yesterday that they had made arrangements to go over records now in possession of federal court receivers and auditors.

They are to start on the records of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Middle West Utilities company, they said. The question also arose of the possibility of prosecution if it could be shown that stock sales were made through either Samuel Insull or his brother, Martin, after they knew the corporations in which stock was sold were insolvent.

Assistant Prosecutors John Hampton, John O'Hora and Voyle Johnson are to search these records while Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor, extradition expert, is to report today to Mr. Swanson on the status of extradition treaties with France and Canada. Samuel Insull is in Paris and Martin Insull is in Prilla, Ont.

HOOVER TO MAKE TWO SPEECHES IN MIDDLE WEST

Plan to End Campaign in Glory Blaze.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—President Hoover will make at least two speeches in the west and one in the east as his contribution to the campaign for his reelection, it was disclosed at the White House tonight following a hastily called conference of Republican chieftains.

The disclosure that the President's plans had been changed to provide an additional appearance in the middle west was made by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, when he emerged from the White House tonight after a four hours' discussion of the political situation.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, headliner of the speaking campaign, and Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley participated in the parley around the dinner table.

Plan a Vigorous Campaign.

According to Chairman Sanders such a vigorous speaking campaign will be carried on during the next seven weeks that at its conclusion, the night before the November 8 election, there will be no doubts remaining of the President's re-election. He predicted that, not only would President Hoover be sent back to the White House for another four year term, but that Maine would be among the states carried by the national ticket.

In lifting the curtain from at least a part of the Republican campaign program Chairman Sanders said that no plans had been made for President Hoover to make an extended barnstorming campaign. He said that so far as he knew now there will be no departure from the President's plan to confine his away from Washington appearances to three speeches. In reply to a question as to whether the President would go to the coast, he said that he could not answer that question.

He gave the distinct impression, however, that President Hoover has decided against any extended trips which would necessitate long absence away from his desk in Washington.

It was almost midnight when doormen threw open the White House doors and the secretary of war accompanied by Mrs. Hurley emerged and started for his car. Mr. Hurley was affable but not talkative. A moment later the expansive and well fed Mr. Sanders and Secretary Mills came out together.

"We are going to carry on a vigorous speaking campaign from now until election time," Mr. Sanders said in response to questions.

"What about the President's plans?"

"It's a little early to tell you definitely as to exactly what the President will do.

Doubt on Coast Trip.

Pressed for an answer Chairman Sanders said that in his opinion the President would adhere to the program he had mapped out some time ago and deliver three speeches.

"He will make two speeches in the west and one in the east," Mr. Sanders said. "I do not know of any plan for him to go to the coast."

"What about the progress of the campaign?" a reporter asked.

Mr. Sanders paused a moment.

"There has been a steady sweep favorable to the Republican cause beginning with the President's acceptance speech and the opening of the vigorous campaign that is now under way to bring forcibly to the people of the country the doctrines he enunciated in that address."

"When that educational campaign is effectively accomplished there will be no doubt of the President's reelection," Mr. Sanders added.

"What about Maine?"

"We will carry Maine," retorted the Republican chairman as he entered Secretary Mills' car for the ride back to his hotel.

Sanders came to Washington especially for the White House conference tonight and will return to Chicago tomorrow.

Expect Coolidge Speech.

Chairman Sanders declined to give out the complete list of Republican speakers, but said Secretary Mills was being pressed to make more speeches than he has already contracted to deliver. The secretary expects that former President Calvin Coolidge will make at least one address. The other speakers will be recruited largely from the cabinet and from congress.

The President's major speech in the west will be on the farm problem. This address may be delivered in Chicago, Minneapolis, or possibly Topeka. Mr. Sanders said the places where the speeches were to be made had not been decided. The eastern speech is slated for New York City. One official close to the President said that it is possible that the President may spend from five to eight days in the west when he leaves the White House to present his case to the American people.

CORDONA, CIRCUS AERIALIST, WEDS IN SAN ANTONIO

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Alfredo Cordona, circus aerialist whose first wife, Lillian Leitzel, was killed in a fall from a trapeze in Copenhagen in February, 1931, married Miss Vera Bruce here today.

The ceremony was performed in a hotel before a large crowd of circus performers and delegates to the national convention of the Circus Fans of America by District Judge R. B. Minor.

Miss Bruce, whose life work consists of being tossed about the top of the great circus tent by fellow members of her team, appeared to be shivering with stage fright as she took her place beside Cordona before an improvised altar.

RECORD THRONG ATTENDS RALLY OF DEMOCRATS

Senator David I. Walsh Praises Roosevelt.

A crowd estimated by Democratic leaders at 200,000 gathered yesterday in Riverview park for the rally that formally launched the party's campaign in Chicago. Rally managers said the throng was the greatest that had ever assembled for a similar event. Thousands massed around the speakers' stand and an amplifying system carried the speeches to other thousands throughout the park.

The principal speakers were Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee for the governorship, and Mayor Cermak. The crowd was enthusiastic in its reception of all three and there was cheering when Senator Walsh spoke in praise of the mayor and Judge Horner, as well as of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the party's presidential nominee.

Brings Roosevelt's Thanks.

The senator's address had been awaited with interest by Democratic leaders in Chicago because of his close affiliations with Alfred E. Smith, both before and during the Democratic national convention, where he was one of the leaders in the fight to nominate Smith. Walsh recently has taken the stump for Gov. Roosevelt in the east, but this was his first speech for the nominee in the middle west.

Senator Walsh opened his address with a message of thanks from Gov. Roosevelt to Illinois Democrats for the "magnificent work done here in behalf of his campaign." Then he launched into words of praise for the presidential nominee.

"Gov. Roosevelt is a great militant leader, a man of highest honesty, unimpeachable integrity, and an enemy of corruption in government," the senator said. "He is a man of the people, who stands for a progressive government and who, if placed in the White House, will make one of the greatest Presidents this country ever had.

Predicts Hoover Defeat.

"Mr. Hoover is a repudiated public official because he allied himself with selfish interests against the people. The Republicans are responsible for the stock market debacle and for minimizing its consequences. In November the people will cast Mr. Hoover aside, saying, 'We want a new deal,' and the Democrats will govern us for the next four years.

"In this campaign we are asking for a new freedom, an economic liberty that will give us the right to work and to earn, the right to know that our money is safe when we place it in banks, and the right to know when we invest our money in securities, that those securities are of sound value."

In concluding his speech Senator Walsh turned his attention to Mayor Cermak and Judge Horner. Of the mayor he said: "In the east we have watched with pride the magnificent manner in which he has responded to the call of Chicago citizens. His ability has received national recognition."

"Judge Horner," the senator declared, "is genuine, honest, and able. I like him."

Horner Forecasts Victory.

Judge Horner, in his address, predicted success for the Democratic state ticket in November, pledged himself anew for a reduction of Illinois taxation, and assailed Republican campaign tactics.

"We will not let the Republican leaders whisper themselves into the governor's manion as they whispered Al Smith out of the presidency four years ago," he said. "Never before were the people so aroused. Republican voters are joining with Democrats to remove the faithless Republican leaders.

"My trips have convinced me that in November downstate will send our ticket to the Cook county line with a majority of 300,000, and the voters there challenge Cook county to do as well.

"The people in this state know that the admiral cruising on our waterways in a government boat paid for by government taxes ruined the city's treasury and the name of Chicago. They are behind Mayor Cermak the same as you are."

Cermak Hits Dry Law.

In his speech Mayor Cermak urged the party to unite behind its ticket which, he said, has the courage to do something about prohibition.

"Under prohibition," he said, "taxes have increased fourfold, the city has lost $200,000,000 in revenue, new jails have been built, the police force has been increased by 2,000 men, and the price of beer has gone up from 5 to 25 cents.

"Canadians boast of selling us $300,000,000 worth of liquor each year that they have knowledge of. The sales, undoubtedly, are much larger."

Before the speakers appeared on the platform a number of candidates on the ticket were introduced, among them William H. Dieterich, nominee for United States senator; Thomas J. Courtney, candidate for state's attorney, and John C. Martin, candidate for state treasurer.

Judge Horner's Itinerary.

Judge Horner will begin his second week of active campaigning today with speeches scheduled at Macomb and Canton. His itinerary for the remainder of the week follows: Tuesday, Havana and Lincoln; Wednesday, Clinton and Decatur; Thursday, Effingham and Fairfield; Friday, Mount Vernon, Nashville, and Belleville; Saturday, Vandalia and Centralia; Sunday, a day of rest at Breese in Clinton county.

These places have been selected for Judge Horner's formal speeches, but they do not represent his entire schedule of stops. Last week he rarely passed any village without reverting to his favorite form of campaigning —personal visits with the voters in their homes or their places of business.

VOTE TOMORROW IN PRIMARY IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Mass., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Seven of Massachusett's congressmen who seek reelection in November will be opposed for renomination in next Tuesday's primaries. Seven others have no opposition within their party, and in one district the retirement of a congressman left the field open to all newcomers.

Probably the outstanding fight in the congressional field will be that in the 9th district where Congressman Robert Luce will be opposed by Ralph W. Robart of Cambridge and William H. Murphy of Brookline. Robart is a prohibition repealist. Luce recently announced his support of the Republican platform plank on this question.

In the same district, which has long been Republican and where sentiment has been expressed lately as strongly in favor of repeal, 11 Democrats seek their party's nomination.

Ranking with the congressional competitions in importance is the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. There are four candidates: Lieut. Gov. William S. Youngman; Frank A. Goodwin, chairman of the Boston finance commission; E. Mark Sullivan, former corporation counsel for Boston, and Walter E. Brownell of Boston.

Gov. Joseph B. Ely, who placed Alfred E. Smith's name before the 1932 Democratic national convention, is unopposed for renomination.

Wilmette Schools Raise $5,000; Will Open Today

The five public schools of Wilmette will open this morning on $5,000 received from pledges of $25,000 by residents of the suburb. Supt. of Schools J. H. Harper yesterday said he hoped to obtain enough additional cash from the pledges to insure operation of the schools to the first of the year. School officials have been seeking to raise $80,000 to operate the schools a year. Each parent was asked to subscribe $10 a month per child for five months. Only $25,000 has been pledged thus far.

ADMIRAL CRITICALLY ILL ON BATTLESHIP REACHES SAN DIEGO

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Bearing Vice Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, critically ill, the U. S. S. West Virginia arrived off Point Loma today and transferred the stricken officer to the mine sweeper Robin, which rushed him to the naval hospital here.

Admiral Pringle, who commands the battleship divisions of the battle force was brought from Puget sound aboard his flagship, which made the 1,500 mile run under forced draft. Dr. Arthur B. Cecil, Los Angeles specialist, awaited him here.

The only statement issued by physicians was that "Admiral Pringle has been admitted to the hospital. His condition is serious."

ARREST SLAYER OF BOY, 15, SHOT STEALING MILK

Charles Kehoe, 37 years old, an engineer in a city pumping station, was arrested yesterday after a rifle shot he fired at boys stealing milk from his back porch at 5210 South Peoria street had caused the death of Francis Howley, 15 years old, 5013 South Halsted street.

Three 17 year old companions of young Howley also were arrested. They are George Fix, 825 West 49th place; James Brooks, 422 East 81st street; and John Cannon, 5830 South California avenue. They set out to steal the milk as a prank while on their way home from a party.

Kehoe told police he thought the boys were men trying to break into his garage. He notified the Stockyards police as soon as he had shot and the boys had fled. The bullet, from a .22 caliber rifle, struck young Howley in the leg and severed an artery.

He collapsed after companions had assisted him for several blocks.

SAY ROOSEVELT OPPOSES BONUS PAYMENT NOW

Managers Advise Him to Keep Silent on Issue.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

En Route with Roosevelt, Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 18.—[Special.]—Although Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt has turned aside all efforts to induce him to state his position on the immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus, it is generally understood that he is opposed to it.

Many times during the stops on the governor's expedition into the west he has been asked to declare himself, but he has gone no farther than to shake his head.

Newspaper men frequently have asked him to discuss the bonus, particularly at the time of the convention of the American Legion at Portland and when Al Smith in a magazine article declared both presidential candidates should state their positions on the bonus frankly and immediately.

Call It Political Strategy.

Some of his advisers have urged the governor, it is reported, that it would be best for him not to announce any stand on this stressful issue during the whole campaign.

The advisers consider this good political strategy in that none of the proponents of the bonus and none of its antagonists will be aware of the governor's views and consequently will not oppose him. The Roosevelt managers have also proferred other reasons for the governor to maintain neutrality.

But whatever action may be taken during the campaign, and the demands for the governor to announce his position may grow and become insistent to the point where he will be compelled to answer, it is generally reported from the Roosevelt board of strategy that he will come out against immediate payment.

Pay When Government Can.

The fartherest that the governor may be expected to go, according to reliable sources, would be for him to take the position that payment of the bonus should be made when and if the financial condition of the federal treasury permits it, expressing his opinion at the same time that payment now or in the immediate future is economically impossible.

The Roosevelt advisers believe that when the end of the present fiscal year is reached it will be found that instead of coming out with a balanced budget, as had been promised by the administration, the government will be confronted with a new deficit of nearly a billion dollars.

Under such a condition, with the new nuisance taxes having failed to produce enough revenue to come anywhere near to balancing the budget, it is considered certain that Mr. Roosevelt, if elected president, would not only use his influence to prevent the passage of a bonus payment bill by congress, but would veto one if it was passed.

Once Said He Opposed It.

It has been erroneously stated that the governor never has stated his attitude toward the bonus demand. Prior to his nomination, in an interview with a newspaper writer, he expressed a definite position against immediate payment.

Since that time the American Legion has gone overwhelmingly on record for payment; President Hoover has redeclared himself against it; the bonus army has descended upon Washington and been routed by United States army forces. Some of these happenings may have caused Mr. Roosevelt to change his mind, but the best reports are that he has not done so.

On the other hand, it is stated that the governor does consider the bonus as a moral obligation of the government, and he is said to feel that if conditions come to warrant payment, and it can be made without crippling the treasury, he will then advocate payment, and will not force the veterans to wait until their adjusted compensation certificates fall due in 1945.

On Way to Montana.

The schedule of the Roosevelt trip took the governor and his party—to which several high moguls of Democracy have been added temporarily—out of Salt Lake this evening into Ogden and Pocatello, Idaho, for short stops, and then overnight to Butte, Mont.

United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, permanent chairman of the Democratic convention at Chicago, flew into Salt Lake this afternoon to accompany Gov. Roosevelt into Montana. National Committeeman J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, another Roosevelt leader in the convention fight, has been with the party for two days.

Governor Goes to Church.

While the governor and his son and daughter, James Roosevelt and Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, and Mrs. James Roosevelt spent a quiet Sunday—going to religious worship at St. Paul's Episcopal church—most of his advisers and virtually all the newspaper correspondents went for a float in the salty Salt lake. Big James A. Farley, the Roosevelt campaign manager and national chairman, folded his hands over his paunch and stretched out peacefully on the water surface as a kindly sun sent down warm rays.

It was understood that Mr. Farley and National Treasurer Frank C. Walker, who joined the party yesterday, are worried, as is the governor, about conditions in California, where factional disputes have left the Democratic forces at loggerheads. Edward J. Flynn, Bronx leader and secretary of state in New York, another Roosevelt strategian, will fly to San Francisco to join the force and to yield has brains also to the effort to smooth out the California ruction.

CHARGE ROOSEVELT 'CRIBBED' RAILROAD PLANS FROM HOOVER

Charges that in his speech on railroads Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for President, practically adopted the recommendations of President Hoover were made yesterday by Senator James E. Watson and Representative Bertrand H. Snell. The statements of the two Republican congressional leaders were released by Republican national committee headquarters in Chicago. They stated that every item of the Roosevelt proposal was "cribbed" from the Hoover program.

NORTH DAKOTA'S CHIEF '32 CROP IS DISCONTENT

State Is Expected to Go for Roosevelt.

are not expecting to carry the election for any major candidate except Roosevelt. The nonpartisan league leaders are instructing voters how to split their ticket and vote for Roosevelt and the league state candidates and the Democratic managers are not antagonizing the league by unduly pressing the fight on behalf of rival Democratic nominees.

Nye Appears Safe.

Thus it falls out that Senator Nye is sure of reelection at least so long as he refrains from aiding and abetting the reelection of Mr. Hoover. His Democratic opponent has challenged him to indorse Mr. Hoover but to no avail. The senator continues to assail Hoover policies without mentioning the President by name.

The initiative and referendum are being resorted to in this state to cure the evils of the times. Upon the initiative of the State Taxpayers' association the voters in June passed a law cutting the basis for real estate tax assessments from the former 75 to 50 per cent of the valuation, which has operated to enforce economies in state and local government. Another initiated law cut the salaries of county officers 20 per cent and their mileage allowances from 25 to 50 per cent. Further economies are proposed in initiated measures to be voted on in November.

Moratorium Is Defeated.

A five year moratorium on foreclosures of mortgages was defeated in June. A three year moratorium on payment of principal, interest, and taxes will be voted on in November.

An initiated law passed in June outlaws crop mortgages. As a result the farmers are unable to procure the federal seed and feed loans and are moving for repeal of the law by initiative in November.

Another effort will be made by the wets in November to procure repeal of the prohibition article of the state constitution in which they failed in 1928 by 6,000 votes. The Anti-Saloon league leaders are not hopeful of defeating the move, complaining of lack of funds.

TOLL OF SLAIN FIVE AFTER SECOND FIGHT WITH OUTLAW GANG

Muskogee, Okla., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Five men, two officers and three outlaws, are dead as a result of pistol fights growing out of the slaying of Mrs. Susie Sharp, a motorist, in a holdup on a mountain road two weeks ago.

Two were shot down in a clash in the Cookson hills early Saturday. Three were wounded fatally in a second engagement today.

Deputy Sheriff Webster Reece and Bud McClain, 28 year old farmer, were killed Saturday when the officer attempted to arrest four men suspected of the Sharp murder.

Andrew McGinnis, Muskogee special deputy sheriff, and Ky Carlisle and Troy Love, outlaws, died today as possemen closed in determined to avenge the shooting of Reece. A Claremore deputy sheriff, Hurt Flippin, was wounded seriously.

Posses continued the search tonight for a man they believed to be the fourth member of the bandit gang. Officers identified Carlisle, a notorious bank robber, as the leader.

SHOW CROOKS WITH RECORDS GET PROBATION

Recaptured Bandit Faces Judge Kelly Today.

Additional histories of criminals who have been granted probation by Judge James J. Kelly, who is today to pass upon a petition by State's Attorney Swanson to cancel probation for a confessed robber, were made public yesterday at the police bureau of identification.

The records show that clemency has been granted to defendants guilty of assaulting women in robbing them, and to defendants who committed many crimes before being caught. It is also shown that charges have been changed to permit probation which was prohibited by law under the original charges.

List from Crime Commission.

The Chicago Crime commission, which quoted Judge Kelly as saying he was the easiest judge on the bench, listed the names of his probationers to which the police data were added.

On Aug. 12 Judge Kelly granted probation to Ralph Trimble, St. Clair McInerny and George Dilley, shotgun robbers who confessed taking part in four holdups. Prosecutor Swanson contended Judge Kelly has assumed jurisdiction not conferred by statute, and that his erred in giving probation to men who pleaded guilty to several crimes, particularly in instances where more than $200 was taken in a robbery. Judge Kelly overruled Swanson but revoked the probation given McInerny and Dilley, who were rearrested after Judge Kelly freed them. The court also ordered a warrant issued for Trimble, who was recaptured last Friday. His case comes up today.

Police Records are Cited.

The Crime commission said Judge Kelly had used his discretion in other cases to which exception might be taken, including the following from police records:

CHARLES EDWARDS, colored, 1435 South State street. Manslaughter. On Dec. 16, 1930, Edwards set fire to a building at 1506 South State street, and George Lawrence, who was sleeping in the building, was burned so severely that he died in St. Luke's hospital. Edwards was tried before Judge Kelly Feb. 13, 1931, and was granted probation for one year. Probation is not permitted on a conviction of manslaughter, it was shown.

PERRY HOPKINS, 23 years old, colored, 1159 Milton avenue. On April 3, 1932, Hopkins with two unidentified men robbed Nellie Thompson, 714 Division street, a white woman, in front of 660 Division street, getting $16. Money not recovered. At his trial before Judge Kelly June 10, 1932, Hopkins was granted probation for 1 year on a finding of guilty of robbery.

RUBY HUBANKS, 23 years old, colored, 543 Browning street. Three charges of robbery. Tried before Judge Kelly June 17, 1932, and put on probation for one year; finding of robbery. Previous record: March 12, 1929, fined $20 as inmate of disorderly house; Aug. 11, 1931, probation for one year on charge of larceny by bailee; Judge Edelman.

JOHN PASAWICZ, 29 years old, 2007 Sedgwick street. Burglary. On Dec. 24, 1930, about midnight, Pasawicz broke through wall of the store of Henry Kran, 939 Webster avenue, and stole cigars and cigarets valued at $340, 50 blank American Express money orders, and $7.79 in cash. Cigars and cigarets recovered. Tried before Judge Kelly March 27, 1931, and granted probation for one year on a plea of guilty to burglary. Previous record: March 24, 1921, sent to Bridewell for one year and fined $200 for contributing to delinquency and pandering. On Jan. 18, 1921, Pasawicz took a 16 year old girl to the room of Anthony Lasko, 855 Milwaukee avenue, kept her there three weeks, and brought several other men to the room. On March 4, 1932, Pasawicz was granted probation for one year by Judge Eberhardt on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

FRED THOMAS, 17 years old, 128 South Homan avenue. Robbery with a gun, four charges. Tried before Judge Kelly on July 12, 1932, and put on probation for one year on each of two robbery charges after pleas of guilty.

GEORGE T. BELL, 42 years old, 1816 North Clark street. Embezzlement. Employed by Greyhound Management company as agent, and took about $1,854 of company's money. Trial before Judge Kelly Feb. 14, 1931. Probation for one year on plea of guilty to embezzlement. On Dec. 1, 1931, warrant issued for violation of probation. [The crime commission said embezzlement of over $200 is nonprobationable.]

WILLIAM JONES, 29 years old, colored, 558 East 50th street. Robbery with a gun. On April 6, 1932, Jones with two unidentified men held up with guns Philip Kornick in his store at 6503 Rhodes avenue, getting $7. Trial before Judge Kelly July 15, 1932.

At the offices of the adult probation department it was said that full information concerning the previous records of the criminals was furnished to Judge Kelly before he passed on the applications for probation.

WADES IN YACHT BASIN; SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH

John Spaulding, 63 years old, a resident of the Hyde Park hotel, waded waist deep in the model yacht basin at the outer drive and 52d street yesterday and ended his life by shooting himself in the head. He was taken to the Illinois Central hospital by a passing motorist, where he died.

Police found a note in his room addressed to a niece, Mrs. Henry Clausen, 5106 Kenwood avenue, which stated he was suffering from a chronic ailment.

Mrs. Clausen told police she thought her uncle to have been a representative of a California lumber company and had lived on the coast until three years ago. His widow and a sister live in Ione, Cal., she said.

HUGE CALENDAR AWAITS OPENING OF CIVIL COURTS

30 Judges End Summer Vacations Today.

The halls of civil justice in Cook county will open today when 30 judges of the Circuit and Superior courts return to begin the fall term of hearings, after a summer vacation of 10 weeks. The jurists are faced with one of the largest calendars of cases ever recorded here.

An unprecedented number of foreclosures and other law suits instituted during the summer has left the clerks of both courts with full calls of new cases. These, with the court actions undisposed of during the last five years, amount almost to 40,000 cases in all.

13,000 Chancery Cases.

In the Circuit court Judge William V. Brothers as head of the chancery division, and Judge Joseph Burke, Harry M. Fisher, and Hugo M. Friend, who returns to the court after service with the Appellate court, will have on their rolls 13,000 pending chancery cases. Judge David M. Brothers as head of the common law division, with Judges John R. Caverly, Stanley H. Klarkowski, Denis J. Normoyle, George F. Rush, Thomas Taylor Jr., and Daniel P. Trude will hear 3,100 pending law suits. Judge Philip J. Finnegan, chief justice of the court, will hear 3,000 divorce, annulment, and separate maintenance suits.

The chancellors in the Superior court are Judges William J. Lindsay, Robert E. Gentzel, and Denis E. Sullivan, head of the division. They will have 16,700 cases on their calendars. Twelve common law calendars totaling 5,300 cases will be heard by Judges Marcus Kavanagh, Joseph P. David, Worth E. Caylor, John P. McGoorty, Peter M. Schwaba, Michael McKinley, Harry B. Miller, Charles A. Williams, John H. Fitch, E. I. Frankhauser, Walter T. Stanton, and Walter P. Steffen, head of this division.

5,500 Divorce Actions.

Judges James J. Kelly and Joseph Sabath will hear 5,500 separation and divorce suits now pending.

One of the first duties of the Circuit judges is the acceptance in formal meeting of the resignation of John Bain, convicted of conspiracy in connection with the crash of his twelve banks, from the south park board. A bitter fight over the successor is expected between the Deneen Republicans and the Crowe-Galpin Republican factions.

In neither the County nor Probate courts did the vacation period cause any cessation of business.

80 YEAR OLD MAN STRUCK BY CAR.

Petersburg, Ind., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—George Pancake, 80, who was struck by an automobile at Arthur last night and suffered a scalp wound and fractured skull, is still unconscious and is in a serious condition at a hospital in Winslow.

RELATIVES SPURN GIRL ARRESTED IN STOLEN AUTO

Police puzzled yesterday over what they are to do with Lois Harlan, 15 years old, of Rock Island, whom they arrested Saturday in the company of two young automobile thieves and placed temporarily in the Juvenile home. A telegram to relatives of the girl brought the response that they are not interested in her predicament.

Lois was arrested with Walter Carroll, 19 years old, of Savanna, for whose father she had been working as a housekeeper, and Herbert Baur, 20 years old, of Burlington, Ia. The boys stole the automobile in which they were riding in Burlington and intended to sell it in Chicago to get money so that Carroll might marry Lois, they said.

The two boys were turned over to a deputy sheriff from Burlington yesterday and sent back there to face charges of stealing the car and holding up a filling station.

LEGISLATORS AND RELIEF MEMBERS TO CONFER TODAY

Hope to Agree on Program for Assembly.

Something definite in the way of a legislative program for unemployment relief is expected to be worked out today when a committee of fourteen members of the state senate and house meets with representatives of the emergency relief commission at the home of E. L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the relief commission.

E. L. RYERSON JR.

Meanwhile, a warning came from Springfield that unless an agreement is reached at this conference the present special session of the legislature will be a failure. The discussion is expected to center on the Meents bill which would permit each county to care for its own needy through the issuance of bonds, to be redeemed later through the county's allocation of gasoline tax money.

Has No Recommendations.

Chairman Ryerson said he has no recommendations to offer the legislators. Some of his associates, however, are said to doubt that the Meents bill would work out satisfactorily and do not regard it as the solution of Cook county's problem.

Mr. Ryerson said he and his associates look upon this meeting as a means of enlightening the legislators on the dire need for funds. They will answer questions and describe the Cook county situation, he said, but they will not offer any measures for adoption by the assembly. These already have been submitted, he added.

It is understood that downstate solons will not vote for an additional tax on gasoline. The proposed sales tax also is objectionable to them. Under the Meents plan each county would look after its own indigent through the sale of nonreferendum bonds, but whether the sum said to be needed in Illinois—$36,373,000—can be obtained in this way is said to depend upon the attitude of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

County Must Have Help.

Members of the relief commission recalling President Hoover's assertion that the government has set up machinery to help but that each community should do its own part to see that no one goes hungry, pointed out that Cook county is willing to vote aid but is unable to sell its bonds. Therefore, they added, Chicago must be assisted by the passage of the Meents bill and the sale of the bonds to the R. F. C.

The commissioners will advise the legislators that Cook county's funds for relief will be exhausted this week. As the assembly doesn't meet until Sept. 27, it was reported that the senators and representatives might go to Washington to get the views of the R. F. C. on the Meents bill. In the event it is acceptable to the government they would ask an immediate advance of cash pending passage of the bill.

CALL FARMERS' GENERAL STRIKE FOR TOMORROW

Leaders Appeal to West and South to Act.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 18.—(AP)—A general selling holiday seeking higher farm prices was ordered to begin in all agricultural states of the middle-west and south at midnight Sept. 20 by the executive council of the National Farmers' Holiday association in a meeting here today.

The non-selling campaign is to apply only to grain and livestock the leaders of the movement decided. Perishable farm produce such as cream, butter and eggs, are not to be withheld from markets.

Try Plan for 30 Days.

If at the end of a 30 day period the price is not equal to the cost of their production, the perishable products likewise will not be sold, the council members declared.

In one resolution, the council declared that the picketing operations conducted in the Sioux City vicinity for the last five weeks had served a purpose, but advocated that further picketing be discontinued forthwith.

By picketing, the sympathizers of the holiday movement have tried to keep farm goods from being marketed in the belief that prices consequently would rise.

Last week Sioux City and Woodbury county officials asked Gov. Turner to send units of the Iowa National Guard to this territory to clear highways of pickets. They said the situation was becoming serious, because markets were suffering acutely from declining receipts and that city workers were being thrown out of employment.

Work to Enlist All in Strike.

Instead of picketing the farm holiday leaders suggested that the farmers make every effort to enlist the support of all farmers in the movement.

Although expressing opposition to picketing, the council advocated placing observers on highways to list the names of farmers who continue to market their grain and livestock during the holiday period.

In a second resolution, the council urged farmers to organize in various communities and employ "all their persuasive powers against foreclosures and evictions this fall and winter."

WIFE DIES OF BULLET WOUNDS.

25,000 TO START EVENING SCHOOL COURSES TONIGHT

Twenty-five thousand students ranging in age from 16 to 70 will start courses tonight at the public evening schools. Classes will be conducted at the Lake View, Schurz, Austin, Crane, Englewood, and Fenger school buildings.

Crane night college this year will keep in step with the most modern trends of science and industry, according to Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools.

Students at Crane will begin a study of refrigeration, its history, theory and types. This course will be followed by a class in air conditioning, stressing the cooling of air during the summer time in offices, apartment buildings, homes and industrial plants.

Other innovations will be courses on sound pictures and television.

Nearly 1,000 foreign born pupils will go into Americanization classes where they learn to read, write, and speak English, study history and civics, and prepare to take out citizenship papers.

The evening high schools give credit for the courses, hour for hour, as in the day high school.

Town Hall police learned that she had been despondent over the absence of her husband, Phillip, who is employed in Oruba, Dutch West Indies, by a petroleum company. He had been sending her $100 a month, police learned.

The body of Elgin Lutes, 30 years old, 11937 Wentworth avenue, was brought to Chicago yesterday from Gary, where he was drowned Saturday evening after a small outboard motorboat capsized. Lutes, under the impression that his fiancée, Miss Wanda Bergholm, 24 years old, 2105 Larrabee street, had been carried out into the lake after the boat had overturned, swam out to rescue her and lost his life.

INFECTION CAUSES DEATH.

Mrs. Mary Wheeler, 54 years old, 1215 West Madison street, died in the county hospital yesterday as the result of an infection in a blister on one of her toes.

Police Catch Holdup Man 3 Minutes After Robbery

Abe Alban, owner of the Ridgeway garage, 3727 Lawrence avenue, was robbed of $115 in cash and $275 in checks by a colored gunman yesterday morning. Three minutes later the bandit was arrested at Cornelia and Crawford avenues by Policemen William E. Webb and Andrew Klasen, who had received a radio call of the robbery. At the Albany Park station the bandit identified himself as Lawrence Young, 28 years old.

G. A. R. BEGINS ITS SESSION AT LINCOLN'S TOMB

Civil War Veterans Meet at Springfield.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—More than 1,000 civil war veterans, members of the fast declining ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic, opened their 66th annual encampment here today with an impressive tribute to their war time commander at his tomb in Oak Ridge cemetery.

The ceremonies at the famous Lincoln shrine were attended by some 7,000 persons, including the various organizations affiliated with the G. A. R. A large floral wreath was placed on the tomb by Samuel P. Town, Philadelphia, commander in chief of the G. A. R., after the singing of patriotic airs and salutes to the flag.

Then a silk flag was dedicated and presented to the shrine by Mrs. Frances Haskell, national patriotic instructor of the Ladies of the G. A. R., and 250 members of the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War filed upon the base of the monument, each placing a wreath on the parapet.

Lincoln Bust Unveiled.

Another wreath was presented by Frank C. Huston, commander in chief of the Sons of Union veterans, and the whole gathering went away to unveil a life size bust of Lincoln, presented by the Daughters of Union Veterans, on the lawn of the old courthouse where the civil war president practiced law.

Gov. L. L. Emmerson, in welcoming the pilgrims to Lincoln's tomb, said it was fitting that in the declining years of the G. A. R. they should return to the home of their order and the home of Lincoln.

"Springfield gave Lincoln to the world," said Gov. Emmerson, "and received him back immortal. Springfield was the home of your organization, founded in 1866 by Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephenson, and Springfield produced your first commander in chief, S. A. Hurlburt.

"This tomb is more than a monument to Lincoln. It is a monument to all who served under him, for without your loyalty he could not have preserved the Union. It is the capital shrine of liberty, to which 100,000 pilgrims come each year."

Called "Greatest American."

Commander in Chief Town, in his 87th year, told his comrades they had gathered to place a wreath "on the tomb of the man we all love, the tomb of the greatest American."

Fine weather prevailed for the ceremony, gladdening the hearts of the veterans, who had feared that a drizzling morning rain would postpone this important event on their program.

There is an element of pathos in a G. A. R. encampment, for not many more of them will be held. At the encampment at Boston in 1924, Miss Katherine Flood, secretary to Commander Town recalls, 214,000 comrades were present. This year not more than 2,000 are expected during the five day encampment. In 1894 there were 7,500 posts of the G. A. R. with 450,000 members, while today there are only 1,790 posts and 13,066 members. More than 3,000 died last year. The average age of survivors is said to be more than 89 years.

They're Many Years Young.

But the imminence of the passing of the G. A. R. is not apparent in the manner and speech of those here. Many of them walked from one hotel to another during the morning, oblivious of the rain and chill weather. They tease the grand daughters of other veterans and wives of sons of veterans about how pretty they are.

Besides the youthful cheeriness of these old men, two things stand out: their whiskers and their medals. Every breast is laden with bright gold medals and badges, resplendent against the dark blue of their uniforms, and every chin has snow white whiskers.

Commander Town estimates that a sufficient number of his nonogenarian comrades will live long enough for ten more encampments.

"There'll be an encampment as long as a single one of them remains," interposed his wife.

One of the comrades who returned to the tomb of Lincoln for the first time since May 4, 1865, was W. A. Garvin, 86 years old, of Troy, Kas. His regiment, the 146th infantry, was the guard of honor that escorted Lincoln's body from Washington to the receiving vault in the Oak Ridge cemetery, later to be placed in the permanent tomb.

The first business session of the encampment will be held tomorrow and Wednesday will be the big day, with a nine block parade in which every comrade will put forth his best efforts to march. Officers also will be elected Wednesday. Capt. William P. Wright of Chicago, Col. Russell C. Martin of Los Angeles and Harding I. Merrill of Wichita, Kas., are the three open candidates for commander in chief.

BOLIVIANS CALL ON PARAGUAY TO QUIT CHACO WAR

Would Submit Claims to Neutral Group.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Bolivian government said it would call an immediate halt to hostilities in the Gran Chaco region, if Paraguay agrees beforehand to such action, in a note sent today to the American neutrals commission in Washington.

The note, which was signed by Julio A. Gutierrez, minister of foreign relations, was addressed to Francis White, president of the commission. It said:

Accepts Cessation.

"In answer to the note of the neutrals yesterday, my government, in accordance with its former declarations, especially those of its note of the 16th, accepts the immediate cessation of hostilities, if Paraquay likewise agrees beforehand.

"As for securities of nonaggression, my government believes that once an agreement to cease hostilities has been made, it would be loyally complied with. It believes the question would be solved to the greatest advantage by a civil commission of neutrals to guarantee nonaggression and to determine the aggressor in case of a violation."

"Regarding demobilization in the Chaco, it believes that it should be agreed upon on the basis of according equal conditions as to terrain to both parties," the statement concluded.

Shortly before this the chairman of the war committee, in the chamber of deputies, said there was a possibility "the undeclared war in the Gran Chaco may extend its commotion to neighboring countries."

He said Bolivian troops at Fort Boqueron would hold that stronghold until Paraguayans "have become convinced of the futility of their efforts."

Because Bolivia "occupies a key position" in South America, he said, "it would follow that the spark now lit may set afire economic and political timber surrounding it, I mean, war may result. Any occurrence in Bolivia has deep repercussions in all the continent."

An army communique tonight said the circle that Paraguayan troops had been trying to establish around Fort Boqueron, was broken at 2 a. m. today by infantry and cavalry.

"Communications with the rest of our troops were immediately reëstablished," the communique ended.

Boqueron Battle Goes On.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The ministry of war today issued a bulletin stating the battle of Fort Boqueron was continuing in the Chaco jungles, with Paraguayan forces successfully tightening their siege.

It was stated that Paraguayan troops yesterday repelled Bolivian reinforcements which had tried to assist their comrades in the besieged fort.

Chileans Clash at Celebration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 18.—A clash between army officers and civilians occurred late last night in a crowded all night café. One officer was stabbed in the leg.

About 1,000 persons were present for a national independence celebration. When shouts against the army went up fists and then pistols went into action. Police arrived and established order. Similar clashes occurred in other hotels and restaurants.

WATCHMAN DROPS DEAD.

William Stollstorf, 57 years old, 3722 West Chicago avenue, a watchman at Sprague Warner & Co. for 25 years, collapsed on the sidewalk in front of his home yesterday. When his wife, Augusta, reached him he was dead, apparently from heart disease.

EXPANSION OF STREET MARKET IRKS RESIDENTS

An investigation by city officials of an influx of fruit and vegetable merchants in the 7200 block in South State street was reported yesterday as being under way as a result of complaints by residents. The merchants display their wares on the sidewalks, leaving little space for pedestrians.

The city maintains a market in State street between 70th and 71st streets, but the merchants, according to the complaints, have extended the market virtually to the middle of the 7200 block. They store their merchandise in nearby buildings at night.

"Where there were only one or two crudely improvised stalls in the 7200 block recently," wrote one resident, "there is now an unbroken line of vegetable and fruit displayed from 72d street to the middle of the block. The conditions, which were bad before, have been growing rapidly worse."

Records in the city department of compensation show that no permits have been issued for sidewalk displays in the 7200 block. In the past, Ald. O. E. Northrup and, more recently, Ald. John E. Healy, have requested action by city officials to clean up the market.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE DRAINAGE CANAL FOR SALE.

The sanitary district has filed an application with the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of 36 million dollars with which to complete its sewage treatment works. The construction of the works is required in the decree of the Supreme court in the lake level suit, but the district has already defaulted on some of its outstanding bonds and its credit is therefore greatly impaired. Unless the Reconstruction corporation advances the money, it is difficult to see how the court's decree can be complied with on schedule.

Certainly the request for a loan is modest enough. The drainage canal is now a part of the Illinois waterway, recently taken over by the federal government. The Illinois waterway is the most important element in the whole Mississippi waterway system. The United States government obtained control of this hundred million dollar property, though it cost the federal treasury a mere 7 million dollars appropriated recently to hasten the completion of the work. The rest of the money came from the taxpayers of Illinois and the sanitary district.

The sanitary district in applying for a loan is violating all the traditions. Following the precedent set, for example, in the purchase by the government of the Cape Cod canal, the trustees should have sought to sell their canal to the United States. The sanitary district no doubt would sell its part of the Illinois waterway at a moderate price: say, about as much as the sewage treatment works will cost. If the canal had been built by Los Angeles' taxpayers, the deal would have been put through months, if not years, ago.

MAYOR McKEE.

An outstanding figure in the public scene at this time is not running for the presidency, at least just yet, or for any office, or engaging in the dramatics of the campaign. But he looms large. He is Joseph V. McKee, mayor of New York. Not many days ago he was unknown to his countrymen in general. He is not so today. The badgered and burdened taxpayer from coast to coast must be watching him wistfully and wondering if he is true.

Mayor McKee demands a reduction in the budget of New York to the tune of 80 to 100 million dollars, and he will make it the higher figure if he can. He cherishes the heretical notion that such retrenchment will aid business recovery throughout the nation as well as in New York city, and this heresy, we trust, like some others famous in history, is going to become orthodoxy. It will if the people of this self-governing nation know what public expenditure without restraint has done to and will do to the country.

Mayor McKee is not generalizing. He has been investigating the municipal departments in person and the results are some peremptory orders for retrenchment that leave no doubt he means business. We think he is working for every taxpayer in the country. He is setting a standard by attacking a problem, the chief problem of government throughout the country. May his tribe increase.

RUSSIAN TRADE.

The Berlin correspondent of the Manchester Guardian reports that Russia has replaced Great Britain as Germany's principal market. German exports to Great Britain fell from 262 million marks in the first quarter of 1931 to 150 million marks in the same quarter of this year. German exports to Russia rose from 129 million marks in the first quarter of 1931 to 181 million marks in the first quarter of 1932.

Russian imports in the first quarter of 1932 were 181.4 million marks from Germany, 36.7 million from Great Britain, 15.5 million from the United States, 14.8 million from Italy, and 600 thousand from France.

The proponents of recognition by the United States are arguing that we ought to make a better showing, but it would be well to examine certain facts that throw light on German trade with the soviet. In 1922 the German government extended to the soviet a credit of 300 million marks, adding another of 75 million a little later. In 1930 a new credit on Russian orders was granted for 350 million marks. A credit agreement of 300 million marks made in 1931 has been replaced by another which fixes no total sum, but includes four classes of short term credits, 14.4 months, 19.4 months, and 23.8 months, all shorter terms than those of the preceding agreement. Goods are paid for as follows: Twenty per cent in acceptances on receipt of the order, 40 per cent on delivery, and 40 per cent in acceptances on delivery. The trade credits have been arranged by a series of consortiums of the German central and federal banks.

Meanwhile negotiations between the soviet and France are under way for a nonaggression treaty which a well informed source reports will include financial and economic terms. It is said Moscow has offered to refund the old czarist debt by 62 annuities of 60 million gold francs each. In return the Bank of France will discount soviet bills at the normal rate of interest and will give a 40 per cent guaranty on all soviet orders to French concerns.

No doubt American exports to Russia can be in some measure increased if we extend the same facilities, though to what extent must be uncertain. If the news leaking out of Russia in spite of the censorship means anything credits to the soviet are a bad risk at present. Our international bankers have sunk enough American money in Europe, it would seem. Germany is in a strategic position for trade with Russia and far better informed of the facts upon which credit is or ought to be extended. Mere restoration of diplomatic relations would get us nothing.

THE GATEWAY AMENDMENT.

The present state constitution most citizens now realize is in need of revision. Those who framed it did their work pretty well, but they did not foresee, could not be expected to foresee, the great changes that have occurred since 1871. They, like most other state constitution makers, did not distinguish between the proper nature of a constitution or fundamental law and statutory law. They put too much that was properly statutory into the constitution and at the same time made the changes and readjustments proper to statutory law too difficult. As a result, what is not properly permanent or of abiding validity, what required alteration and amendment in conformity with changing conditions, has remained in the constitution to obstruct much which needed to be done and would have been done save for constitutional restraint.

To win relief from this, amendments repeatedly have been proposed, and in 1924 a convention called to frame a new constitution submitted a new draft. It was defeated because not enough voters marked their ballots for or against it. More voted for adoption than rejection, but the present constitution requires for adoption "a majority of all those voting in the general election."

The difficulty of adopting a complete constitution is that voters who object to particular provisions cannot vote against that provision alone, unless the convention so provides. And even if this plan is adopted there is likely to be a certain amount of logrolling and confusion which defeats desirable measures.

Recognizing this, the legislature in 1931 proposed that the right to amend the constitution be enlarged. At present it is permitted to amend only one article of the constitution at each biennium. This has blocked amendment because proposals compete with one another. To avoid this the amendment proposed in 1931, which the voters will accept or reject in the election of Nov. 8, provides that amendments to three articles may be made at each biennium. This has been called "the gateway amendment" because it is believed that it will open the way to the more important amendments needed to modernize the constitution.

This plan seems to us to be more likely to bring early relief from obsolete restrictions than a comprehensive revision by convention. But it does not prevent the calling of such a convention if it is desired. It should not fail of adoption, but voters must realize that if they do not vote they are in fact voting against it. The amendment must receive a majority of the votes cast at the election, and the vote will undoubtedly be a large one, owing to the contest for the presidency and the several important issues of the campaign.

UNPRODUCTIVE RAILWAY LINES.

One of the economies which the railroads will have to effect is the abolition of unproductive lines. Some of these lines never justified themselves, but most of them have given a needed public service even where they were unable to keep out of the red. Their continuation was justifiable on grounds of public convenience, though the charge fell upon the owners of paying lines and was from this viewpoint inequitable. The coming of the motor truck and bus and passenger automobiles has provided facilities which the unproductive lines formerly were relied upon to give. The latter's elimination would be an economic gain for the public as well as a financial relief for the railroads which have maintained them at a loss. In many cases these roads could organize the new service themselves and should be encouraged to do so.

In this reorganization the interstate commerce commission, we understand, has been sympathetic and permission has been given to abandon a number of obsolete lines. This policy should be pressed, it seems to us, by the railroads. It will materially assist in putting them on a sound basis. There will be some resistance from local interests which would like to retain all possible facilities, but it should not be permitted to overrule consideration of justice to railroad owners who are carrying an unproductive enterprise or considerations of general public interest in the evolution of more efficient forms of transport. This is a time when deadwood should be cut out of all business.

Editorial of the Day

GOING BACK TO THE LAND.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Increasing numbers of unemployed city people who at one time were farm residents are seeking low price lands where they may return to the country and build homes, according to R. W. Reynolds, commissioner of agricultural development and colonization of the Milwaukee road, who has just completed a survey of the back-to-the-land movement in the western states.

"Our government reports that there was a net movement from the cities to the country of some 300,000 people during the last year, and my observation substantiates that report. Hundreds are turning to reliable sources to direct them to localities where soil, climatic, market, school, church, and general living conditions assure the industrious steady employment, regular meals, comfortable shelter, sufficient fuel, friendly neighbors, and a chance to provide for old age," Mr. Reynolds said.

The landward bound are cautioned to secure all the reliable data available concerning the territory before purchasing a farm. Doing so may prevent future heartaches, Mr. Reynolds points out.

"Fortunately, now that there is a back-to-the-land movement, there are sources of information through which landseekers may secure for the asking reliable, up to date directions for making purchases. Findings of those surveys, if used, should materially reduce percentages of failure as well as conserve capital available for the purchase of a farm," he says.

On a recent inspection trip Mr. Reynolds found that there is scarcely a vacant set of farm buildings in the good farming areas along the more than 11,000 miles that comprise the Milwaukee road. He said that the abandoned farm is not to be found in the good agricultural territory.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

OH, THE MOONLIGHT'S FAIR TONIGHT ALONG THE WABASH.

From all the photographs we have seen of the new statue of Abraham Lincoln as a youth, unveiled last week at Fort Wayne, it seems to us the New York sculptor thought that when Abe went plowing down in Indiana he didn't wear any pants. At least we can't detect any pants on the statue, although it has on a shirt and boots. There's a dog on the pedestal, too, and a pair of plow handles, and if the sculptor could think of all those things we are surprised he couldn't think of pants unless he had the New York idea that in Abe's day down in Indiana young farmers didn't wear 'em when they went over into the east eighty to do their spring plowing. But any one who has ever done any plowing down in Indiana knows that any young farmer, no matter how many boots and shirts he had on, would just be a set-up for chiggers and mosquitoes and the old hoss flies if he didn't wear his pants. Of course, the statue may have on pants after all and the photographs don't show 'em, but if it's got 'em on they're more like a chorus girl's tights than the big, wide homespun britches the farmers' boys wore in Lincoln's time 'way out in Indiana. Or maybe the statue's got its pants rolled up. But the farmer boys didn't roll up their pants when they were plowing. Or if they did they rolled 'em right down again when the first chigger bit 'em.

THE O'S HAVE IT.

I'd like to know
Why O and O
In latter times are so essential
They must appear
Election year
In every prospect presidential.

When Coolidge rose
On double O's
It didn't mean a thing to us;
We didn't know
How owe and owe,
In Hoover's time, would cling to us.

If all our woes
Are due to O's
There's no escaping them this inning—
His rankest foes felt
They must name Roosevelt—
There was no other chance of winning.

And so it goes:
The O's and O's
Prevail, and prophets all grow wary.
None can predict
Who will be picked—
Not even The Digest Literary.

If Fate's maneuver
Shall send us Hoover,
Or Roosevelt find it easy going;
We only know
This will be so:
We'll still be owing, still be owing.

EOLUS.

IT WAS CONSTITUTION DAY last Saturday and we forgot all about it until it was too late to hang out any flags or organize a one-man parade. Everybody else seemed to be pretty much the same way, and the reason is that not much has been heard of the Constitution the last ten or twelve years, and it's just about as forgotten as Gov. Roosevelt's Forgotten Man. The eighteenth amendment has crowded the Constitution back into the wings and held the center of the stage and the spotlight ever since. If we could just persuade the eighteenth to go back and sit down for a while it would be nice to let the good old Constitution come out and take a little well deserved applause.

GERMANY has ordered a new reichstag election on Nov. 6, the fifth election the country's had this year. Maybe that's why the Germans are getting a five day week; they've got to have at least two days a week to vote.

NEWS THAT THE OLD University of Brewing was to be reopened in New York and that students were pouring in anxious to matriculate is rather disquieting. We hate to think of brewing as an art or even a science and that students have to mess around in laboratories under the guidance of their professors and learn how to make beer out of malt and barley and yeast and water and humdrum things like that. We always prefer to think that beer is a modern form of heavenly manna in liquid form, made of sunshine, the foam of old ocean, purest gold from the deepest mines, and the aroma that blows from Araby the blest. It probably isn't, but on a hot summer's afternoon when Heinie used to bring in a cold stein of real beer and set it down with all the colors of the rainbow flashing in its dazzling bubbles it seemed that way.

TOWARD THE SUNSET.

How often do we lay away
Our youth-time joy in tombs of care!
The days that once were silver-winged
At last the shrouds of sorrow wear.

Thrice happy he for whom the morn
Still sings its old-time roundelay,
For whom romantic hues illume
The broodings of the sunset way.

HOW SWIMMERS USE THEIR LEGS.

SWIMMING experts have always disagreed as to the best use that could be made of the legs in getting one through the water. The resistance of the water is great—sixty times that of air. In the swiftest strokes, the Australian crawl and its modifications, the arms are lifted out of the water and carried forward through the air, then submerged and carried backward with the hand held in such a position as to get a paddle action. In holding the arms out of the water as they go forward friction is greatly reduced. Brake action is removed.

But no one has devised any way to hold the legs out of water as they are drawn up, and then submerge them as they kick backward. If some bright lad could learn that trick he would leave his competitors tied to the post.

Jameson Handy devised a stroke in which no use was made of the legs. They were dragged passively through the water, held in a position that reduced friction to the minimum—a regular streamline effect. He held championships for several seasons and, in consequence, his stroke became popular. The probable reason for his speed was that he avoided all brake or drag action resulting from drawing the legs up. Soon the Handy stroke was replaced by a crawl, in which there was a great deal of leg action, but it was a choppy, up and down stroke and the drag due to drawing up the legs was not great. Probably, at that, when the leg drag effect was subtracted from the leg stroke effect there remained little leg propulsive action as a net.

In the 1932 Olympic games the Japanese contestants won most of the speed swimming contests. Most of the winners were children 14 to 16 years old. It developed that twelve years ago the Japanese decided that representatives of their island race should win all swimming events. They set scientists to work out some improved methods of swimming.

These men were experts on the physics of stream lines, frictions, drag, brake action, and propulsive power. They recognized the loss of speed due to the drag of the legs during much of the time. They saw that there was not much propulsive power to be had from the freakish little kicks of the crawl. They worked out a roll method by which the legs could be brought into position to deliver a propulsive stroke without developing much friction as the machinery was set for the drive. Perhaps they held the legs in the relative water vacuum in the wake of the body. At any rate they developed a new leg method. They also made some improvement in the methods of using the arms.

Next they took a number of small children—almost babies—and taught them to swim the new stroke. Some of these babies, now grown to children of 15 years, were brought over to Los Angeles to win the swimming prizes.

Some day some one will invent a method by which the body of the swimmer will remain on top of the water and the arms and legs will dip into it only for the purpose of driving the body forward. If such a stroke is ever perfected the man who uses it will leave old time swimmers behind just as speed boats now cut circles around the old keel boats.

CROOKED TEETH.

Mrs. L. R. writes: My 6 year old boy has two of his second lower teeth and they came in very crooked. I took him to a dentist, thinking I could have them straightened, but he said he could do nothing, but he did remove two teeth, one on each side of the crooked ones, to give more space. I am afraid his other teeth will come in the same way. Would you please advise me what to do?

REPLY.

There is nothing you can do about it now. His jaws are not roomy enough for his teeth. Some six years from now, or a little later, you can have them straightened by an orthodontist.

NOT REDUCING AGENT.

L. R. E. writes:

1. Of what value is lemon juice in a reducing diet?
2. Is salt fattening?

REPLY.

1. None. It is a source of vitamins and minerals, but that does not make it a reducing agent.
2. No.

LEUCEMIA.

Mrs. J. C. F. writes: What is leucemia, its symptoms and cure?

REPLY.

In leucemia there is an enormous increase in the number of white cells in the blood. Generally the spleen is very large, even larger than a fever cake. In some cases it is the lymph glands that swell most. There is considerable secondary anemia. Weakness is a marked symptom. The cause is not known. X-raying the spleen or glands produces improvement, but it is temporary.

DEFECTIVE SIDEWALKS.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In doing my daily shopping I have to pass a store where the sidewalk takes a sudden drop. This caused me to fall and sprain my wrist. I have also noticed several other people stumble or fall for the same reason. 1. Is the landlord or the [2] city to blame for this condition? C. J.

1. No.
2. On proper proof the city can be held liable for injuries due to defective sidewalks. The proof includes a showing that the city had notice of the condition.

ADMINISTERING ESTATE.

Oak Park, Ill., Sept. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People].—1. What are the duties of an executor of an estate? 2. Can the executor sell any stock, bonds, or property of the estate before the year is up, or must he have a court order to do same? 3. Is there any legal rate an attorney can charge for probating an estate? 4. If heirs are all of age and there are no claims against the estate, can such estate be closed before a year expires? 5. What per cent is the executor of an estate allowed by law?

J. J. P.

1. A complete answer would be of undue length.
2. The powers of the executor depend on the wording of the will.
3. There is no definite statutory figure. The statute specifies for the administrator's fee not exceeding 6 per cent of the personal property. We might say that 4 per cent would be a rough average and that the attorney commonly receives about half of this.
4. Yes, if the executor is willing to take a chance on claims being filed.
5. See 3.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 19, 1916.

CHICAGO.—The pull of a trigger closed the doors of a private bank on a half million dollars of deposits, and ended the career of the aged founder of the institution. Joseph Tuma, 65 years old, "who rose from office boy to bank president," shot himself through the head and tumbled into the lake at the foot of Wrightwood avenue. Half an hour later, the pitiful line of old women and young children standing in front of the Tuma Savings bank at 4013 West Twelfth street was told by the police that the bank was closed. It was the fiftieth private, unsupervised institution to close in Illinois since 1911.

LONDON.—Official reports received from the Somme battle front showed that the British and the French troops are making steady advances on both sides of the river. The British are pressing home their attacks to the north and northeast while the French are driving back southward the Germans on the south side of the river and are winning new positions to the east. Gen. Haig reported that the British troops have captured the strongly fortified position known as the "Quadrilateral," between Boulenaux woods and Ginchy, and as a result have obtained possession of a strip of ground 1,000 yards in depth along a mile front.

LONDON.—Macedonia in the Balkan war theater was the scene of some of the most violent fighting since the allied offensive in this sector started Florina, it is officially announced, has fallen. The Bulgars are in precipitate flight toward Monastir, Serbia, an Athens dispatch says. Florina was captured by assault by French troops, and unofficial reports say the Bulgar defenders suffered enormous losses.

BERLIN.—A German attack against the Russians who are attempting to capture Halicz, Galicia, resulted in the defeat of the Russians, who lost the greater portion of the territory gained on Sept. 16, the war office announced. In addition to inflicting heavy casualties on the Russians, the Germans took 3,500 prisoners and sixteen machine guns.

WASHINGTON. — The British "tanks," armored motor cars used in recent assaults on German trenches in northern France, were built for the most part in Peoria, Ill., in the form of caterpillar tractors designed many years before the war began to meet some of the difficult problems of modern farming. Except for their armor, their machine guns, and their crews, thousands like them are in use in the United States and Canada, in plowing and digging ditches. M. M. Baker, vice president of the Holt Manufacturing company, explained today that it was the machines made by his company at its Peoria plant that had hurdled German trenches.

BERLIN.—Capt. Franz von Papen, former German military attaché at Washington, now is in the center of the fighting on the Somme front. He is the chief general staff officer of a division holding one of the most crucial sectors on the front against which the entente allies for weeks have been launching their heaviest attacks.

EIGHTH GRADE TEACHERS.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—When the board of education adopted the Strayer report they replaced trained elementary teachers, some of whom have had fifteen or twenty years' experience, by assigning manual training and household arts teachers to the seventh and eighth grades. This change was made without first ascertaining the fitness of these specialists to teach the above mentioned grades. Many of these seamstresses and carpenters have only a grammar school education, while the elementary teachers they have replaced are graduates of the Chicago Normal college or its equivalent. The principals, in attempting to organize their schools subsequently to this change, have asked these specialists if they could teach science, music, or art, and have had the reply, "O, I don't know anything about those subjects."

An immediate and vigorous campaign should be instituted by the Parent-Teacher association to eliminate those unfit "frill" teachers and to reassign the trained educators whose efforts have caused the Chicago public schools to be regarded as the equal of any in the country.

ALICE MACKENZIE.

THE SELECTION OF JUDGES.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Permit me to congratulate you upon the excellence of your leading editorial of the 12th inst., entitled "For Better Judicial Elections." It is one of the best statements I have seen on the importance and the difficulties of the problem.

The conclusion of the Georgia commission, referred to in the editorial, to the effect that a mere change in the method of the selection of judges does not improve the character or quality of the judges selected is self-evident. In certain sections of this state the popular election of judges puts upon the bench the ablest lawyers in the circuit. In other sections of the state the results of the popular election of judges are deplorable.

What must be developed with respect to judges, however selected, must be something which, paraphrasing THE TRIBUNE statement, "will furnish that check upon the judiciary which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

It is to be hoped that you will continue the campaign with more editorials as excellent as this first one.

THE SAME INSULL AND THE SAME SMITH.

Kankakee, Ill., Sept. 14.—I am wondering if this Insull that is reported to have a loss of two hundred and twenty-six million dollars in this morning's TRIBUNE is the same Insull who furnished the money of his stock and bond holders to Frank L. Smith of Dwight, Ill., when Smith was a candidate for United States senator? Is this the same Smith that was refused a seat in the senate and is now state manager for Small?

BEN W. ALPINER.

THE JESUIT PROPERTIES IN SPAIN.

Elmhurst, Ill., Sept. 8.—The article of Sept. 8 in THE TRIBUNE under the heading "Spain to Share Jesuit Riches with Her Needy" contained ideas likely to misinform the many who depend upon your paper for information.

I object to the use of the word "riches" when used to designate the properties, supposedly valued at thirty million dollars, belonging to a body of four thousand men and used for purposes of public welfare such as the education of youth. That amount seems rather small when we remember that our country boasts of several universities which represent, individually, a value of much more than thirty millions.

Now let me assure you that several of the institutions which the government of Spain is said to have "consigned to public welfare" never did belong to the Jesuits. Two of those mentioned in the article are among these. The college at Barcelona was rented from a corporation, and the shrine at Loyola, the ancestral home of the ancient Loyolas, was the property of the people of that place.

The value of Jesuit properties in Spain has been greatly exaggerated and frequently emphasized by newspapers. Just why the buildings and lands have been confiscated and the labors of four hundred years all but destroyed the press does not even attempt to tell us. Perhaps this is because those in power today in Spain have been strangely silent about this point, hoping to clothe the first injustice by the formal announcement of the consignment of the confiscated properties to the needy of the land.

C. G. MUELLER.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

Chicago, Sept. 15. — I heartily agree with your statement that the Maine election of two wet congressmen is a portent of the coming release from the rule of prohibition, but in the face of preelection facts in Maine, where two parties campaigned the state, one dry and Republican and the other party wet and Democratic, with the amazing results of a wet Democratic victory in a rock-ribbed Republican state, how can you make the statement that this is a reminder that the way to smash Volsteadism and get repeal on its way is not by party declaration but by putting in congress men who will vote for modification and repeal?

P. M. O'CONNELL.

A SOLUTION OF THE TAX PROBLEM.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Many people I have ventured to speak to agree with me that the only solution of our financial difficulties is to fund the 1931 tax by issuing 20 year 5 per cent bonds, which could be gradually redeemed each year from savings brought about by cutting out unnecessary expenses and consolidating the various governing bodies. I am sure that there would be a market for such bonds.

CHINESE ARMIES LOCK IN BATTLE; NEW CIVIL WAR

Fight 2 Days and Nights in Shantung Province.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19 (Monday).—Chinese dispatches from Nanking today said Gen. Liu Chen-nien, rebel war lord with headquarters at Chefoo, has received munitions and financial support from an unknown source with the object of occupying Shantung province, thus cutting the line of communication between Nanking and the Tientsin-Peiping area. Fighting in this new civil war has now been going on for two days and nights at Weihsien, midway between Tsinan, the capital, and Tsingtao, the seaport.

The reports claim that Gen. Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung, has been successful in initial clashes and has forced Gen. Liu to retreat toward Chefoo, which is the American summer naval base on the Chinese coast.

Fear for Missionaries.

Gen. Han has about 80,000 men, while Gen. Liu has 30,000. Gen. Han yesterday announced his determination to push the fight and crush Gen. Liu's forces.

The fighting has created considerable apprehension because of the large missionary population in Chefoo, while the summer resort of Tsingtao is filled with foreign visitors. There is also a large foreign population, chiefly missionaries, at Tsinan, Weihsien and other points along the railway.

The Chinese admiral, Shen Hung-lieh, subordinate to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord, who controls Tsingtao, declared yesterday he has sufficient strength to guarantee the safety of foreign residents, but several American and Japanese war craft are also stationed in the harbor.

The town of Weihsien, where fighting has developed, is connected by an automobile road with Chefoo. The Japanese report attributes the trouble to a dispute over provincial revenues.

Aside from extensive anti-Japanese demonstrations in Peiping, no trouble occurred at Shanghai or elsewhere in connection with the anniversary of the Japanese occupation of Mukden a year ago yesterday.

Honor Slain Japanese Troops.

MUKDEN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Requiem services for 20,000 Japanese soldiers slain in the Russo-Japanese war more than a quarter of a century ago were the high spot of today's observance of the first anniversary of the Japanese Manchurian invasion.

Millions of Chinese observed this day as national humiliation day because it was on Sept. 18, 1931, that Japanese troops captured Mukden and began operations in Manchuria. But Japanese residents of Manchuria celebrated the day as marking the opening of a new era.

The celebrations at Japanese army posts throughout Manchuria followed only a few days after formal recognition by Japan of the state of Manchukuo, established in Manchuria by Japanese military leaders.

Shinto priests conducted services at the great military shrine containing ashes of the soldiers slain in the Russo-Japanese war. Chinese residents of Mukden did not join in the humiliation day observance and took no part in celebrations here.

Declare Boycott in Manila.

MANILA, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Six hundred Chinese, including many of the leading merchants of the Philippines, at a massmeeting here today voted to declare a boycott on all Japanese goods in the Philippine islands.

The massmeeting was in observance of "humiliation day," called on the anniversary of the occupation of Manchuria by the Japanese. A boycott on Japanese goods has been in effect for months, but heretofore has been little discussed publicly by the Chinese merchants, who control three-quarters of the Philippine retail trade.

At today's meeting the merchants approved a resolution declaring a boycott while respecting Philippine law. Consul General J. K. Wong presided.

BRAZILIAN ARMY CAPTURES CITY HELD BY REBELS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The government announced today that federal troops had occupied Jaguary, seven miles from Campinas, in the northern sector. It was said the Sao Paula rebels had evacuated Campinas.

Rebels Claim New Support.

SAO PAULO, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Sao Paulo revolutionaries today claimed the important district of Santa Catherina state, El Contestado, had joined the constitutional cause.

It was added the El Contestado group had occupied the railway section of Porto Uniao and Ponta Grossa.

Fire Sweeps Tarsus, Home of St. Paul; 144 Homes Lost

WISCONSIN SEES DEMOCRATS KEY TO VOTE BATTLE

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—The presidential campaign is interwoven in a curious way in Wisconsin's primaries Tuesday. The matter of how many Democrats will stay at home in their own primaries and how large the Democratic vote will be is accounted likely to cut a large figure in deciding the Republican fight between the conservative regulars and the La Follette group.

In former years the old feud between Stalwarts and half-breeds, anti-La Folletteites and pro-La Folletteites gobbled up the Democratic party like the cat swallowing the canary, and the La Follette strength inside the Republican party came largely through votes of Democrats.

Roll Up Big Vote.

This spring, the Democrats gave full token of resurrection as a state party by rolling up 252,000 votes in their delegate primary, which went for Roosevelt, and the signs are that the party might stand a good chance to elect state officials, congressmen, many legislators and county officials all over the state if Roosevelt sweeps the state in November.

Into this entrancing Democratic picture Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, attempted to kick a hole by invading Wisconsin as a one man orchestra and crooning to Democrats that they ought to flop into the Republican primaries and vote for Senator John J. Blaine and Gov. Phillip F. La Follette.

Wheeler was running mate of the late "Fighting Bob" when he ran for President in 1924, while Blaine is one of the "sons of the wild jackass," as Senator George Moses called the senate insurgents.

Democrats Make Protest.

Protests were yelled at once by the Wisconsin Democratic leaders. Sabbath calm was shattered today with shouts that Wheeler is seeking to "wreck the democracy" of Wisconsin and that the Montana man was injuring Gov. Roosevelt's chances of carrying Wisconsin, which at present writing appear high.

Meanwhile, the Republicans have hardly peeped the name of President Hoover. The primary campaign has been fought as a state affair, and the national fight on the Republican side is not to start until the state ticket is nominated Tuesday.

Republican candidates have intimated that for them to have brought in the name of Hoover in connection with their battle would likely be a bow of crape on the door knob.

Two Headliner Battles.

The two great headliner fights are between ex-Gov. Walter J. Kohler, titular head of the regular Republicans, and Gov. Philip La Follette, and between John B. Chapple, crusading Ashland editor, and Senator John J. Blaine. In all the camps the forecasters are paying especial attention to the possible Democratic vote as a factor Tuesday.

If the Democratic vote is light, La Follette would be helped; if it is heavy, Kohler would be aided. Such is the consensus, the idea being that eighty per cent of the Democrats who vote in their own party instead of voting a Republican ballot will be a loss to La Follette.

21 ARE INJURED WHEN CARNIVAL TRAIN CRASHES

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Twenty-one persons were injured, one seriously, when the Rubin & Cherry carnival train, en route from Huron, S. D., to Nashville, Tenn., crashed into a string of box cars two miles from here tonight.

Three cars, carrying equipment and a number of the carnival personnel, overturned. The most seriously injured was Capt. Elton Denham, 83, of Ogton, O.

Five ambulances from here took the injured to hospitals. It was not believed any of the injured will die.

Large amounts of grain and hay were stored in the structure. Nearby buildings were endangered by the flames, but were saved by the efforts of the Gurnee fire department and volunteer aids.

HULL TO PAY FOR SMALL'S BARGE IF U. S. CHARGES HIM

If there is any expense involved in the use of a government owned barge for Len Small's vote wooing junket William E. Hull, lame duck congressman from Peoria, will pay it, the latter said yesterday. The barge, furnished by the government owned Inland Waterways corporation, has been converted into a floating dance hall for a tour of southern Illinois.

Representative Hull indicated, however, that he does not expect there will be any expense.

Mr. Hull was asked if he had been selected by the Small forces to request the loan of the barge because of his membership in the house rivers and harbors committee.

"Anybody could get one of those barges," Hull repeated. "They're lying around idle. Nobody would ever have heard of this, if Bruce Campbell hadn't raised a fuss downstate. What did he ever do for the waterways?"

Mr. Campbell, Democratic campaign manager downstate, protested to Secretary of War Hurley that the government barge was being used for partisan campaign purposes. Representative Hull assured war department officials that the trip was a waterway jaunt, not a political one.

FINDS A MISSING LINK; FOUR LEGGED FISH THAT WALKED ASHORE

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Lauge Koch, veteran Arctic explorer, today returned from Greenland with the claim that he had found evidence of one of the missing links in the chain of evolution—a four legged fish that walked ashore.

The holder of the American National Geographic society's Charles P. Daily medal said he had found the petrified remains of the four legged fish in the vicinity of an estuary of Franz Josef fjord.

"As you know," he explained, "scientists have divided evolution into five main groups. These are fish, toads, reptiles, birds and finally mammals. But the connecting link between the groups has been missing. This link I claim to have found between fishes and toads."

EVIDENCE READY FOR GRAND JURY IN BANK CASES

The state's attorney's office will resume its campaign in closed bank cases this week with the submission before the grand jury of evidence gathered during the vacation months.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, who is in charge of the bank investigations, refused to discuss the situation yesterday, but he did not deny rumors prevalent in the Criminal court to the effect that evidence in some of the cases involving large closed outlying banks is ready for grand jury action.

Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber, who has charge of the investigation of the 12 Bain banks, is scheduled for appearance before the grand jury tomorrow afternoon. He is to seek new indictments on which the prosecution expects to retry John Bain's two sons, John H. and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher.

Officials of the closed Phillip State Bank and Trust company are to be questioned in the prosecutor's office this week, it was learned.

WOUNDED BEAR KILLS MAN; WIFE DIES OF SHOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EMERSON, Man., Sept. 18.—With one swing of his paw, a huge black bear today ripped open the abdomen of George Awrilia, 64 year old farmer, killing him. Mrs. Awrilia, who stood nearby, collapsed and died from shock fifteen minutes later.

The bear, a large and powerful animal, entered the Awrilia farm yard with the herd of cows and climbed a tall tree when Awrilia and his son sought to approach with rifles. The father and son shot and wounded the bear. The animal fell to the ground.

The farmer and his son were nearing the bear with an ax when the elder Awrilia was struck down. The son later killed the animal.

HIGH TAXES CAUSE PROPERTY OWNER TO END HIS LIFE

A. E. Hayward, 70 years old, committed suicide yesterday in the garage behind his home at 513 Highland avenue, West Chicago, by placing a tarpaulin over his head and the exhaust pipe of his automobile, in which he had started the motor, and then shooting himself. He was the owner of a number of houses and a filling station in the neighborhood.

Hayward left a note in which he stated: "The depression, assessments and ill health are responsible for my death." He had had to pay heavy special assessments for paving and sewer installation in the subdivisions where his houses were located, his widow told police.

NINE STONE & CO. OFFICIALS GO ON TRIAL TOMORROW

Charged with Using Mails to Defraud.

The trial of Henry F. Norcott, president of the defunct H. O. Stone & Co., real estate and investment concern, and eight associates will open tomorrow before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The officials of the company have entered pleas of not guilty to a federal indictment charging them with using the mails to defraud.

The firm, a 95 year old institution, came under the control of the defendants several years ago and shortly after failed with liabilities of $14,500,000. The government charges the defendants with defrauding investors through the sale of stock in the company and through the exchange of good stock for shares of the H. O. Stone company.

According to Prosecutor Struett 104 witnesses will be called by the government. With the prosecution scheduled to take from three to four weeks it is estimated that the trial will last at least two months.

Besides Norcott the indicted officers include: Claude Niles, vice president; Marshall V. George, secretary; W. Scott Carroll, controller; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; Leslie A. Needham, attorney for the company; Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer; David A. Coleman, president of the Stone Finance company, a subsidiary, and Francis E. Richardson, vice president of the subsidiary firm.

They Satisfied in '17——
and you can't Beat 'em Today

THIS picture will bring back memories to a lot of people of the days when the boys went marching away with flags flying and bands playing.

Chesterfields were very popular with those men who went overseas. They were "rookies" then. They're "old vets" today. And that milder, satisfying Chesterfield flavor is still their steady choice . . . after fifteen years!

It was mildness that first attracted smokers to Chesterfield. And it's mildness and better taste that is winning new friends for Chesterfield today . . . all over the country.

Next time you're short of cigarettes, ask for Chesterfields. They satisfied in '17, and you can't beat 'em today

Colors Guide You to Correct Fall Fabrics

Wools Appear in Many New Shades.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THE best fabric sections these days are harboring lots of new colors and newer textures, and besides being the busiest places in town they are undoubtedly the most fascinating to all shoppers.

It's probably the first time in fashion history that colors are so rampant in bales of woolen materials . . . colors that are reminiscent of medieval splendor and grandeur, thick rich blues, plum reds, Italian court, russets, and vermillions, together with all the burnished shades of metallic green and gold.

There is a frosty shimmer to most of the wools, and a suave, whipped cream effect to all new smooth suedelike textures.

The hullabaloo about sheer dusky woolens for slinky new evening gowns seems to be growing in volume . . . after you see them and become a bit breathless with the possibilities of using these delightful feminine fabrics for some of those dream dresses that are made with all kinds of intricate and slenderizing hip sections cut on the bias you'll do a large amount of cheering yourself.

Chiffon suede, as luscious and thin and as clinging as its name indicates, comes in some perfect evening tones—a frosted crimson, a dull silvery blue, a divinely picturesque purple, and, of course, very effective blacks and browns. These chiffon suedes are as transparent and as easy to drape as a heavy chiffon, and twice as effective when used for something new in evening gowns.

There is nothing contraband about the bales of Scotch woolens that have been welcomed to the town . . . nothing tight or small about the size of the glowing, colorful plaids of royal Scotch extraction . . . youngsters and grownups ought to enjoy them equally. Some of the gayest sports frocks for immediate wear are of this perennially cheerful mixture . . . one model sports all the lilting red and white and deep blue plaids that remind you of highland bagpipers that swagger impudently in the best parades . . . it has white pique collar and cuffs, and what must be the widest black patent leather belt in captivity. Other plaids are self-contained in the well pleated formation of a kilted skirt and are contrasted with a plain colored and trim short jacket.

All the newest coat fabrics are extravagantly thick and luxuriant . . . some look like rather old-fashioned plush materials with lots of gleam to them. There is a trick name to a velvety fabric for coats. It looks like velvet and has all the advantages of velvet and none of the nuisances . . . it doesn't mat or mark and retains all the satiny thickness after months of wear.

You'll be surprised how many shades of gray there are this year . . . practically any and every tone of this very new color, from silvery tints to the intriguing new mechanical grays. Typical iron grays are legion; it is the season's pet excitement . . . street dresses, suits, and coats of this gray shade are knockouts.

Being the most neutral color on the chart, gray can be the obliging and perfect contrast for deep brown, black, deep blue, and wine, and the most subtle harmony for light tones of silver gray and gray greens.

Dark grays are almost as slenderizing and as sophisticated as black . . . if you are tired of the usual blacks and browns and blues for chic street ensembles, shop for the new gray tones, they are perfect!

Children's Horse Show at Fort Sheridan Is an Enjoyable Event

Mothers Do Their Shopping Early on Great Day for Parents and Youngsters.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL the fashionable mothers who go to market in Lake Forest every Saturday morning either did their marketing very early or let their cooks do it last Saturday, for nary a mother who had a child riding in the children's horse show at Fort Sheridan was missing from the grandstand and those whose children weren't riding had to be there just the same so that their youngsters could see the show.

It was a gala day for the children, particularly those who carried away ribbons, and there were no spills or accidents of any sort to mar the occasion. Donald F. McPherson Jr., whose parents are among the leaders in the riding set in Winnetka, won ribbons galore, and if he takes them all east with him this week they will make him the envy of all the other boys at the Fessenden school at West Newton, Mass., without a doubt.

He won first in the hunter, the senior [from 9 to 16] walk, trot and canter, the jumping and the touch and out [if the horse touches the jump the entry is disqualified] classes and he was in the team—Johnny Hughes and Annie May Henry were the others—that was third in the hunt team class. Annie May, who is the Huntington B. Henrys' younger daughter, was third in the hunter class, and Johnny, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes, was first in the junior [under 9] walk, trot and canter.

Girls Win Ribbons.

The Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' daughter, Adelaide, also took home several ribbons, being second in the hunter, fourth in the grab bag, second with Kay Goodman and Edward Whyte in the hunt team, and third in the senior walk, trot and canter classes.

Little Sally Perry, a daughter of the I. Newton Perrys, was third in the grab bag, first with Philip Poole and Donald Murphy in the hunt team, and second in the walk, trot and canter among the juniors.

Gwendolyn Bowen, the junior Joseph T. Bowens' daughter, won second in the jumping and third and fourth in the touch and out class, riding two horses in that event. Philip Poole won fourth in the hunter class.

Little Helen Niblack, the Austin H. Niblacks' daughter, won the blue ribbon in the pony class; Marion Carry, the Champ Carrys' child, won second in this class; Homer Lindsay third, and Kent Keehn fourth.

The others among the winners were Donald Murphy, who was first in the grab bag and second in the senior walk, trot and canter; William Knoblock,

Adventure on Adventure Awaits You.

BY AL CHASE.

"A Count in the Fo'c'sle," by Count Jean Louis d'Esque. [Brentano.]

NEVER in the hundreds of books of the sea that we've read, and that includes both fiction thrillers of juvenile days, boisterous before-the-mast lives of salty shellbacks, and the more dignified biographies of important liner captains, have we ever reveled in such a smashing, thrillful, hilarious and fast moving volume of true ocean adventure as "A Count in the Fo'c'sle," by Count Jean Louis d'Esque.

COUNT JEAN LOUIS D'ESQUE.

It races along from one gorgeous adventure to another, with never a pause between covers except for a laugh or perhaps a sigh. In fact, it's just almost too good to be true, and it was comforting to one's belief in honesty in writing to learn from the publishers that investigation has proven that the author has drawn solely on his memory and not on his imagination.

"Chips," as the author always was known at sea, is a likable, capable, humorous combination of brains and efficiency. His remarkable ability at wood carving quickly changed him from a fo'c'sle deckhand to ship's carpenter and his ability to pen sea poems endeared him both to sailors and officers.

Throughout the lusty life story of "Chips," where battles with mutineers and hurricanes, pirates and shipwrecks, cannibals and just ordinary salt hardened fists are pictured with vivid, vigorous, and humorous gusto, runs an odd, poignant little vein of wistful wishfulness that he had followed his boyish ambition and studied art in Paris.

On one voyage the taciturn first mate used to sit silently smoking, watching "Chips" carve. One day he asked him about his poems. "Chips" gave him one.

"Later the mate said: 'This is a good poem, "Chips." I guess you know that. You don't belong on a ship. A young lad like you is wasting his time sailing the seas with no fixed destination.'

"'I know what I want, but I can't do it yet.'

"'What's that?'

"'To go to Paris and study art. I will some day.'

"The mate seemed to sink into himself for silent minutes as men do when they are remembering something that was a long time ago.

"'I see,' he said at last. 'I hope you get there, son. Don't let anything stop you. I know how it is. There are things I've wanted to do, too, and some day I may drag them out and let the world laugh if it wants to.'

"He didn't look like the chief officer of a ship then. He looked somehow like a little boy lost. . . . That was a long time ago, and I wondered often what that quiet mate thought when he stood silent at the rail as the Torrens thumped along her dray horse way across the seas.

"And then I forgot the mate of the Torrens until I saw his name in print—Feodor Jozef Konrad Korzeniowski, who wrote as Joseph Conrad."

"Chips" was shanghaled into his first voyage, beaten by a bucko mate, but carved his way into favor with the captain by making a nine foot Aphrodite for the bowsprit.

"As I chiseled the log as the Yarmouth ploughed on through the storm I thought how it would be when at last I went to Paris and could study art; of how it would be to have better tools than the kit of a Finn and to have the great galleries of Europe open to me.

"Toiling there in the lantern's light aboard the storm wracked Yarmouth, I had no thought of what lay ahead of me around the Horn—years of sailing the seas of the world in good ships and hungry ships and ships that rats deserted; years that wrote in the log of my life mad tales of gallant men, of cowards, and of killers, and of three brave women, too.

"One of the women lived through the Banquet of Death, and that was in Rangoon. One grew gray on the sea that burned. And one was the cannibal girl I married."

There's only one adverse criticism of this gorgeous tale of the sea—it's altogether too short. "Chips" has the material and ability to write a dozen volumes. Here's hoping he doesn't stop with this first one.

Chinese Government Assures Officials of Exhibit at Fair

A cablegram from Shanghai received yesterday by Dr. Allen D. Gilbert, assistant to President Rufus C. Dawes of the Century of Progress, gave definite assurances of China's participation in the Chicago fair of 1933.

The message announced that the first of four installments of approximately $25,000 each authorized by the Chinese government for its exhibits had been made available to the government commission.

The Chinese government will occupy a triangular one acre site on the lake front just north of 25d street, and will have a tea garden, where tea will be served free, three courtways typical of a Chinese gentleman's residence, with rare displays, and shops where workers in jade and ivory will be seen along with weavers of silk, and fashioners of fans, umbrellas, lanterns, and other paper articles.

Good Morning!

Meet the newlyweds, Ruth Chatterton and George Brent in the last picture they made together before they became that way!

Sometime, I hope I will become wildly enthusiastic about a Ruth Chatterton picture. That time is not yet.

"The Crash" proves a tepid triangle number built around the flounderings of a lady who feels she can't bear to be poor. Linda runs to Geoff, her Wall street broker husband with tips secured through unscrupulous use of her charms on a certain mighty financier named John Fair. When John smells a mouse and refuses to play any longer, she—well, that's enough of the story for now.

Happy ending? you lisp. [Try it—it can't be done.] Sure. H. E.

Miss Chatterton performs in her usual cautious, rhetorical fashion. She wears some stunning clothes, stunningly. Mr. Brent, personable and clever as always, gives a sincere and direct portrayal that almost lifts "The Crash" from the slough of mediocrity. Paul Cavanagh, keen looking and polished, does considerable with his rôle of "other man" and Barbara Leonard as the heroine's French maid outshines the tar in one or two instances. A most unself-conscious and intelligent young woman! Other rôles are acceptably rendered.

Dialogue is windy. Situations are strained. Direction is quite as good as the story merits.

Summed up, here is just a so-so program picture. I think you will like Mme. Schumann-Heink better.

"THOSE WE LOVE."

Produced by World Wide.
Directed by Robert Florey.
Presented at the State Lake.

THE CAST.

Freddie ..... Kenneth MacKenna
May ..... Mary Astor
Valerie ..... Lilyan Tashman
Ricky ..... Tommy Conlon
Roger ..... Hale Hamilton
Parker ..... Earle Fox
Bill ..... Bert Roach
Mrs. Abbott ..... Cecil Cunningham

This is just another movie. It is a domestic drama, cluttered up with uninteresting incident; is ineffectually acted by a cast of capable folks who are completely wasted on the trashy story and was, I suspect, directed with a yawn.

See you tomorrow!

Girl Holds Her Fiance Through Fear of Suicide

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Wonder if there are many young men being forced into, or who have already been forced into marriage by girls' suicide threats?

The rumor is afloat that all other methods of ensnaring the man failing, the suicide threat is resorted to in more cases than is ever made known. Is marriage the man's responsibility to save a girl from suicide?

Here's "Buddy" with the problem of which we speak:

"I have been keeping steady company with a girl for two years. At the end of the first year I realized I did not love her any more, but when I told her this she threatened to kill herself and the situation is that I'm still keeping company with her. Every time I tell her we can't go on, feeling the way I do, she threatens to take her life. I try hard to make the girl dislike me, but it's no use.

"I've lost 20 pounds worrying about how I can get rid of the girl without the suicide threat being carried out."

Just another one of those fear rackets women play on men, we say, "Buddy!" Not many men can face the idea of suicide as the result of their seeming harsh treatment. Women know this—the suicide threatening type, at least. But we hold that it is a racket and men are not responsible for the girl's death should she call her bluff, as newspaper items indicate she sometimes does. We hold that suicide is a cowardly act under any circumstances.

Under the circumstances named a suicide threat is the lowest form of female attempt to hold on to affections. And no girl worth the price of a marriage license would be guilty of it. The weakness involved in either threat or actual carrying out of the threat automatically lifts the blame from other shoulders.

Life, as we understand it, is not given to us to blot out at our command. Certainly not to be destroyed over an emotional disappointment.

We wouldn't like to see the girl destroy herself any more than you, "Buddy," but we can't see the justice of your being dragged into a loveless marriage by a girl who refuses to listen to reason.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Neil is mystified by the peculiarities of Miss Bundy, who is broken in health and mentally disturbed. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, who with his wife, a common, illiterate couple, occupy the lodge, and hold a strange influence over Caroline. Neil meets Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, beautiful, but fiery tempered, who is Caroline's secretary. He moves to the Bundy estate in Somerset and Caroline puts him in charge of the library in the daytime, cautioning him to admit no one. She tells him her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Neil has a friend, Giles Gisborne, who is vicar of a nearby parish and lives with his sister, Rachel.

INSTALLMENT VII.

A SECRET MEETING.

At 4 o'clock Neil walked over to the vicarage where he found Rachel Gisborne in the garden busy with a trowel.

"You look guilty," she greeted him with a smile. "What have you been up to since last night?"

"Eavesdropping," he confessed solemnly. Whereupon he recounted what had passed in the drawing room between his hostess and the bailiff.

Rachel stared straight before her, with her black brows drawn together.

"I've fallen rather into the habit of eavesdropping," he laughed. "Your dining room window was open last evening, and it's really very close to this bit of garden, isn't it?"

Her eyes met his with amusement. "So you got full benefit of Tasha's tirade, did you?" she said. "Poor child, no wonder she's fed up—all her actions misconstrued and her aunt behaving in the strangest manner! It's humiliating for her to see Carrie becoming so intimate with these vulgar little people and to know that the whole neighborhood is talking about it. Unfortunately I can't give you any explanation of what is going on, and

Rachel must have seen what he saw, for she pulled him along to the window of an antique shop, and directed his attention to a display of Spanish majolica within.

she can't. Only Giles knows anything about it, and as he's sworn to keep silent there's no good appealing to him. I daresay you've guessed that Carrie is no longer friendly with us. A pity, isn't it, after all these years? I don't understand the reason of that, either, except that somehow Giles has managed to offend her. I can tell you just one thing. In the beginning, it had something to do with photographs."

"What sort of photographs?" he demanded, recalling the fact that Tilbury was a photographer.

"I haven't a notion. Giles is annoyed if I question him, and only keeps repeating that Carrie's a fool."

"But is she a fool?"

"Well, not very clever, certainly, but till recently she was sensible enough in a plodding sort of way. She never did anything stupid or irrational, which makes her present aberration all the more puzzling. You can imagine the wild stories that are going about."

"Just what are people saying?"

"Some think she's losing her mind, others contend—don't laugh—that she's infatuated with the bailiff man. Tell me, do you consider him personally attractive?"

"Attractive! Good God! Haven't you seen him?"

"Once, in Glastonbury. Rather an angle worm, isn't he? Not that looks prove anything, and of course women of Carrie's age—and other ages, too, worse luck!—do sometimes bestow their affections in the most amazing quarters. . . . Well, something is upsetting her very badly. According to Tasha she's had some alarming attacks which she tries to make light of. She refused to have the doctor till the Tilburys persuaded her to send for him."

"I saw him give her some medicine out of a bottle."

"Rachel turned on him alertly. "You saw him give her medicine?" she repeated quickly.

"Why, you don't surely think there was anything wrong about it?"

"O, it isn't likely, of course. Besides, there could be no reason for it. I daresay Dr. Graves is right and that it is high blood pressure she's got. But the trouble is Graves has no idea of this other business."

"Oughtn't he to be told?"

"Who's to tell him except Tasha? And if she does interfere there'll be a rumpus. Carrie's very high handed these days. She might send the poor girl packing, and Tasha hasn't a penny but what she earns. Hark!" She broke off as a Klaxon horn honked loudly in the lane. "There is Tasha now, calling for me to take me over to Bath with her. Want to come with us? She's taking one of the dogs to the vet."

"No, no, I'll push off," he declared hastily, feeling sure the girl would not desire his company, but Rachel drew him along towards the gate and cried out cheerfully: "Tasha, my child, your guest has strayed here. Shall we hold on to him, or drive him away?"

Under the edge of a scarlet beret the almond shaped eyes gave him a fleeting glance. He fancied their owner's reserve was melting.

"Come along, if it won't bore you," she invited coolly. "Climb in at the back, but mind Bistre. He's got a hedgehog's spine stuck through his nose and is feeling very sorry for himself."

The Alsatian lay shivering under a rug, but when Neil gently spoke to him his big tail thudded softly on the floor.

Leaving Natasha and her charge at the veterinary surgeon's, Rachel and Neil wandered about the broad streets so celebrated in eighteenth century fiction and finally approached the tea shop agreed on as a rendezvous. The dark green car stood waiting before an archway, but there was no sign of its driver. Half way across the street, however, Neil's eye caught a splash of scarlet well back in the shadowed entrance, and close beside it a man's figure of which he could make out nothing save a well cut overcoat of Harris tweed and a slightly rakish bowler hat.

So the girl had met someone she knew—someone, moreover, in whom she took an interest, judging from the proximity of the two figures and a suggestion of tenseness in the whispered conversation going on. Rachel must have seen what he saw. She pulled him along to the window of an antique shop, and directed his attention to a display of Spanish majolica within. Not till a step sounded behind them did she turn round, with admirably simulated surprise.

"O, there you are!" she cried as Natasha, unaccompanied, met them on the pavement. "How's Bistre? Did the vet get the spine out?"

"Bistre?" echoed the other absently. Her cheeks were the dull red of pomegranates, her eyes bright but thoughtful. "O, I left him being sick after the anaesthetic. I'll have to call for him tomorrow. Come along, let's get tea."

Inside the shop she fell into preoccupied silence, only rousing to refute the half joking charges Rachel made against her for tactless behavior at a recent dance.

"I really don't care what they think of me, Rachel," she stated with perfect candor, "though it Lady Curwood says I was rude to her it's simply because she doesn't like me. In any case, it's quite mutual."

"All the same, if you persist in antagonizing our county notables you won't have a very good time. They've been good to you, you know, and really you might encourage Rupert Curwood a bit. Just think, if you married him you could have a house in Belgrave square, and a yacht, all of your own."

"With a half wit husband thrown in," retorted the recalcitrant one. "For he is mentally deficient—just brains enough for stag hunting, and no more. Why, he thinks because I'm Russian I'm a bloshevik!"

"So you are," declared Rachel promptly. "The worst one I know."

Neil expected an angry denial, instead of which the enigmatic eyes met his, the uncompromising lips twitched, and the girl broke into sudden infectious laughter. Here was a new side of a puzzling character. He felt agreeably surprised that Miss Andreyev not only realized the impression she had made on him, but was quite prepared to view her actions with amusement.

At the same time he wondered, with faint twinges of resentment, about the man she had been talking with just now—the man Rachel knew about and did not want him to meet. Who could it be? By all the signs, it was someone the girl cared about, and unless he were mistaken, the person she had taken him for yesterday. He was very much Neil's own height and build. The matter was still occupying him when the incident occurred which for weeks on end was to keep him wandering in a dark labyrinth of doubt.

As they were leaving, the proprietress padded after them and touched Natasha on the arm. Neil caught a suave murmur, beginning, "Your friend, Mr.——," the name escaped him, and ending, "said you would settle for his lunches, as he was waiting for a remittance to arrive."

The whole thing happened with quick surreptitiousness, but though Neil pretended not to hear he could not avoid seeing the girl flush crimson, and with an air of guilty embarrassment slip two pound notes into the woman's hand.

Build a River for Steamboat at Film Studio

Then Add Tropical Jungle to Waterway.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 18.—One of the most expensive and exacting jobs undertaken by a studio for the purpose of making a film look authentic was Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's stunt of building and operating a river, so big that it actually floated a steamboat under power, on the studio's back lot in Culver City.

The picture for which this was done was "Red Dust," locale laid in Indo-China, with Clark Gable, Jean Harlow, Mary Astor, Guy Kibbee. A great ditch was dug through the shale, clay, and decomposed granite strata on the film grounds.

The ditch had to curve and wind, so that when it was filled with water, and artificially lined with trees and tangled jungle shrubbery, cameras could be directed in any direction from a given spot along the banks, and get so many different views that it would look like mile after mile of forest shrouded waterway.

Once the ditch was dug, the prop men took photos of actual jungle choked streams and reproduced them in appearance, filling the cut with water and lining it with trees, vines, and tropical plants. A series of fire hose lines kept the water moving, so that floating objects would move past the cameras.

After the river was completed, a small river steamer was brought, on trucks, from a Los Angeles harbor boat dock, and lowered into the stream. A steam engine operating its propellers made it possible to get scenes of the boat actually puffing up the river, with actors leaning over the rail, without leaving the studio lot. This is the first time I ever heard of this being accomplished on a studio lot.

Victor Fleming is directing the film. They expect to begin using Jean Harlow in active shots again this week. For a week after she came back to work following the shock of her husband's (Paul Bern) suicide, the director spared her whenever possible, and used Miss Harlow only in long shots, because of the altered appearance in Miss Harlow's features caused by the tragedy.

Parents Tell of Problems They Solve Together

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is pleasant to hear from mothers and fathers when they are jointly tackling this matter of rearing children—and it IS a two-man job.

Perhaps extracts from some of these parents' letters which I have recently received may have some interest for other mothers and fathers who are coöperating in this task. Here are a few:

"My husband and I both read your articles. We are trying for a better understanding in the rearing of our baby girl."

"My little girl is 18 months old and while she i sa dear child she presents as many problems as the average. Her daddy is my every ready helper in her care and training and we often discuss the best ways of handling her. My husband and I are so much interested in bringing up our children. Will you please send us your Informal Study Plan for Parents?'"

"My husband and I enjoy the articles on child management immensely. We want to do some reading together so will you please send us the 'Informal Study Plan?'"

"My husband, who is a doctor, often urges his patients to do more reading on this subject of children. Your articles are a help to us both. Since your ideas coincide with ours, you must be right!"

Horse Show at Dunham Woods.

The words "first annual" on the cover of the program of the Dunham Woods Riding club's horse show yesterday afternoon brought good news to the hundreds who attended the show, for it was such an interesting and successful one that every one who was there was glad to know that it was to be an annual affair in Wayne.

There were fifty parking spaces around the ring, but there were four times that many cars, and the quiet gravel roads leading from the main highways to Wayne were more congested with traffic than they have been in years, probably. One of Wayne's chief charms is its real country atmosphere, for no highway runs through or very near it. And the show yesterday had much of the same attractive country atmosphere.

Mrs. Robert R. McCormick from Wheaton, Mrs. Seymour Wheeler and Miss Elizabeth Chase from Lake Forest, and Perry Dryden from Geneva were the judges for the show which had been arranged by Mrs. Charles West, Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham, and Fred Veysey of Wayne, and Joy Morton II. of Geneva. It wasn't just a children's show, but the children stole it somewhat from their elders, there were so many children and they rode so well and showed such pluck. Betty, the Joy Mortons' 13 year old daughter, and Virginia Richards, the 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arch E. Richards of Geneva, were two of the particular stars, winning the blue ribbon in the class for three gaited saddle horses ridden in pairs, and also being first in the jumping in pairs over two foot jumps by children. Betty was first in the children's horsemanship and the three foot jumps and second in the class for three gaited saddle horses, and Virginia was third in the three foot jumps and second in the children's horsemanship class.

Other Winners Announced.

Among other winners were:

Three gaited saddle horses [ridden in pairs]—Second, F. L. Mills Jr. and H. S. Mills; third, Polly Morse and Martha Tiefenbach; fourth, Perry Zimmerman and Jane Rockwood.

Three gaited saddle horse—First, George Woodruff; second, Henry Cooke Jr.; third, Charles B. Lindsay III.

Jumping in pairs over two foot jumps by children—Second, Jack Dryden and Henry Cooke Jr.; third, Nathan D. McClure Jr. and Hunter Van Sicklen.

Jumpers over three foot jump—Miss Marianne Stevenson shared first honors with Betty Morton; Jack Dryden and George Woodruff were second; Virginia Richards and L. R. Mead were third, and Miss Katharine Bangs and a Mr. Tutrider were fourth.

Members of the summer colony at Lake Geneva also attended a horse show yesterday morning, a small, informal one given by Frederick D. Countiss in his own ring on the summer estate of the family. Young Mr. Countiss exhibited all his horses, most of them from the stables of the late John J. Mitchell, and little Barbara and Larry Whiting drove their pony carts. June and Charles Zimmerman, Henry Isham Jr., and Bobby and Billy Blair also rode and drove ponies. A few of the people who witnessed the show were the Earle Zimmermans, Mrs. Gardiner Hammond, the Henry Ishams, Henry H. Porter Jr., Alfred H. Granger, the Chauncey B. Blairs, Byron Webster, and Thomas North.

Mrs. Ryerson with Mother.

Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson and her four children arrived at home the end of last week from California and are with her mother, Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, in Lake Forest until Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson and young Joe leave the end of this week for New Haven to enter Joe in Yale.

Mrs. James Dunn and her daughter, Marianne, who have been visiting Mrs. Dunn's brother, A. Watson Armour, and his family in Lake Forest, are leaving tomorrow for Washington. Marianne is to go to St. Timothy's school at Catonsville, Md., shortly.

The Armours, whose elder son, A. Watson III., returned on Saturday from an eight months' trip abroad, are planning to come in town to their apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive early next month.

William A. Fuller arrived in town yesterday from about a year's absence in the west, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy W. Fuller, having preceded him home. They joined him in Santa Barbara for the late summer. "Billy" Fuller's son, also named William, is with his mother, Mrs. Ada Norfleet Fuller, at Brioni, after having spent the summer at St. Moritz.

Miss Eliza Campbell is back at the Pearson hotel after a summer's stay at Peace Dale, R. I.

Benjamin Behrs Will Go East.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Behr and their daughter, Miss Edith Behr, and their son, John, are leaving Lake Forest this week for New York to put John in the Hotchkiss school, which he is entering this fall, and to see their horse, Brose Hover, race at Meadowbrook on the 24th for the Meadowbrook cup.

The Kimball Salisburys, who are just back from a two months' visit with Mr. Salisbury's mother, Mrs. Warren M. Salisbury, at Tor Court, her summer place at Pittsfield, Mass., spent the week-end with the John Andrew Kings in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor, who had Mrs. Clive Livingston Du Val's villa, Cliveden, at Stockbridge in the Berkshires for the summer, have returned to their apartment at 1540 Lake Shore drive.

Other news concerning Chicagoans in the Berkshires is that Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Forsyth of Princeton, N. J., are arriving today in Stockbridge for a week's visit with the James Ransom Walkers at Fair Acres, that Wirt D. Walker has returned to Chicago and that Miss Helen Drake and Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, who passed the summer at Falmouth on Cape Cod, are spending a week with Miss Kate Buckingham at Bald Head in Lenox on their way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vail R. Bucklin and Miss Imogene Bucklin of 1415 Astor street have returned from their summer place at Charlotte, Vt. Their plans for going to their California ranch are indefinite, but they probably will spend part of the winter there, as usual.

Miss Anne Ward Willetts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Willets of 442 Wellington avenue, is leaving tomorrow for the Ward Belmont school in Nashville.

Horizontal and Vertical Stripes Seen in Smart Autumn Suit from Bruyere

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The French dressmakers are evidently expecting a long, cold winter. The new suits that are appearing for fall and winter have jackets that are securely fastened and held in place from throat to hem. These suits are facing the cold and dampness of a winter season with a brave front. That they are doing it effectively you can see by the accompanying sketch.

Bruyere, who makes some of the best suits in Paris, is the creator of this smart tailleur. Mme. Bruyere's genius is displayed in the intricate working of the smooth, self-striped woolen used in this suit. The upper part of the hip length jacket has the stripes worked horizontally on the right side and vertically on the left. The order is reversed on the lower part of the jacket. This jacket has a center front closing and silver buttons from the throat to the waistline, which is marked by a self material belt. The full length sleeves have tiny capelets with the stripes worked on the bias.

There is a small, upstanding collar on this jacket, which ties in the center front. The skirt has an inverted center plait, and the stripes are worked diagonally to make a chevron pattern. This suit is in the dark brown, called Van Dyck, featured by this couturier.

In the small sketch is the hip length blouse worn with this suit. It has a self material belt which fastens on silver buttons. A loop of the blouse fabric, which is in white, crinkled crêpe, is brought around, cowl fashion, from the right shoulder to the left, where it ends in a tab which fastens on silver buttons. This blouse has full length sleeves.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Bishop John L. Nuelsen of Zurich, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States, unveiled in the ancient graveyard behind Wesley's chapel in the city road today a memorial to Thomas Rankin, who presided over the first Methodist conference ever held in America. Rankin is buried within a few feet of John Wesley in the graveyard, and the memorial has been provided through the generosity of Henry P. Magill of Chicago, who recently visited Wesley's chapel.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

There is an element of news in the appearance of Fritz Blocki's strange and unorthodox play, "The World Between," at the Adelphi theater. It represents a revival of an old forlorn hope often expressed in the slogan: "Chicago as a producing center." This city is faced with a shortage of dramatic amusement because the theatrical system, centered in New York, has been stricken with creeping palsy, and therefore Mr. Blocki, ardent with ambition, has leaped adventurously to the rescue as author, and manager, too. For this achievement he deserves whatever recognition and reward are the due of the good citizen. He has put a new play into circulation on our somewhat desolate Rialto.

"The World Between" runs true to the tradition of Chicago's creative impulses in the drama; in other words, it is not particularly skillful. In its acting and stage direction it represents professional standards, but in its writing it is the play of a young man trying his apprentice hand at a theme that is beyond his reach.

Mr. Blocki has imagination and permits it to run wild, but in the clear sense of plot construction and the adroit manipulation of story and dialogue that are fundamentals of the playwright's technique he is inexperienced. One may suspect that his future lies in management rather than authorship, for he has brought his immature work to its birth before the footlights in the face of severe difficulties and has exploited it with efficiency.

The play is an extravagant fantasy, mingled with elements of the melodrama of adventure. It deals with the supernatural, and its cast is densely populated with ghosts. Mr. Blocki has undertaken a task that would stagger an entire academy of philosophers, for in perspective, "The World Between" is two hours of conversation about the soul and its survival after death.

This theme belongs to the great poets, the ripe sages, the inspired mystics, and when lesser mortals attempt it, especially in the blunt terms of the theater, dullness is almost inevitable. The loquacity and repetitiousness of Mr. Blocki's ghosts, nearly all of whom are out of the stockroom of masquerade costumes, complicate the problem.

In spite of its weirdness, its Spanish Main atmosphere, its lost aviators, its radio messages and its Zeppelin rescuers, "The World Between" is a dull and dragging play for me. I wish that I could cheer for it, because it is a brave attempt to expand the diminished frontier of the Chicago stage, but I feel that it is in need of prayers.

However, the cast contains certain personalities that have an appeal to playgoers. Here, for instance, is the impressive veteran, De Wolf Hopper, a Gothic cathedral among comedians and a noble legend of mirth, acting the ghost of an old school British barrister. This play marks Mr. Hopper's debut in a serious dramatic rôle, and he is a commanding figure in the uncanny assemblage. Moreover, as he sits on a cannon and conducts a masthead trial of a delinquent ghost, Mr. Hopper crisply recalls his famous Gilbertian manner.

Frank Shannon, as the wraith of a pirate captain, is another stalwart contributor to the performance and is a fine figure of a comic opera buccaneer. Sally Rand, a pretty girl of the cinema, decorates the scene as a ballet girl in purgatory, happily not too much disembodied. Herbert Benze Norton acts Mr. Blocki's strangest character, a sullen ghost of criminal background with long stretches of eloquent silence broken by occasional roars of remorse.

The humans of the story—an aviating brace of lovers who starve to death and join the eerie ship's company—are effectively represented by Elizabeth Day and David Scott. The writing and stage direction of these rôles approach the realm of juvenilia, for which their interpreters cannot be held responsible. Miss Day is a promising and vivid young actress.

To enter into constructive criticism in a large way, I might inform the author that the Sargasso sea, scene of the action, is in the north Atlantic, not the south Atlantic, ocean. Its bearings are 25 to 31 degrees north, 40 to 70 degrees west.

Try Ground Cherries for a Sweet Preserve

They Combine Well with a Tart Fruit.

BY MARY MEADE.

One of the most scrumptious things, at least to my youthfully enthusiastic palate, that ever came out of my mother's kitchen was a sweet, plump, and golden preserve made of ground cherries. I have been asking recently among fellow kitcheneers and discover, however, that very few have even a bowing acquaintance with ground cherries, much less a working friendship—so, here's for an introduction!

Ground cherries—which, by the way, may have strayed into your garden or back lot and be flourishing all unacclaimed—are members of the nightshade family and count tomatoes and potatoes as their first cousins. They grow most enthusiastically in the form of a low, hairy annual which trails on the ground or pokes up its head a foot into the air. The leaves are heart shaped and the yellow flowers bell shaped.

When the flowers have fallen the fruit or berry forms inside of a dried calyx which looks much like a tiny balloon. When the berry is ripe it is about half an inch in diameter, bright yellow, succulent, and meaty. Small garden adventurers await this moment to loot the ground cherry patch and devour the sweetish fruits straight from their self-sealed little bags.

Most connoisseurs of the fruit, however, vote for ground cherries in cooked form, as then they may be combined with some tart fruit—lemon, lime, plum, or rhubarb—to cut the ultra sweetness.

The old timers, by the way, seemed to know more about ground cherries than do we today. At least, literature holds several references to the berry as a cure all. One author reported that a gouty gentleman had quite routed his affliction by eating eight berries at each change of the moon. Today, gout being out of style, we can go ground cherrying for their goodness sake and eat our fullness without the feeling of being medicated.

Besides being eaten raw ground cherries may be stewed till tender with a little water and an equal quantity of chopped rhubarb, sweetened to taste and cooled to make a delightfully different supper sauce or glorifier for bread or cake puddings. Or instead of turning ground cherries sauceward an intriguing new pie may be made with a filling of fresh ground cherries and cut plums—equal proportions. Mix the fruit generously with sugar before putting in the pastry lined pan and add the second crust, pierced several places and pressed well about the edges.

Small tarts may be made with the same mixture, or a ground cherry rhubarb or ground cherry lemon filling may be evolved. The cherries may also be canned quite simply to be used later in pies and sauces.

But, as I avowed so unqualifiedly at the beginning of the column, ground cherries at the height of their glory are ground cherries in preserves. The following recipes are just starters. With the addition of your own choice of tart fruits a score of quite different teasing delicacies may be concocted which will do pleasant things to the most casual little meal.

GROUND CHERRY PRESERVES.

2 pounds ground cherries.
4 cups sugar.
2 lemons, juice and rind.
Grated rind of one orange.

Remove the cherries from their enclosing sacks and wash carefully. Put on to boil with only the sugar and boil gently one hour. Add the lemon juice and the lemon and orange rind and boil thirty minutes longer. Turn into hot sterilized jars and seal at once or into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin. Equal weights of ground cherries and rhubarb may be used if desired.

Joan Crawford a Compelling Young Person

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Joan Crawford in person, as I met her at the photographic studio, proved to be a pair of eyes, a slender body encased in a brilliant green and white Schiaperelli frock with shoes of like bright green, a cloud of longish bobbed very light brown hair—and, again, a Pair of Eyes. Eyes and more eyes! Strange, foreboding eyes, gray pupils afloat on an enormous sea of white. Long, black mascaraed lashes adding to the startling whiteness of the unusual eye formation. Terrified eyes—yes, and terrifying eyes. Eyes that seem to be recoiling from a scene of blood and plain. This, for a long, long moment.

Then, eyes taking on a swift, kaleidoscopic change and seeing a wonder world. Again, eyes with their mask of fright or wonder dropped for a humorous embrace of all the silly troubles in this troubled old world of hers and ours.

This Crawford girl and Garbo, in the opinion of Edward J. Steichen, famous photographer, are women apart from all their kind. Photographically they are inspiring. A hundred pictures could be made of either screen siren and still the many faceted lights of their unusual personalities would not be exhausted.

Crawford, perhaps, is the more amazing of the two, since it was not so many years ago that Steichen saw in her only another Hollywood girl. Today, in a form fitting black velvet gown with winged white jacket of filigree lace, in which she was being photographed, Steichen pronounced her a Lilith (the world's most famous witch). In the next moment (and costume) she was a lady of quality; in the next there was the glamour of a carefree child about her. About the two women, Garbo and Crawford, Steichen, the artist, sees the same "foreboding," fateful element surrounding.

Whether you like the Crawford girl or don't, here is a personality no more to be ignored than Garbo's. She's not pretty in the magazine cover way of many other screen girls I have seen. I don't know if you'd call her pretty at all. She's Crawford with a pair of eyes and five feet three or four of such personality as almost brushes your face, though she pass you several feet away.

She brings me the last hairdressing word from Paris, where they are shingling the back of the heads again and using the front hair for frivolous or fantastic lacquered effects.

"Horrible," she says. "But vastly popular! As ugly as the dead white stockings Chanel's models were wearing with skirts ending where the bulging calf begins."

Alarming to the cosmetic trade, no doubt, is Joan's threatened abandonment of rouge and powder. No more of either for her—ever again, she says. Lipstick and eye makeup, yes. But none of powder and cheek rouge.

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on sweets and desserts. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you are tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

CUBS BEAT REDS, 4-3; ONE GAME FROM FLAG

CARDS' FUMBLES GIVE PACKERS 15 TO 7 VICTORY

Chicagoans Score on Passes.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 18.—The Green Bay Packers defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 15 to 7, today, in celebration of their third successive national professional league championship pennant, which was hoisted to the blare of brass trumpets and the thumping of drums at City stadium, while a drizzling rain drenched the field and 3,000 hardy fans. The victory, however, was due more to the misplays of the Chicago pros than to the superiority of the champions.

HANK BRUDER.

A veteran line, which outweighed and outcharged the Cards' forwards, and in which Joe Zeller, Indiana university star last fall, was the only newcomer, blocked two Cardinal punts in the first period, the second of which produced the two point safety by which the Green Bay boys led Chicago at the half. The Packers, with the strong east wind behind them in the third quarter, added two touchdowns, but the second of these was a gift from Stennett of the Cardinals, who fumbled the ball on a forward pass play. The ball bounced into the scoring zone, where Mike Michalske recovered for six points.

Fumbles Costly.

The first Green Bay touchdown also was tainted. Frosty Peters, one time Illinois player, dropped a Packer punt and Zeller recovered the ball on the Cards' 12 yard line. Even then the Cards might have prevented a score, for on the second play Moore knocked down a Packer forward pass which he might have intercepted. On the fourth down Herber tossed down the center of the field to Hank Bruder, who, unmolested, took the ball and stepped over the goal line.

The place kick by Hinkle on this score was blocked by McNally of the Cards, who had replaced Tim Moynihan at center. The place kick for the second Packer touchdown was successful. It was kicked by O'Boyle.

Going into the final period, the Cards trailed, 15 to 0. They had threatened to score in the second quarter, a pass from Stennett to Hill bringing the ball to the Packers' 27 yard line. However, on the next play, Green Bay recovered a fumble to avert impending trouble.

Cards Score on Passes.

The Cardinals swept down the field by forward passes to score in the last quarter, From the center of the field Stennett passed to Rogge, who had replaced Kassell at end and Rogge was forced out of bounds on the Packers' 14 yard line. On fourth down Rose passed to Creighton, who was stopped on the one yard line. A plunge failed to gain, but on the next try Hill rushed the ball through guard for the score. Hill also place kicked the extra point.

The Cards made five first downs, as compared to three for the Packers. In ten passes the Packers completed two for 34 yards, had two intercepted and six failed. The Cards tried 14 passes, completing six for 75 yards. Four failed and four were intercepted. The lineup:

A WILDCAT, TURNED BEAR, GOES PANTHER HUNTING

Al Moore, former Northwestern quarter back, broke into professional football yesterday as the Bears opened the season with a 26 to 0 victory over the Cleveland Panthers. Moore, who gained some renown as a collegiate artist, gets away for a short gain in the second period. Prachar, Cleveland (No. 80), put an abrupt stop to the advance, however. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

GRANGE IS LOOSE AGAIN! BEARS TRIUMPH, 26 TO 0

The Bears defeated the Cleveland Panthers, 26 to 0, before 4,000 at Loyola field yesterday in the first game of the professional season.

Red Grange, Keith Molesworth, and Harold Ely, the giant of the National league, led the Bears' attack. The game was hardly a minute old when Grange, given the ball for the first time this season, struck off tackle, then cut back, and raced 32 yards to a touchdown. In the fourth period he went 22 yards for his second touchdown.

Molesworth Runs 55 Yards.

Later in the same period Grange tossed a 25 yard pass to Tackwell on the one yard line. Tackwell stepped over the line for a touchdown.

Molesworth returned a punt 55 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Ely, 274 pound line man, broke through the Cleveland line six times to throw the ball carrier and otherwise kept the Panther offense in check.

Cleveland made an advance in the second quarter when it completed a forward pass, Snelling to Andras, for seven yards and its only first down of the game.

Bears Use 31 Men.

Thirty-one Bears, the entire roster, played in the game. Bernie Leahy, former Notre Dame back, making his professional debut, circled off end for 22 yards on his attempt, achieving one of the Bears' 12 first downs. The lineup:

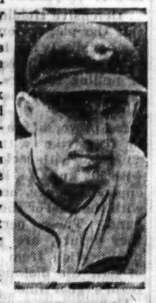
They Don't Come Back? How About Case of Mark Koenig?

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches of Cub players who will oppose the New York Yanks in the world series.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Just about the time you begin to believe that there is something, after all, to the old saying that they never come back, somebody bobs up to give the theory a jolt. There's Mark Koenig, the lad who was suddenly dragged in from the minors to supply the Cubs with the balance they needed to get started on their pennant dash.



MARK KOENIG.

The Detroit club slipped him out of the majors early this season as a damaged article which might be salable in the minors. The Yankees had previously slipped him to Detroit, with regrets, of course, but no broadcast of his physical difficulties.

And now the young man who was considered through is back, leading the Cubs on their happy way and spreading fear in New York that in the impending world series he might help to tear down the same team that he himself once helped to keep invulnerable.

He Never Reads Anything Under Lights Any More.

Mr. Koenig isn't given much to the reading of newspapers or anything else any more. There's a story in that. It goes back to the time when he was a Yankee in the years of 1925 to 1929 inclusive. He was an inveterate reader. He liked to lie in his Pullman berth and read as the train bounced over the rails. He also burned the midnight reading lamp while stretched comfortably in his hotel bed.

Finally there became an unmistakable sign that there was something wrong with his fielding. He'd reach in the wrong place for the easiest kind of a batted ball and nobody could quite understand it.

But some writer who followed the Yanks and observed Koenig's peculiar actions decided that something was wrong and that the something was the athlete's vision. A piece was written for the paper along that line. Koenig read it and then his worries began in earnest. The story made him think he might be worse off than he suspected.

Yankees Send Him to Tigers, and So to the Minors.

The story also caused the Yankee club officials some worry. They stormed that the story might ruin a vulnerable asset. A retraction was demanded. But in time the writer was vindicated. Koenig resorted to spectacles with the hope of keeping himself in major league employment, but it didn't save him.

Koenig went to the Tigers along with Waite Hoyt for Rice, Weustling, and Carroll in 1930. He had hit .292 in 1929 for the Yanks, but as a Tiger he dropped to .253 in 1931. There was the same decline in his fielding skill. Remembering that he had been a pitcher at one time, he tried to take up that department of the trade but it didn't work. There was nothing left to do except release him. The seven other clubs in the league shared the Detroit view that his eyesight had him whipped. So waivers on his service came along and as a special favor he was turned over to his home town club—San Francisco.

Recovers His Batting Eye and Then Cubs Grab Him.

It wasn't long before some surgeon began probing around in Koenig's head. A bit of bone was chipped out here and another chip out there. He suddenly began to hit the Coast league pitchers until he became a menace. His fielding skill came back. And when the Cubs were in need of help they looked over the minor league list of possibilities and decided Koenig was the man wanted.

So Koenig came along just in time to do the "fireman save my child" act. But he doesn't sit up nights reading. He isn't sure whether it was the reading or the nasal obstructions that caused his trouble, but he's taking no chances. Besides, he's afraid he might read another newspaper story that'd scare him half to death a second time.

Koenig went out of the big league on a bad break, but it was the bad break of another that started him in the first time. The St. Paul club picked him up in 1921 and kept him in a minor league farm for a couple of years, advising him before his departure that he had better become a pitcher, because he never would hit well enough to hold a regular infield job. But he couldn't pitch, either, so St. Paul had him back on its hands for the season of 1924 and there wasn't anything for him to work at. But his chance came.

He's Hero of Little World Series to Win Way to Majors.

In practice before the start of the fifth game of the little world series between St. Paul and Baltimore, Oct. 6, 1924, Shortstop Boone of the Saints injured an ankle. St. Paul wanted to borrow another American association player, which it could under the rules, but the minor league bosses ruled that such a step wasn't necessary.

The club was ordered to use Koenig in the vacancy. The manager thought it was the finish of his chances in the series, but he guessed wrong. In his first game Koenig made three hits off George Earnshaw, now with the Athletics. One was a homer for the Saints' only run. The next day

ARE YOU GOOFY? IT'S A BIG HELP IN SPORT WORLD

Mr. Gomez Is That Way—Like a Fox.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—Goofiness has become an art and a business with certain of our athletes, notwithstanding various attempts by executives with no sense of humor to stamp out commercialized goofery as a menace to the solemn dignity of sport.

In the prize fight business Mr. Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis enjoyed a long career as a goofy heavyweight, although he was never half as goofy as he pretended to be. Max Baer of California also elected to portray the goofy type in the ring and the customers were entertained by a display of sublime goofiness when he and Kingfish Levinsky, the logical successor to the cap and bells of Chuck Wiggins, met in a fight this year.

Sox Are Funny Enough.

However, Mr. Wiggins never was allowed to perform in New York City and Baer and Levinsky have been seen but seldom in the jurisdiction of the New York prize fight commission. The commissioners apparently felt that they could attend to this sort of thing themselves in their official actions and resented competition.

In the baseball business, Art Shires was just beginning to endear himself to the customers when the late Charles Comiskey crushed him with a strict order that deliberate levity must cease. Mr. Comiskey took the attitude that the White Sox were funny, if not more so, without conscious effort, and the funnier they were the sadder they made him. This restriction practically ruined the baseball business for Shires, and vice versa.

Goofy Like a Fox.

The Yankee management, however, has been more sympathetic with Vernon [Goofy] Gomez, the young left handed pitcher, and has encouraged him to express himself freely as long as he can continue to win ball games at the rate of 20 or more per year. Mr. Gomez is a professional goof, with an appreciation of the box office value of a reputation for eccentricity, which goes to show that he is goofy like a fox.

The reputation of Lefty Gomez in this respect seems to be founded on no very substantial achievements in the art of goofery. It is true that he affects rather gaudy patterns and color combinations in his dress, but if that is a goofy trait then many of our most noted journalists, financiers and great big pillars of industry must be coupled in the betting with Lefty Gomez. In fact, some of our citizens will argue that anybody who can afford to support a spare suit of clothes in these days must be very bright. Lefty has many spare suits which he hangs in a soundproof vault for the peace and quiet of his neighbors.

June's O. K., Too.

Nor can the fact that Gomez is more or less seriously engaged to marry a young musical comedy actress named June O'Day be accepted as evidence in the case by any one who has enjoyed a gaze at Miss O'Day.

So, all in all, it is not apparent why Lefty Gomez of the Yankees is justified in assuming the title of goofy.

He was a right hander by nature until he fell off a horse and broke his right arm. Natural left handers, according to the theory advanced by Prof. Ring Lardner some years ago, are naturally goofy because they think left handed, if they think. But a synthetic left hander probably does not change his original right handed nature.

When Goofy was sold to the Yankees he was very tall but also so skinny that the scout who found him added a cautious note to his letter of recommendation which said, "He is probably going to die soon because nobody can be that skinny and live. But if you can keep him alive he will probably pitch some very good ball."

Gets Free Eats, Teeth.

Acting on this recommendation, the Yankee management sent Goofy away for a long vacation at their expense and fattened him up considerably. When he returned he was still not strong enough to do his work and complained that his teeth were hurting him. So the Yankees, to protect

SOX LEAD TWICE WITH CHINS; A'S WIN, 4-3 AND 7-4

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

So as to relieve the Athletics of their worries about second place world series money, the White Sox graciously submitted to a double beating yesterday. They made some semblance of effort in behalf of Ted Lyons in the first struggle, but eventually accepted a 4 to 3 defeat, which was close only because of a belated rush that removed Tony Freitas from the scene in the eighth. In the second game they just let themselves be punched around, 7 to 4, a decision which aided George Earnshaw's record.

The extra money involved between a third and second place finisher evidently was a powerful stimulant for the bats wielded by Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons. Foxx aided in Lyons' downfall with homer No. 53 and two singles. Against various pitchers in the second game he tuned in with another pair of singles. Simmons, however, exceeded this performance in numbers although not in length, with a day's total of six singles and a triple.

FIRST GAME

Lyons had to employ his own bat to get himself in front for a few minutes in the first game. Swanson opened the second inning with a single to center, the next two were retired, and Grube caromed a hit off Foxx's glove. Swanson ran home on Lyons' single to left.

This slim lead held up until the fourth when Simmons scored after his own single and two scratch hits by Foxx and McNair. And then Foxx made it 2 to 1 in behalf of the retiring champions by boosting homer No. 53 into the upper left field deck with the bases bare in the sixth.

Walk, Error Help A's.

Lyons invited trouble by walking the opposing pitcher to start the seventh, but the gift would have caused no trouble if Hayes hadn't blundered on what should have been the third out. Two runs grew from the error. After the pass to Freitas, Bishop flied to center. Haas tripled to right, but upon arriving at third discovered that Freitas had stopped there. Haas was retired, thus restricting him to a double. Hayes then fumbled Cochrane's grounder and Freitas scored. Cochrane scored a few moments later on singles by Simmons and Foxx.

Through the good offices of Pinch Man Fothergill, the Sox rose up unexpectedly in the eighth and threw such a scare into the enemy that no time was lost in getting Freitas out of the game.

A pass to Seeds started the uprising. Sullivan flied out and Swanson

PIRATES DEFEAT GIANTS TWICE TO GAIN HALF GAME

New York, Sept. 18. — (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates gained a half game on the Chicago Cubs in their chase after the National league pennant by taking two games from the Giants, 7 to 4 and 6 to 3, today.

The Pirates piled up an early lead in each game and won without much trouble behind the steady pitching of Larry French and Leon Chagnon. In the opener they scored all their runs in the first two innings off Schumacher and Mooney. Giant errors caused trouble for Leroy Parmelee in the nightcap and he finally was taken out in the seventh. Freddy Lindstrom and Johnny Vergez hit homers for the Giants. Scores:

HEMSLEY'S HIT SCORES MOORE IN 15TH INNING

Root Carries On in 12th for Warneke.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 18.—An error by Manager Charley Grimm on the potential third out in the ninth inning this afternoon enabled the Cincinnati Reds to tie the score at 3 to 3 and establish a deadlock which forced the Cubs to play 15 innings before winning, 4 to 3. Rollie Hemsley drove in Johnny Moore from second base with a single after two were out to end the duel.

ROLLIE HEMSLEY.

The belated victory held the Pirates' gain for the day to a half game. Thus the Cubs will return to Chicago early tomorrow morning in possession of a six game lead, with six games to play. Tuesday they will open a four game series with the Pirates at Wrigley field with a double header. If the Cubs win one game of the double bill they will clinch the pennant.

Play Pirates Tuesday.

The Pirates will arrive in Chicago with eight games remaining on their schedule, the four with the Cubs, then four with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cubs will play two more games after the series with the second placers, both with the Reds, who have battled them as they have battled no other team in the league. The Cubs, however, are confident the race will be over before the Reds arrive at Wrigley field.

The game today was one of the most exciting the Cubs have played on the road this year. Neither side could score in the first five innings, but both counted two in the sixth inning, the Reds getting theirs on four straight singles off Warneke after two were out. Previously Lon had held them to two hits.

Babe Herman Helps.

In the seventh the Cubs took a 3 to 2 lead after two were out when Babe Herman's clownish fielding enabled Bill Herman's Texas league single to bloom into a triple, after which he scored on one of Woody English's four hits.

It was three up and three down for the Reds in the seventh and eighth, but Babe Herman made up for his fielding shortcomings by opening the ninth with a triple. He had to hang on third during the course of two infield outs and the third seemed in the making when Bill Jurges grabbed Morrissey's grounder back of second and made a fast throw to Grimm. The ball dropped out of Grimm's glove, Herman scored and the battle was on in earnest.

Warneke Removed in Twelfth.

In the tenth the Reds were halted in a great scoring threat by a double play and a strikeout. Lombardi opened the 11th with a triple, but Douthit, who ran for him, never got home because the next two batsmen couldn't get the ball out of the infield and the third flied out. In the 12th when Lon Warneke left for a pinch hitter the Cubs had the bases full, but Cuyler fanned for the third out. And in the next two innings while Charley Root was carrying on the duel against Red Lucas, each side had either one or two runners on base, only to be stopped short of the plate.

Then came the windup in which Rollie Hemsley for the second time in two games decided things with a base hit. Moore singled in the fifteenth with one out, went to second on Grimm's infield out, and scored when Hemsley singled over second. The toughest Reds went out in order in the Cincinnati half, two of them on circus plays by Jurges and Stephenson, and Root became the winning pitcher.

The Cubs started out as if they

TENNES WINS 2 RACES IN SPEED BOAT REGATTA

Rough Water Upsets Craft, Slows Competition

Horace Tennes, 19 year old Loyola academy student, who last month failed in his attempt to win the Commander Eugene McDonald trophy for the third consecutive year, roared over the choppy waters of an unmeasured course to win two events in the National Outboard association's central division championships at the World's Fair lagoon yesterday.

Tennes, one of the leading amateur drivers in the United States, sped at the rate of approximately 36 miles an hour over the rough waters to win the class B event and later captured the class F race. He was the only finisher in the latter race and the victory brought him the highest point total for the day. Tennes and the winners of other events will compete in the national championships at Bay City, Mich., on Oct. 7, 8, and 9.

Switch Courses.

Rough water and a stiff northeast wind, which delayed the program for two hours, forced officials to change the scene of the races. Scheduled on a regular regatta course in the south end of the lagoon, the events were switched to the north end, where the recording of times for the races was impossible.

The distance for amateur and professional races in the first three classes was five laps around an approximate five and one-half mile course, but it was reduced to three laps after several of the tiny shells had capsized and the surface became rougher.

Craft Burns Up.

The craft caught on fire immediately. Draper was picked up and placed aboard a United States coast guard cutter. He did not race in the event, which was held up pending his rescue.

A veteran and a young driver from Indianapolis dominated the professional events. Hubert Myers, Petoskey, Mich., led the drivers by winning the classes B and C races. He was followed by Arrell Reinking, Butler university student. Reinking, who recently entered the professional ranks after winning the McDonald trophy, finished second in the class A race and third in the class C event. A Chicago driver, Ralph Harrington, took second place in the latter race after leading the field for two laps.

MACCABEES BEAT JUGO-SLAVS, 2-0, FOR 3D STRAIGHT

The Maccabee All Stars won their third straight soccer game yesterday when they defeated the Jugo-Slavs at Kuppenheimer stadium, 2 to 0, to open the Professional league season. The Maccabee scores came on two penalty spot kicks by Huber, center. Carnduff, Slavs' new center half, played brilliantly.

The Brickies defeated the Olympias, 4 to 1, yesterday in the opening game of the season for both teams. The Brickies scored early in the first period when both Cuthburt and Greenlees counted. Peleg booted in the Olympia's only goal in this period. Cuthburt added another goal for the Brickies in the second period, while Monroe collected the final score.

Sparta, Professional league champions, whipped the Ravenswood Scots, new entrants in the circuit, 4 to 0, at Sparta stadium. Sparta fielded its regular team for the first time this season and took the lead early. Vlick J. Nedure and Turik scored for the Spartas while a Scots' player kicked through his own goal to give Sparta its four count.

International league play yesterday saw the Wanderers defeat Hansa, 2 to 1, as Littleford, former Brickie star, converted from two penalties. Vienna defeated the Swedes, league champions, 2 to 0. Other International league scores: Chicago Sports first team, 2; Norwegian Americans, 0. Danish Americans, 2; Linnea, 2. Hakoah seconds, 2; Linnea seconds, 1. ART M'GOVERN, M'CLANE TO HELP COACH DE PAUL

Art McGovern, full back on the De Paul football team last year, will assist in the coaching of the De Paul backs this season, while Everett McClane, guard and captain last season, will aid Ben Conners in drilling the line, Athletic Director Kelly announced yesterday.

Preparations for the opening game of the season will be rushed this afternoon. Three long scrimmage programs last week failed to polish off the rough spots on offense, and another session is slated for this afternoon.

Frosh Game Fails to Solve N. U. Problem

Who will succeed Riley and Marvil, not to mention Evans and Engebretsen, on the Northwestern football team this fall? Even Saturday's game with the freshmen failed to answer this question to the complete satisfaction of the coaching staff.

When the Wildcats play Missouri a week from Saturday there will be two new tackles and one new guard in the lineup. Just who this trio will be is unknown to even Coach Dick Hanley at present.

Gonya on Inside Track.

The fact that Big Bill Riley and Bob Gonya started against the freshmen appears to give this pair the inside track on the tackle positions. Big Bill is a brother of Jack and is the heaviest man on the team, weighing around 230 pounds. He was Jack's substitute last year. Gonya, a 190 pounder, is back in school after a year's absence.

Next in line for the tackle assignments are Frosty Froberg, a reserve from last year, and Ken Zuver, a 192 pound sophomore. Both promise to make strong bids for a regular job. The other candidates include John Huess and Andy Valentine, reserves last year, and Jack Fundis and Ken Stansfield, sophomores.

Dilley Heads Guards.

George Dilley heads the list of guard aspirants. Dilley, who weighs only 175 pounds, played regularly last year. The other candidates are about evenly matched and it will require considerable work to select a starter. All are likely to get a chance to show their ability against Missouri.

Cliff Kinder, 185 pounder, who was a member of the squad two years ago, is putting up a fight for a position. Elmer Anderson has been moved up from the "B" team to join the guard contingent. Four sophomores also seek guard jobs. They are Ed Whalan, Jerry Gottschalk, Al Manasin, and Leon Witkowski.

STAGG SEEKS GOOD ENDS

Coach A. A. Stagg of the Maroons is apparently set with a good backfield and is faced with only one serious problem, the question of ends. Stagg faces his 38th game as University of Chicago football coach with Monmouth college as opposition next Saturday.

The Maroon backfield probably will consist of Vin Sahlin at quarter, Pete Zimmer and Capt. Don Birney at halves, and Juny Page at full. This combination may go through the season as starters. Stagg's line is well provided with experienced material, and will average 190 pounds, with none over 200, from tackle to tackle. Here the problem is whether Ray Zenner, understudy to Keith Parsons at center for the last two years, may not supplant Parsons, despite the fact that he weighs only 170.

As a step toward solving the weakness at the two wings, Stagg has moved Carl Gabel, wrestling captain, who was a candidate for tackle last year until he was incapacitated early in the season with an injury, over to the flank. Gabel and Warren Bellstrom, a reserve last year, started at ends in the varsity-scrubs encounter Saturday and showed well defensively.

Most promising among the newcomers is Barton Smith, 176 pound end from Long Beach, Cal., who is the best pass receiver Chicago has had in several seasons, and has averaged 55 yards in practice punting.

THREE TIE FOR CITY CYCLING CHAMPIONSHIP

Frank Lemajeur, George Carmes and Wally Vertenten, representing the Belgian-American Cycle club, tied for the city cycling championship at Sherman park yesterday, each scoring six points. Lemajeur won the half mile and placed third in the five mile; Carmes won the five mile and was third in the one mile; and Vertenten placed second in both the half and mile.

There also was a three way tie for second place. Albert Byrd, Jerry Huvaere and Ed Triest scoring five points each. These three, together with the first place winners, will compete for the state title Oct. 3, meeting riders from other sections of the state.

The winner of this event will then ride against cyclists from 25 states, later in the month, to determine the national champion. Prior to the race for the state title, Lemajeur, Carmes and Vertenten will compete in a one mile match race to decide the city titleholder.

Balding Leads Oak Brook Four to Victory, 9 to 6

Barney Balding led the Oak Brook Flying Dutchmen polo team to a 9 to 6 victory over the Chicago Black Horse Troop at Oak Brook yesterday. At the end of the fifth chukker the teams were tied at six all, but Balding's three goals in the last three chukkers provided the margin of victory. Paul Butler scored three goals for the Troop.

Clean Tackling May Become Obsolete Under New Rules

(This is the tenth of a series of articles on football. Address all questions on football to the Football Editor, Sports Department, Chicago Tribune.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 18. — The touchdown in football ordinarily demonstrates complete success for the offense. The field goal is a half way measure designed to score when the attack cannot penetrate the defense consistently. The safety, in reality, is a left handed score. It may be considered a penalty on the defense whose misplays or weaknesses have forced it to down the ball behind its own goal line.

The offense, in nearly all instances, scores a touchdown either by running with the ball or forward passing it. The run may be combined with the pass.

Passes Open Game.

Historically modern football was invented 26 years ago. On Jan. 12, 1906, a joint rules committee met and selected the forward pass as the instrument needed to break up the close line play, which had caused many injuries, so many that the game was rapidly losing public favor. The joint committee was organized following a revolt by 28 universities against the accepted style of play.

The forward pass has opened up the game. The rule makers also, with additions from year to year, have compiled a code which protects the players as much as is possible in a violent body contact game. These prohibitions and permissions have been balanced so that the attack does not have an advantage which the defense theoretically cannot meet. Whether it can be met physically, of course, is beside the point.

The rule makers went a step further this year in protecting the ball carrier. Believing that the code did not give sufficient protection to a ball carrier who had been knocked off his feet but who was not in the grasp of an opponent, they put in the dead ball rule and at the same time prohibited the flying tackle except when contact is made at the instant the tackler's feet left the ground. Prohibition of the flying block is protection for the defense.

It has been pointed out repeatedly that the ball will be dead when the runner slips and falls, whether plunging the line or running in the open. More important, perhaps, this rule may change the principle of tackling in the open field.

Changes Tackling Style.

Since the ball carrier is down when any portion of his body other than his hands and feet

INDIANS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER WITH SENATORS

Cleveland Loses Chance to Win Third Place.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 18.—(AP)—Washington and Cleveland split a doubleheader today, the Indians taking the first game, 7 to 3, and the Senators the second, 9 to 2. Although victory in one game gave Cleveland two out of three in the series, the split robbed the Indians of a chance to approach within striking distance of third place.

Willie Kamm hit a home run in the first game in the third inning with the bases loaded. Earl Averill smacked his 32d homer of the season in the second game. The Senators pounded three Indian pitchers for nine hits in the second game. They were checked in the opener by Jack Russell. Score:

Cubs Exceed .500 Baseball on Trip by Two Games

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 18.—The Cubs, who set a quota of .500 baseball for themselves for the final eastern trip, exceeded that mark by two games. Since leaving Chicago on Sept. 4 they have taken two out of three from Cincinnati, two out of five from Boston, two out of three from Brooklyn, two out of four from New York, and two out of three from Philadelphia. Their record is ten won, eight lost for the trip.

The Chicagoans will arrive at the Union station at 7:50 o'clock tomorrow morning, Chicago time. The day will be devoted to estimating the winner's share of the world series, with no baseball practice scheduled.

Guy Bush, who probably will pitch the opening game of the world series, will get a chance for the honor of clinching the pennant. If he beats the Pirates in the first game of Tuesday's double header with the Pirates the race will be over.

Charley Root, who suffered his tenth defeat yesterday, got credit for his fifteenth victory today. The last defeat Charley took before he lost, 9 to 2, to the Phillies yesterday was a 9 to 2 loss administered by the Phillies on Aug. 5. On that occasion, too, Charley came back the next day in a relief rôle and got credit for the win.

The season series with the tail end Reds now stands at eleven victories for the Cubs to nine for the Reds. Last year the Reds won eight out of twenty-two, and in 1930, when their activities with the Cubs and Cards decided the pennant, the Reds and Cubs split the season, with eleven wins each. That year the Reds beat the Cards three out of twenty-two. The Cubs finished the season two games in second place. The Cards were the winners.

Today's game was the last home encounter for the Reds, and they do say it was the last chance the Cincy customers will have to razz Manager Dan Howley.

If You Don't Like Base Stealing You Won't Care for Chapman

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

[This is the fifth of a series of sketches of New York Yankee players who will oppose the Cubs in the world series.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

New York, Sept. 18.—I don't ask you to yell "Ooh" and "Ah" about this, but the best trick in the repertoire of the hero of today's little memory gem is stealing bases. If you don't care for base stealing as a spectacle that is something that nothing can be done about, because, after all, I am just doing my duty, and you can't expect me to make up a lot of interesting pranks and virtues for our hero just to sell papers. We have got ethics in our business.

Our hero is Ben Chapman, the Yankees' left fielder, formerly their third baseman, a southern boy of 24, who came to the club in 1930 and pretty soon had the customers yelling "There he goes!" as he lit out for second base day after day, strutting his speed, which is rated, and probably overrated, at 10 seconds flat, in a baseball suit, including pads.

Last year he stole 61 bases, which was more than a whole club or a couple of clubs were accustomed to get away with in the era of main strength baseball, but this year the catchers have christianized him somewhat, as the saying goes, and his total for the season will be only 40 or so.

Loses Too Many Baseballs to Suit His Employers.

It was odd the way the Yankees got him. The young man was sporting around with some barefoot club down in rural Alabama, where the natives grow thumbs on their feet and spend their evenings yelling emotional doggerel in the glory-be and hallelujah meetings. Somebody told the Yankees they ought to put a halter on this ball player, as he was real good. So they did this and staked him out in Asheville, which was a member of the Little Leaky Roof league. He then hit the ball so hard down there that the cost of baseballs driven out of bounds was likely to bust the management; so the management sent up a yell to the Yankees to come on down and get him.

The Yankees were fixing to reshuffle their infield a little later, and of course they thought of him as an infielder, as this was what it said on the original label. But they were not quite ready for him yet in New York, so they checked him with the St. Paul club, which is a sort of checkroom for the New York club anyway. Up there he hit baseballs away just as lavishly as he had down in Asheville, and the problem of the baseball cost became so serious that for a while they were thinking of adopting a special rule for Chapman to make him come back to the tee and hit No. 3 when his drive went out of bounds.

"There He Goes" and Chapman Steals Himself Another Base.

But then the Yanks were ready for him and he came up to the club in 1930 as a third baseman, vice Joe Dugan who had suddenly come undone after a long career. That year, the Yankees were being freshed up with fast, brash young hands and there developed an amateur rivalry between Earl Combs, Sam Byrd, Dusty Cooke, and Chapman in running the bases and straightaway sprints. They even used to turn out in the morning and run leg races for fun.

And Chapman began to steal bases with his speed. At first his stealing was not very noticeable, but pretty soon the baseball writers were writing little doo-dads about it in their daily essays, and presently the customers found themselves watching for his audacious gallops.

"There he goes," they would yell and there he would go, with a dash and a slide and a gust of brown powder from the skinned ground and roll up to his feet, grinning with another stolen base.

They haven't been yelling "There he goes" as much this year. Base running is one of the subtle arts of the baseball business and it is hard to make a thrilling show of it comparable to the thump which a crowd receives in the presence of a home run. And also the catchers have disciplined him some to some extent.

He was a pretty bad third baseman with great speed forward, but not the right sort of agility for the job and he often overran little grounders, causing trouble for the pitchers. So last year when the Yankees got Joe Sewell for third base they sent Chapman to the outfield where his strong arm and great cruising radius have been a big help, although he still has a tendency to kick them around when they come out to him through the grass, just as he did at third base.

Some fellow sued the Yankees for $40,000 a little while ago claiming that he discovered Chapman and sent him up, but without denying that he was worth $40,000 even in his raw condition when discovered, the Yanks won the suit on the ground that they saw him first themselves.

were going to decide the issue in a terrific hurry, but their promising first inning threat faded out as fast as it flared. English singled with one down and stopped at third on Cuyler's single to right. Stephenson tapped to Morrissey and English was run down between third and home, Cuyler reaching third and Stevie second. Then Grantham tossed out Moore.

Then came the sixth, in which both sides decided to engage in run making. English led off the Cub half with a single to right and took second on Cuyler's sacrifice. Stephenson then smashed a triple to the scoreboard in left center, a drive of some 400 feet scoring English. Moore doubled over Durocher's head, scoring Stevie. Grimm filed to Babe Herman and Hemsley lifted to Hafey.

Inasmuch as the Reds had got only two men to first base in the first 5 2-3 innings, the Cubs scarcely were prepared for what happened after two were out in the latter half of the sixth. After Lucas and Grantham had filed to Moore, Crabtree, Hendrick, Herman and Hafey singled for the tying runs. Lombardi popped to Bill Herman to end the rally.

Babe Stages Funny One.

One of Babe Herman's famous awkwardness tableaux gave the Cubs a vital break in the seventh. Jurges had filed to Crabtree and Warneke had popped to Durocher. Then Bill Herman stepped up and lifted a high fly to short right. Babe Herman came in with all the speed at his command and sought to make a shoestring catch. The Babe missed the ball completely and so great was his momentum he could not stop until he had reached the pitcher's box. Grantham dashed after the ball far into right field, so dramatically vacated by Cincinnati's Mr. Herman, and before recovery could be made Chicago's Mr. Herman had reached third, and, of course, was awarded a triple. He scored while English was beating out a single to deep short. Cuyler then forced English.

There were no more hits until Babe Herman made amends for his aforementioned tableaux by opening the ninth with a triple to right center. Babe was forced to stay on third while English threw out Hafey and Jurges tossed out Lombardi. Morrissey then shot a grounder over second. Jurges made a beautiful play back of the bag and threw the ball to Grimm in ample time to retire Morrissey. But Boss Charley dropped the ball and Babe Herman was home with tying run.

Warneke Wiggles Out.

Bill Herman, English and Cuyler supplied infields outs in the first of the tenth, but Grantham opened the Reds' half with a single off Warneke's glove and Crabtree walked on four pitches. Hendrick grounded to Bill Herman, who chased Crabtree back to first, and threw to Grimm to get Hendrick. Grimm then lined the ball to Jurges at second, who tagged Crabtree to complete a double play. Grantham reached third on the play. Babe Herman was given an intentional pass. Roettger, who had relieved Hafey in left field, was called out on strikes.

The Cubs went out in order in the 11th, but in the Reds' half Warneke had to wiggle out of a jam. Lombardi tripled to right center and Douthit ran for him. Morrissey grounded to English, Douthit holding third. High batted for Durocher and popped to English. Lucas filed to Stephenson.

Root Replaces Warneke.

After Hemsley filed out in the 12th, Jurges lined a single off Roettger's shins. Gudat then batted for Warneke and fouled to Manion. W. Herman singled to right and English walked, filling the bases. Cuyler fanned. Root went in to pitch and yielded a single to Crabtree in the 12th.

In the 13th Stephenson and Grimm singled, but the Cubs could not score. In between the hits Moore's attempted sacrifice was turned into a forceout. Jurges and Hemsley were easy outs. The Reds threatened when Roettger singled to right and was sacrificed to second. But Hemsley ran down the first base line to get Morrissey's foul, and High looked at a third strike.

English Gets Fourth Hit.

With two out in the fourteenth English singled to left for his fourth hit, but Cuyler fouled to Babe Herman. A pass to Grantham was the only disturbance in the Reds' half.

The 15th started with Stephenson lining to Crabtree. Moore singled to center and went to second while Grimm was bouncing out to Hendrick. Hemsley singled to center, scoring Moore. Hemsley stole second and proceeded to third on Manion's bad throw. Jurges filed to Crabtree. Cincinnati was retired in order. Babe Herman filed to Stephenson. Jurges made a great stop back of second to get Roettger's grounder and throw him out. Stephenson made a diving catch of Manion's fly to short left to end the game.

RITES AT GRAVE OF INDIAN WHO SAVED WHITES

Old Cemetery, Raided by Vandals, Is Restored.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

In a quiet grove a half mile east of the Des Plaines river near Lawrence avenue, deeded by federal grant to him and to his heirs forever, white man and red gathered yesterday for rites at the grave of Che-chu-pin-qua, chief of the Ottawas, the Chippewas, and the Pottawatomies. Some 300 persons attended the dedication of the restored Indian cemetery, a gesture of atonement for the vandalism that has tormented his descendants in recent years.

The Stars and Stripes floated at half-mast above the tops of the trees, as this generation recalled the days when Che-chu-pin-qua, known among the whites as Alexander Robinson, stood like a bulwark between their forefathers and his own people.

Recall City's Pioneer Days.

The rites memorialized the days when this modern metropolis was a frontier outpost known to the Indians at Che-cau-gua, and the original Fort Dearborn reared its audacious log block houses on the present site of the London Guaranty building, just south of the Boulevard bridge, challenging the wilderness.

Three granddaughters of the "good Indian" of those vigorous days stood yesterday at the grave of the old chief and wiped away a few tears as the ceremonies in honor of their grandparent proceeded within the confines of the little cemetery, now protected by a stout iron and wire fence, barb tipped.

$500 Monument Stolen.

Remembering the $500 monument she erected some years ago, and which was carried away bodily, except for the granite base, Mrs. Agnes Cooney Brothers of Lakeville, Ind., one of the trio, looked with gratitude on the stout iron padlock and chain that now bar entrance to the site.

Beside her the two Chicago granddaughters, Mrs. Francis Rager Winter and Mrs. Herman Boettcher, whispered their appreciation to the directing spirit of the restoration of the graveyard—Mrs. George H. Heafford, 6738 Cornell avenue. Mrs. Heafford is chairman of the committee of the Grand Council Fire of American Indians that financed the movement to make an Illinois memorial of the spot, and personally directed the activities.

Tries to Avert Massacre.

Eagle feathers ruffled in the breeze and beaded moccasins crossed the grass again where once Che-chu-pin-qua strode, as Whirling Thunder, young Winnebago chief, and Clear Water, a grandson of Big Foot, a famous Pottawatomie chief, in costumes of their tribes, smoked the pipe of peace with the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker, who officiated at the services. The clergyman reminded his audience of the debt of gratitude the white race owes to Robinson for his friendship and heroism of the past.

Chief Robinson did his best to save the Fort Dearborn garrison from massacre in 1812.

It was in the home of the Robinsons in St. Joseph, Mich., that the family of John Kinzie found shelter after the massacre. And it was Robinson and his wife, Catherine Chevalier, who paddled 300 miles to Fort Mackinac in a birch bark canoe with Capt. Heald, commander of Fort Robinson, and his wife, both of whom had been severely wounded, to save the soldier from recapture by the Indian who had released him and regretted it.

RUSSIA DECREES SCHOOLS BE PUT ON HIGHER SCALE

Finds Present System Is Inadequate.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 18.—A complete reorganization of the Russian school system has been decreed by the central committee of the communist party.

One of the most important points of the decree is that it restores the authority of the school teacher to compel discipline among the pupils. Until now, the newspaper Isvestia says, graduates of the soviet schools have been well equipped in communist ideology, but sadly lacking in a practical knowledge of elementary science. Technical high schools and universities discovered that grammar school graduates did not have sufficient knowledge to study courses prepared for them.

Finds Methods Unsatisfactory.

"Not only are the present teaching methods unsatisfactory, but the curriculum of the schools must be entirely changed," Isvestia says. "It is a mistake to think that the restoration of certain studies means a return to the old school. We have discovered that too much emphasis has been placed on teaching socialistic culture and not enough tome given to other studies just as important. We face the problem of taking children of workers and peasants and converting them into highly qualified specialists. The proletariat must form its own technical intelligentsia.

"The present inefficiency of our school system cannot be liquidated without two conditions—first, a stronger discipline and régime in the schools; second, the authority of the teacher must be restored and the teachers must be better paid and better qualified for their posts.

Used Strict Discipline.

"Without strict proletarian discipline and revolutionary order not a single organization can function successfully in a country of proletarian dictatorship. Teachers must not only impart a knowledge of the elementry sciences to their pupils, but must educate them to become disciplined soviet citizens."

The decree reports that instruction in mathematics is especially weak, but attention must also be paid to physics, chemistry, geography, history and grammar. The teaching staff is also blamed for a lack of knowledge in many branches and in order to attract more competent teachers it is proposed to raise their salaries and provide them with larger rations and better living quarters. School equipment is also to be improved. Hereafter teachers will also be provided which special books at reduced cost.

GARNER AT BEDSIDE OF MOTHER; NO HOPE FOR HER RECOVERY

Detroit, Tex., Sept. 18.—(AP)—John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, today won a race against death threatening his aged mother, Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner.

Arriving here at 4:30 p. m. after a hurried trip from Washington, the speaker of the house of representatives went immediately to the home of his mother, who recently became seriously ill. She had been in failing health for many months. Physicians have given up hope for her recovery.

In a coma, the 82 year old woman did not recognize her son when he first spoke to her, but later rallied and faintly acknowledged his greeting.

Among those at the home were Garner's wife and his son, Tully, a banker, who arrived here by car yesterday from their home in Uvalde, Tex.

Garner's mother was born in a rough-hewn log cabin in Red River county, May 20, 1851, after her pioneer parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Guest, had settled in the virgin prairie.

On a farm about six miles from her present home Mrs. Garner grew to womanhood and, like her mother, married a frontiersman, John Garner Sr.

REDUCED WAGE SCALE ACCEPTED BY JOB PRINTERS

Chicago Typographical union, No. 16, yesterday voted to accept the reduced wage scale agreed upon by a committee which acted in a conference with representatives of job printing employers. The employers have already approved the new scale, which will go into effect beginning today. It will terminate March 18, 1933. The vote was 558 for the agreement and 129 against it.

The new scale provides for an hourly rate of $1.22½ for day work and $1.40 for night work. The old scale was $1.29½ for days and $1.50 for nights. Under the new agreement the forty hour five day week will replace the forty-four hour week schedule, with employers having the right to operate their plants six days a week with staggered forces.

Thirty days before the expiration of the agreement committees will meet to reach an agreement to cover the next six months. About 3,500 typographers are affected by the agreement, which was voted on at a meeting in the Steuben building. The agreement provides that no new apprentices are to be registered until Sept. 30, 1934.

Survey Reveals Intoxication on Decline in Wet Finland

BY B. VON ALFTHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 18.—Drunkenness and the smuggling of alcohol from abroad have shown a marked decrease since the abolition of prohibition in Finland. This is the unanimous report of all the district governors of the nation, in reply to a request from the national minister of social affairs for reports on temperance conditions in their respective districts.

The governor of the Helsingfors district says in his report that the importation of illegal alcohol has decreased considerably. In more than half of the police districts, however, the illegal sale of legal alcohol has been going on during those hours when the Alcohol Monopoly company's shops are closed. The number of intoxicated people seen on the streets and the number of arrests for drunkenness have decreased, as against the corresponding period last year when prohibition was in force.

Urges More Rum Stores.

The governor suggests to prevent the illegal selling of alcohol that the Monopoly company's shops should be increased in number and the hours for selling extended. The governor reports not one single instance of intoxication from beer drinking.

The governor of the Hame district reports much in the same manner.

The governor of the Abo district remarks on the material decrease in smuggling activities, which, he says, has ceased entirely in a number of districts. This is significant because the Abo district has the most extensive archipelago and therefore offers the best opportunities for smugglers. A few cases of illegal manufacturing of alcohol have been reported, as hitherto, in some of the remote subdistricts, but this activity has shown no increase. In this district illegal sales of legal alcohol have been comparatively small.

Arrests Show Decrease.

The governor of Abo also reports a decrease in the number of arrests for drunkenness as compared with prohibition days. He suggests extended hours for the sale of alcohol and that liquor shops should be open on Saturdays at least until 3 p. m.

In this district only one case of intoxication through drinking beer was reported. The governor suggests that the sale of beer should be exempt from all the restrictions imposed by the new alcohol law.

From the district of Mekkeli the governor reports a substantial decrease in the trade of illegal alcohol, but trading illegally in legal alcohol is going on. In some district drunkenness has decreased by more than half, while in other districts the decrease is less marked.

Would Limit Licenses.

This governor also suggests an extension of the hours for the sale of liquor, but thinks too many licenses have been granted to restaurants and cafés to serve drinks in public. The governor wishes these to be reduced and suggests an increase in the number of places where beer could be obtained, thus encouraging the use of beer in preference to stronger drinks. There has been no case of intoxication from beer drinking in his district.

A material decrease in smuggling activities is reported by the governor of the Vasa district, although the manufacture of illegal ticohol is still going on. It is pointed out, however, that even in prohibition days this was a negligible factor in comparison with smuggling. The temperance situation remains unchanged, the governor reports, but some traffic in illegal sales of legal alcohol has been observed.

Smugglers Quit Stronghold.

The governor of the Aoland islands district, which during prohibition days was the chief stronghold of smugglers reports an almost complete cessation of smuggling activities. In this district no report has been received of illegal traffic in legal alcohol. The number of cases of drunkenness has materially decreased as compared with the two previous years and about half of these cases had their origin in drinking the remains of old smuggled stocks which will soon be exhausted.

There has been no case of intoxication from beer drinking. The governor suggests that liquor shops be kept open on all working days, except national holidays, from 10 to 4 o'clock, and that people be permitted to purchase as much as the law permits them to keep in their houses. He also suggests that the sale of beer should be subjected to separate and more liberal regulations than apply to the stronger kinds of alcoholic beverages.

Government Plans Changes.

As the reports from other governors, including those of the districts of Kuopio, Oulu, and Viborg, do not materially differ from those reported above, the government is preparing certain changes in the new alcohol legislation on the lines suggested by the governors. The changes will be placed before parliament.

CANADA GETS OIL FROM RUSSIA IN ALUMINUM TRADE

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 18.—(AP)—The Danish tanker Aase Maersk has started unloading 9,000 tons of oil from Russia, the first of a series of shipments traded by the soviet government for about $1,000,000 worth of Canadian aluminum. Crude oil is not among the list of Russian products barred from Canada.

The Aluminum Company of Canada negotiated an agreement with the soviet government for the trade.

An official of the Aluminum company today explained that the Aluminum company will not handle the oil directly. It is consigned to a petroleum company which will refine the oil and place the product on the Canadian market.

DUCE DEDICATES SHAFT TO ITALY'S CAPTURE OF ROME

ROME, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini dedicated a monument today commemorating the capture of Rome from papal troops by Italy in 1870. Osservatore Romano, an editorial organ, which often reflects the opinion of the Vatican, viewed the ceremony as an offense to the church.

Mussolini said the statue could arise only at Portia Pia, "the point where the bersaglieri charged through the pope's troops and broke their resistance."

COLOMBIAN WAR CHEST APPROVED; PASSES SENATE

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The senate unanimously passed on second reading today a bill authorizing the government to arrange a credit of nearly $10,000,000 for national defense. The action was taken after the senate had heard a report on the Leticia incident of Sept. 1 in which Peruvian citizens seized the Colombian Amazon river port of Leticia. The port had been ceded to Colombia in the boundary treaty of 1922.

More than 10,000 persons appeared today in patriotic demonstrations in Bolivar square.

The Peruvian government informed Colombia today that, pending reliable reports, no Peruvian military forces were involved in the occupation of Leticia, and that the movement was purely regional.

MEET THE COUNT! ODDS ARE 19-1 TITLE IS FAKED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Sept. 18.—The "title racket," flourishing successor to the decadent gigolo market, pyramided at an amazing rate along the French Riviera this year. And, an expert says, false titles predominate to the tune of 95 per cent. In other words, the he or she whose name is ornamented with a title or particle 19 times out of 20 is an imposter.

The native society columns catering to an avid clientele abound with notes of princes, dukes, lords, barons, counts, marquises, and their female counterparts, due, some say, to a recrudescence of the exaltation in snobbery of the last century.

Titles Easily Borne.

Patient delvers into the family histories of France assert that there are only 5,000 authentic titles left in France since the revolution. But, there are some 200,000 people who call themselves baron of something or duke of what-not. Self styled nobles are born every minute on the sunny shores of the Azure coast.

They are not only supposed to descend from the old French families whose ancestors had something to do with the Crusades, but there are hundreds whose prefixes suggest lineage of England, Spain, and Italy, as well as slick central Europeans who run their genealogy back to a great great grandmother who had a dash of blue blood attributed to the Bourbons.

Ceremony Effortless.

Acquiring a title is the simplest thing in the world nowadays, since the third Republic does not recognize titles.

Thus, when the gigolo market between St. Raphael and Menton slumped to new lows, many a smart young man decided to try the nobility business which was so prosperous shortly after the war when daughters of American financial giants had a weakness for princely titles.

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale flat "dyed" look. Cannot effect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

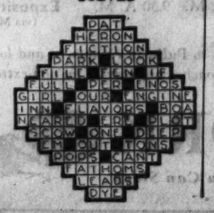
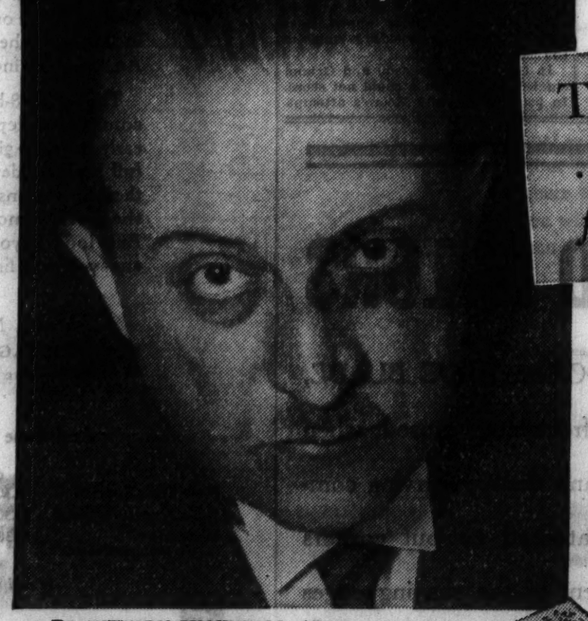
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



Look out for HEADACHES!



They are WARNINGS ... declares this famous doctor

Copyright, 1932, Standard Brands Incorporated

WHAT does a headache mean? Frequently just one thing ... Constipation!

If you doubt that, read this statement by one of the foremost medical experts in Europe, Dr. Puccinelli, director of famous clinics in Rome and Florence, Italy. He says:—

"Poisons ... from an unclean intestinal tract cause ... headaches, bad breath, loss of energy ... general loss of vitality.

"It is really very easy to correct this trouble," he states—with fresh yeast!

Fresh yeast, explains Dr. Puccinelli, softens the food residues in the intestines, "so that they can be expelled easily." It also strengthens the weak intestinal muscles "to normal ... action."

Don't suffer headaches—a coated tongue—listlessness—"that tired feeling"—when it's so easy to banish the underlying cause of these symptoms with Fleischmann's Yeast!

Just go to your grocer's, or to any nearby restaurant or soda fountain and get a supply of Fleischmann's Yeast. Add it to your regular diet—3 cakes a day.

Just ask for Fleischmann's Yeast—the yeast doctors recommend. It's rich in vitamins B, G and D. Directions are on the label.

"I had a headache constantly," writes Miss Patsy Ahearn, of St. Louis. "A doctor had recommended Fleischmann's Yeast to a friend. I started it ... The headaches and sluggish feeling disappeared."

DR. VITTORIO PUCCINELLI, of Rome, Italy, is one of the best known physicians in Europe. He is the head of two important hospitals, and is a noted medical teacher.

CANADA WHEAT SELLING FREELY TO EXPORTERS

Big Surplus Hangs Over U. S. Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

New speculative consumption and export buying of all grains, particularly wheat, is needed to keep the foreign and domestic public in the markets. Eastern interests, that recently took hold and advanced prices almost 10 cents, have dropped out. There were indications, however, of their coming in again at the close of the week after a break of 8 cents from the recent high.

Stock and cotton markets, which led the recent advance in wheat, are now being more or less affected by action of the wheat market.

All grain prices are down to within or near the season's low and in a few instances a decline of ¼ to 3c would probably reach the low records so far this year. Consumption of all grains is at a fair average rate and supplies are large and in excess of consumptive needs.

Surplus Affects Markets.

In wheat the big problem is disposition of the immense surplus. It is estimated by the different statisticians that North America has a surplus of around 640,000,000 to 750,000,000 bu of wheat. There is a demand for Canadian wheat, with about 20,000,000 bu sold for export in the last two weeks. Foreigners, however, were inclined to hold off at the close. American hard winters have been neglected, but are said to be close to an export level.

Canadian farmers are selling their wheat freely, and it is estimated that in the last two weeks they have disposed of around 75,000,000 bu. It is also expected that they will continue to sell freely so long as weather conditions are favorable. Canada raised 445,000,000 bu this year in the western provinces, and 20,000,000 bu in the east. Its consumption is 125,000,000 to 135,000,000 bu, so that on this basis it would have plenty for export.

The Canadian pool has changed, it is said, almost 50,000,000 bu of October contracts to May, and is in a position to market its holding of the latter as favorable conditions appear.

Millers report an active revival in flour buying, their sales being greatly enlarged, which were reflected in liberal purchases of wheat futures in the pit to remove hedges. It was also noticeable that hedging pressure in Canada and American northwest was materially lighter during the past week.

Believe Prices at Bottom.

There is a feeling among local traders that futures in America are nearing the bottom prices, and they are more disposed to buy wheat on breaks.

Russian news regarding future supplies, exports, and consumption are bullish but the trade has had so many different stories that it is inclined to go slow in accepting them.

Open interest in wheat futures in Chicago has decreased about 5,000,000 bu of late, and at the close on Friday was 163,764,000 bu as against 168,430,000 bu a week earlier.

September wheat closed at 49⅞c, December at 53⅛@53¼c; May, 58¼@58⅝c, net losses being 2¾ to 3¼c. Winnipeg suffered net losses of 2⅞ to 4⅝c, October leading, and Liverpool around 3½c. Prices in Chicago for the week follow:

	Sept., old.	Dec.	May.
Monday	50⅜-52¼	54¼-56	59½-61¾

Corn Lowest in Years.

Although there was not as much pressure of cash corn of the 1931 crop from farmers as in previous weeks, speculators who bought deferred futures on reports of exports sales of about 150,000 bu failed to get outside help and after a small rally unloaded, forcing prices lower. Reports from the growing crop, although generally favorable, were more mixed, and it is intimated that husking returns in numerous sections will be disappointing. American corn is selling close to that of Argentine in foreign markets and the trade looks for a fair export business in the near future. At the close sentiment was in the main mixed, with prices 1⅞@2⅞c lower than the previous week. September closed at 27½c, December at 29½@29⅝c, and May at 34⅜c, being within ¼@½c of the season's low.

Prince of Wales to Open Exhibition in Denmark

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 18.—Next week-end the prince of Wales arrives in Copenhagen in connection with the opening of the British exhibition, which is an expression of increasing tendency to buy British goods. About 700 exhibitors will be represented. The prince, who will fly here in a giant new British air liner, will be surrounded by eighty detectives, following his every footstep in Denmark. While the exhibition lasts the whole city will take on a British aspect. Already the hotels are crowded with British commercial people and journalists from London papers.

Japanese Seen in Move to Bolster Soviet Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—[Monday.]—Kojiro Matsukata, a leading industrialist, after a week's negotiations with Moscow, has entered into an agreement with the soviets to purchase petroleum from the Baku oil fields. This is regarded as the first step in a move to replace American and British products in the far east and is looked on favorably here as an indication of a price war from which Japan will benefit.

BROKERS LOCKED IN 'TILL THEY HAD AGREED ON PLAN

Publication of the audit of Middle West Utilities company disclosing the brokerage transactions by which the company sought in vain to check the decline in the value of its portfolio yesterday prompted a banker to discuss the meeting at which brokers declared a truce on "Insull" stocks long enough for all of them to liquidate the accounts that Middle West had with them without breaking the market for these stocks.

It happened in March. Heads of fifteen brokerage firms with which Middle West Utilities company had accounts were herded into a secluded room in a loop bank and locked in. They were told to come to an agreement among themselves on some sort of plan whereby the collateral securing Middle West's debts to them could be disposed of without demoralizing the market.

The stocks involved amounted to more than five million dollars, but the effect of dumping this much stock on the market at that time would have meant much more than five millions.

The brokers argued all afternoon, and at seven-thirty that night announced that they had arrived at an understanding.

"It worked out all right," says the banker. "The stocks were disposed of in an orderly fashion in a slightly rising market. One or two tried to beat the gun a little, but on the whole the plan was a success and the collateral was disposed of in an orderly way."

U. S. Treasury Makes End Meet.

Like most parties with drawing accounts, the United States treasury frequently overdraws. However, so closely balanced were the incoming and outgoing funds of the treasury in its $2,000,000,000 tax day financing operations during the last week that no overdraft on the federal reserve bank was necessary. Ordinarily, the treasury is obliged to overdraw its account at the reserve bank in order to tide over the gap between the immediate payments it must make during the day and its receipts of quarterly taxes and subscriptions to new offerings of certificates. This is the second time in the history of the reserve system that the tax day financing was accomplished without an overdraft. The government's drafts, unlike those of some individuals, are always honored.

Advises Raw Materials Purchase.

That the time has come when corporations should abandon the policy of hand-to-mouth buying and give consideration to a program for the gradual accumulation of raw materials to cover requirements through 1933, is the belief of Standard Statistics. In advice sent to clients yesterday this service advocates such a change and adds that it expects raw materials will register an irregularly advancing trend during the balance of this year and 1933.

PRICE LEVELS DROP TO THOSE OF MID-AUGUST

Maine Election Held a Big Factor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—As a result of the drastic "shakeout" it has received during the last week, the stock market now finds itself back around the price levels of mid-August. The decline, figuring about 15 points on the basis of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE averages, served to erase more than 40 per cent of the improvement scored between July 8 and Sept. 8 and to bring about a corresponding slump in Wall street optimism, lately so rampant.

The market letters sent out by brokerage houses over the week-end are fairly unanimous in agreeing that the list has been undermined to the point where no immediate renewal of the advance can be anticipated unless some sharp stimulus is forthcoming from some unforeseen source. Some of them think the reaction is yet to run its course.

Hope for Stabilization.

Others hope the slowing up of the decline in the last two or three days may be taken to mean that a period of stabilization is in the making and that a resumption of the upward trend can be confidently hoped for in the near future. Most of them look for an indefinite period of narrow price movements and dull trading while the list is getting its balance for whatever course it may take on the next move.

Causes for the market's present plight are not difficult to guess. The Maine election, throwing into greater doubt as it did, the congressional and presidential voting at the November election, of course, heads the list. A drop of 9½ points in the "averages" in two days shows just how seriously Wall street took the threat to the ruling party implied by that upset.

Action in Germany.

The sudden dissolution of the reichstag just when all reports were tending to indicate that the so-called German situation had improved to the point where it need no longer be regarded as a source of international worry was another shock to speculative sentiment. Still a third disturbing factor was the American Legion convention's demand for payment of the soldier bonus at a time when the national deficit is increasing in spite of all the administration's efforts to close the gap and when public clamor for relief from its intolerable tax burdens is growing throughout the land.

The interstate commerce commission's refusal to authorize the full reconstruction loan sought by the "Nickel Plate" took steam out of the railroads and the $12 break in cotton since the issuance of the government's new crop issue on September knocked down still another prop. Trade reports have been negatively discouraging and commodities have provided no nourishment at all.

A Disturbing Week.

Taken all in all, it has been the most disturbing week since constructive forces bent on having the market show the way out of the depression began their big "push" back in the second week in July. And probably at no time since the big break back in the fall of 1929 have brokers and traders been more bewildered over the situation and its immediate outlook.

The new week's calendar forecasts little of market importance. There are a dozen or so dividend meetings on the schedule but the street's indifference to such matters is too firmly fixed to merit more than passing notice for any of them. Politics are possibilities.

The first block was reopened two weeks ago and the sulphate department last week. Approximately 100 former employés have been returned to work.

British Trains Made Faster to Cut Losses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Railways in Great Britain are near the knuckle on the last bone, but in every case the four great lines are meeting competition and shrunken receipts by increasing speeds to a level unknown anywhere else, by improving their rolling stock, and by spending money on such expansions as electrification and widened rights of way.

Twice during the last few weeks governmental departments have dabbled in the management of the lines. But in both cases the British roads are fortunate in finding departmental sanction for changes which they had conceived and in one case submitted for approval.

In immediate effects the government action most important to the lines is the report of the railway pool committee. This sanctions for the next 50 years, and for an indefinite time thereafter on a minimum of 5 years' notice, an agreement between the London Midland and Scottish railway and the London and North Eastern railway.

Serve Industrial Section.

Both lines serve between them the industrial belt of England lying between London and Scotland, the part of Britain where all coal mines, steel plants, cotton mills, and manufacturing centers are found. They have agreed to split receipts on all competitive services, such as duplicating lines between two cities and on virtually all classes of haulage.

The second governmental report is that of a committee appointed to investigate highway competition. Representatives of railroads and trucking

BANKERS RECALL WORLD'S RUSH FOR U. S. GOLD

Then How the Metal Flowed Back!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 18.—The anniversary of the suspension of the gold standard by England on Monday, Sept. 21, 1931, which plunged the world already suffering from a severe business depression into the greatest financial crisis ever witnessed, occurs this week.

The terrific scramble for gold on the part of other nations, set in motion by Britain's abandonment of the six year struggle to restore the pound sterling to its pre-war parity, has come to an end. Only five countries still are securely anchored to the unrestricted gold standard—the United States, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, and Switzerland.

Time to Take Stock.

It is now possible, bankers say, to take some stock of the results of this world-wide fight for gold of which the United States, as the holder of nearly half the world's monetary gold supplies, became the storm center. The redistribution of gold that took place between last September and last June resulted in an increase of 1 billion 419 million dollars in the monetary gold stocks of 27 European countries, most

a Will not revised since 1929

Tangible help in safeguarding your plans for your estate is offered by The Northern Trust Company

THERE is a risk, in times like these, that a man's carefully laid plans for the future may be perilled by his own Will.

Busy and preoccupied, he is inclined to let his Will remain as it is for the present.

But . . . this course may be a dangerous one.

Real hardship to the family—or to some member of it—is likely to result if a Will written three years ago becomes effective today.

In addition to this direct risk, stipulations written into the Will to meet a need of past years may work against the economical settlement of the estate today. Most men, reviewing their Wills in 1932, are surprised at the extent of the changes they find desirable.

In determining what these changes should be, The Northern Trust Company offers help. Its trust officers place their time freely at your disposal. They will be glad to co-operate, both with you and with your attorney. The actual re-writing of the Will, of course, should be left in your attorney's hands.

A usable manual — "Practical Suggestions for Making Your Will"—has been prepared by The Northern Trust Company. Send for this booklet. You will find it of assistance in outlining the changes you want to make.

BONDS ERRATIC FOR THE WEEK; RAILS ARE LIVELY

U. S. Issues Are Steady in Fair Trading.

New York, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Speculative issues furnished the principal high lights in the bond market during the last week, while prime loans generally stood on the side lines and watched the performance.

Trading was inactive except in a few of the low grade rails which, at times, recorded heavy turnovers. Action of the interstate commerce commission in cutting the Nickel Plate's $20,000,000 loan application to about one-fourth was interpreted bearishly and the rail averages slumped two points on Tuesday.

Carloadings Are Factor.

The carriers revived moderately, however, but were still considerably under the prices of Monday. Reasonably favorable carloadings figures, taking into account the Labor day recess and a reiteration by E. G. Buckland, chairman of the Railroad Credit corporation, that there would be no major receiverships this year, aided the convalescence.

The United States government section turned fairly strong in the last two days, partly reflecting the failure of the treasury to call the first Liberty 4¼s, which was legally necessary on Thursday if they were to be redeemed on Dec. 15. Some of the federals registered new highs for the year.

Utilities Are Erratic.

Extreme fluctuations of a few utilities and industrials affected the averages of these two groups, but the better grade loans moved within a narrow range. Bonds of International Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Paramount Publix, United States Rubber, and several other specialties jumped about in an erratic manner. Daily gains or losses of 2 or 3 points were common in many of these issues.

Foreign obligations were mostly firm. French bonds improved as it became certain the chamber would approve the government's huge conversion scheme. German issues were nervous in view of political uncertainties in the reich. The Argentines advanced substantially and a number of Japanese loans rallied. British and Canadian loans were steady.

Letters

On Railroads.

La Porte, Ind., Sept. 11.—Under the head, "Coolidge May Head Bank-Backed Group to Study Railways," in today's TRIBUNE I note that an effort is to be made to solve the railroad problems—that this group will endeavor to recommend to congress definite remedies following their study and investigation.

This problem has, to a large extent, I believe, the interest of the majority of our people. Every one seems anxious to help except the railroads themselves.

One needs only to travel about a bit to understand the rapid turn of travel revenue to other means of transportation, buses, trucks, airplanes, personal cars, etc. The railroads really do not deserve attention or assistance—they seem to have adopted an attitude of mental lethargy—let the customer supply the remedy if there is to be a remedy.

The public, I believe, is ready to accept this challenge, this invitation, and if given the opportunity will drive the railroads to supplying the service that will be their salvation.

A suggestion to this new commission: There is nobody so well fitted to the securing of an unbiased report on railroad conditions, rail traffic, public sentiment toward the railroads, from both a passenger and freight angle, than our commercial traveling men.

I further believe that practically all commercial houses would be glad to cooperate through the medium of their men who cover every nook and corner of the United States, for a remedy for the railroads would be in a large degree a remedy of all business.

A clearing house set up by the commission would function to the extent of relieving all companies and their men of "red tape" and details of the investigation. The traveling men would merely supply the facts of their individual observations, the analysis, gathering of the reports, and compilation of all data and the furnishing of the complete picture of conditions on a national basis would be supplied by the so-called clearing house of the commission.

This is merely a suggestion. If you believe it of value to the body being formed you may wish to forward it to them. Yours very truly,

J. F. DONNELLY.

Car Loadings as Barometer.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 15.—Why do financial writers pay so much attention to railway freight car loadings in their discussions of business prospects? In traveling about through the country I have observed an increasing number of trucks on the public highways, and it seems to me that freight car loadings do not provide the accurate business barometer they did in former years. A great many of the motor trucks one sees are privately owned and they are undoubtedly taking a large part of the railroads' business that will never be restored unless they are taxed heavily. D. L. McC.

BONDHOLDERS OF LEAVITT BLOCK FORM COMMITTEE

Call Meeting to Effect a Reorganization.

BY AL CHASE.

Bondholders in the three story apartment building, at 6526-32 North Clark street, tiring of delays, have decided to take reorganization matters into their own hands and yesterday it was announced that the Leavitt Block Bondholders' committee had been formed. This new group has called a meeting for all owners of bonds this [Monday] evening at the home of George Diskin, 1104 North Oakley boulevard, to discuss reorganization of the defaulted bond issue.

The original first mortgage bond issue of $70,000 was underwritten by the Schiff bank. So few bonds were deposited with the regular Schiff bondholders' protective committee, however, that the bondholders have formed their own committee composed of Louis Boratsky of 3439 West 16th street; Philip Craven of 1103 North Western avenue; George Diskin of 1104 North Oakley boulevard; Meyer Gordon of 4208 Cottage Grove avenue and Abe Kochefsky of 1528 South Lawndale avenue.

In Receiver's Hands.

The building has been in the hands of a receiver, Horace G. Lindheimer, for the last fourteen months. Collections of the receiver to April 1, 1932, were $3,967 and disbursements $2,514, it is stated. Nothing has been paid by the receiver on real estate taxes, which amount to $4,710, according to the new committee.

The Chicago Title and Trust company is trustee of the first mortgage and also is trustee under a second mortgage of $30,000. The Liberty Trust and Savings bank is depositary.

Mont Clare Building.

Owners of bonds in the Mont Clare building, at the southeast corner of Grand and Neva avenues, have been notified that again interest has defaulted. A year ago this same thing happened and according to Avery Brundage, chairman of the protective committee, the owner was induced to pay what was due bondholders at the time. Now the interest due Sept. 1, 1932, has not been paid. Bondholders are asked to deposit their securities with the Chicago Title and Trust company. The Mont Clare building contains a theater, stores and flats. The original bond issue was for $256,000, and was underwritten by H. O. Stone & Co.

Bondholders in the Glengyle Beach apartments, at 905-11 Glengyle place, have been advised by the H. O. Stone & Co. protective committee that a decree of foreclosure has been entered and sale of the property has been ordered and set for 1 p. m. Oct. 3, 1932, in the board of appeals room, county building. The Glengyle contains thirty-six flats. The original mortgage of $185,000 has been paid down to $166,500. Default occurred on March 1, 1930.

THE QUESTION.

"To the Editor: I would like to have your advice on what to do. I am a widow with two grown children. We are all out of work; I haven't worked for 2½ years. My only income now is $22.50 per month rent from the flat upstairs which used to be $35 to $40 per month. This year I had to put out a tenant who owed me 4½ months' rent. Then the flat was vacant for a while. The new tenants have been in for two months now.

"I have a $2,000 mortgage on my house. I was to pay $60 interest on the mortgage on Sept. 7 but I didn't have the money so the bank has given me two weeks in which to get it. They also told me that the people who hold my mortgage have complained because I haven't paid my taxes. My 1928 taxes were $195 on which I paid $100 and owe the balance of $95. My 1929 taxes were $166. I protested the 1928 and 1929 taxes through a tax appraisal company at 228 North La Salle street. I paid them $125 to apply on my 1929 taxes. They gave me a receipt for that amount but they did not apply it on my taxes. The firm is now disbanded and the head of it is in jail. What can I do about the money I gave them. My 1930 taxes are $172 which I have neither paid nor protested.

"Here is a minimum valuation of my property: $5,000, land value of corner lot; $4,000, 2-flat frame house; $300, 2-car garage, with cement floor; $9,300, total value. I have a $2,000 mortgage on it. Assessments for sidewalk, street and alley pavements, sewer, water and light are all paid. Altogether I owe $492 for taxes and mortgage interest and I haven't the money to pay. What shall I do about it? If you can give me some advice I will appreciate it very much.

M. C. B.

THE ANSWER.

In these abnormal times the operating policy of various loan organizations has become elastic. Only a few exercise their rights to the letter of the law. Of course, they operate according to the laws governing them, but do not foreclose every time a property owner is unable to pay. Your present condition is only temporary, and we believe if you offered the bank $20 or more on account and made small additional payments each month, the mortgage holder should consent to assist you in working out this problem. Regarding your dealing with the tax appraisal company, we are afraid the money is lost. Your 1930 taxes have been posted for sale. 1928-29 taxes pending court decision. We suggest you write Federal Home Loan bank, Evanston, for loan application.

BRITISH TRAINS MADE FASTER TO CUT LOSSES

Traffic Pooling Allowed by Government.

companies sat with an independent chairman. They wrote a unanimous report which recommends steep increases in taxation on road freight and passenger vehicles to equalize the overhead between costly railways and tax supported highways.

This eventually will prove the more important of the two, for the railways here are undercut by bus lines and motor freight companies as much as those in America. Highway competition, added to industrial decline and other factors, has helped to squeeze the railroads so hard that profit almost disappears.

Speed Up Train Service.

In the face of a steady retrograde, British railways have established during the last summer the most remarkable set of time tables in Europe, and probably in the world. Distances are shorter, but its aggregate speed mileage per day is claimed as a world record by the Great Western railway and the all time record for maintaining schedules is held by the Southern.

The Great Western claims to be the fastest line in the world. It calls the Cheltenham Flier, which does the 77¼ miles between Swindon and London every day in 67 minutes by time table, at an average of 69.18 miles an hour, the fastest train anywhere.

This scheduled speed of the Cheltenham flyer is to be stepped up shortly so that its time table run for the distance will exceed 70 miles an hour. The train gained the record speed of 81.6 miles an hour for the distance last June 6 when it did the run in 56 minutes and 47 seconds.

On the Great Western system 68 trains cover 5,500 miles daily at a speed in excess of 55 miles an hour. Twelve trains are scheduled to run daily at average speeds above 60 miles an hour.

In the three issues of the Great Western time table covering a period of just over two years there was a saving in time of 2,752 minutes daily up to last July, when fresh bursts of speed lopped another 6,553 minutes from the daily running time. Over three years the saving in the scheduled running times of all trains amounts to about 10,000 minutes daily, or better than 165 hours. This reaches the staggering total of 60,225 hours or the equivalent of some 2,500 days in a year.

Defy Reduced Earnings.

All these improvements were carried out at a time when receipts were falling steadily. The Great Western is one of two lines in Britain to declare a dividend on the common stock, an interim payment at midsummer of one-half of one per cent, as compared with 1½ per cent the year before.

The London Midland and Scottish railway is linked so closely with the London North Eastern that tickets are interchangeable on the two lines, and a round trip ticket between most stations in their area is good on either. They remain separate entities in capital and management, but have just carried out numerous simultaneous and noncompetitive accelerations.

The two most famous trains in Britain, the Royal Scot run by the L. M. S. to Glasgow, and the Flying Scotsman by the L. N. E. R. to Edinburgh, have both been speeded up considerably during the present year.

Faster Freight Service.

Higher speeds were also enforced for freight services, however, and the L. M. S. distribution of merchandise is 2,552 minutes faster each day than a year ago. The new timing of freight trains introduced one day transits for goods of all kinds between the important centers of the country.

Another pooling arrangement has long been in effect between the Great Western and the Southern, some of whose lines overlap in Cornwall and North Devonshire, southwest England.

Trains on the Southern have relatively short runs. It has as exclusive territory the southeastern channel ports, and much of its passenger traffic comes through vacation excursions and commutation suburban services. In spite of less scope to speed up schedules the Southern has effected time saving accelerations during the last year which amounted to 1,272 minutes or more than 21 hours daily. The Southern runs nearly 200,000 passenger trains monthly, and recently gained a world record for punctuality by bringing them all in on an average for a month of less than 30 seconds late. The Southern freight trains at the same time averaged less than 5 minutes late.

ANY AVERAGE MAN

Believes in his heart he should be given an opportunity to at least make an income big enough to assure himself and family freedom from financial worry.

No doubt you have looked at many flowery propositions where you were promised all kinds of things, but where real results were hard to get. If so, spend enough time to find how we are succeeding, and how we can help you toward success. We are not making any rash promises, except that ours is a most substantial business with the highest rating possible, where men are succeeding, and a business that each month this year has shown a substantial increase. In August our business was 43% ahead of July.

Immediate earnings for you are important. Your future is important. A business you would like is important. So in fairness to yourself, spend whatever time is necessary and find out how you can and will make good with us.

Association with a real live organization will set you back in line and the training we give will enable any man to step on and do things. Success in action is first success in thought, so think success today by investigating the possibilities for you in our business.

At Room 1016 Mather Tower Bldg., two meetings for employment will be held today, one at 10:00 A. M., the other at 12:00 Noon. Please be prompt at times stated.

But No

"Concession Tax"

That is what we aim to accomplish for Chicago's Great Renting Public.

We could give you six months of concessions if for the other six months you paid double the rent rate.

But we do not believe in the "concession tax" idea and for that reason do not offer such concessions.

As a matter of fact, our aim is to point out the unsoundness of the practice with the following thought: WHEN YOU GET A CONCESSION IN RENT YOU PAY FOR IT.

We will continue to expose the "Concession Tax" idea, which in our opinion, places a hardship on the great majority of renters.
